TRUMANITES' TROOP PLAN JOLTED

Reds Massing 63 Divisions In Korea

Over 500,000 Troops Gather, M'Arthur Says

U. S. Tank Patrols Fight Off Ambush

TOKYO, Tuesday, April 3 (AP)—Chinese and North Korean Reds are massing the largest number of fresh and seasoned troops ever committed in the Korean war, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said today.

Intelligence estimates figured the reinforcements at the front swell the Red potential to at least 63 divisions—more than 500,000 men.

For the second straight day, MacArthur's communique made pointed reference to the Red massing movements. These were concentrated on the central front where a Communist spring counteroffensive is expected.

But the communique said the huge enemy potential was handicapped by laying open communications, supplies and troop movements to attack by allied planes.

Tactical Regrouping

The communique said:

"The enemy is engaged in a tactical and strategic regrouping of major units which, with the appearance of new units near the front, provide him with a potential strength of at least 63 divisions, the greatest of any period in the Korean campaign.

"Compensating factors are the vulnerability of his communications and his limited logistic capacity."

Ground action was limited largely to patrols.

American tank patrols ranged Monday almost two miles north of the 38th parallel. They fought off an hour-long Red ambush, and withdrew.

Field dispatches reported "several" American patrols knifed back and forth across the old political boundary during the day. They maintained contact with a dangerously large Chinese troops and supply concentration believed to be building up for an offensive.

8,600 Transports Sighted

In five nights, through Sunday the total number of Red transports observed by Allied pilots exceeded 8,600. Fighters and bombers attacked 1,000 of them remorselessly by night and day. Pilots claimed 126 vehicles destroyed and 39 more damaged in operations Monday.

The Fifth Air Force grimly noted that "Communist vehicular movements during the past fortnight has been the heaviest of the Korean war."

The patrols stabbing north of the controversial parallel were doing so within the limits of Gen. MacArthur's instructions. These were to maintain the security of the U. S. Eighth Army as it slowly drew abreast of the boundary.

Associated Press Photographer Jim Pringle reported an attempted ambush by Chinese troops as one Allied patrol rolled into the hilly Redlands, north of Uijongbu. That is on the west-central front.

Pringle said that well placed artillery fire landed directly on hill positions occupied by the Chinese. The big guns silenced Chinese mortars only 600 yards from the nearest U. S. Tanks.

Morrison Urges Peace Talks Now

DUDLEY, England, April 2 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison declared tonight this is the "psychological moment" to negotiate an end to the fighting in Korea. He urged Communist China to cooperate.

At the United Nations in New York, however, high officials said they had no information leading them to believe this is the time to try to negotiate a Korean peace with Red China. All evidence, they said, including Peiping's scornful rejection of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's truce offer and continued ignoring of U. N. peace feelers, points the other way.

In his first statement of "main principles," Morrison who took ailing Ernest Bevin's post last month, said that anyone who did not feel that peace negotiations should be started "is not speaking in the true spirit of the United Nations or of the common peoples of the world."

14 Men Parachute To Safety Before Bomber Crashes

BLYTHE, Calif., April 2. (AP)—A B-29 Superfortress crashed in the desert near Blythe today, and March Air Base said all 14 men aboard parachuted to safety.

Two men received minor injuries when they landed on the rough ground at the foot of the Chuckawalla Mountains in Eastern Riverside County.

Capt. Max G. Thaete, pilot of the bomber, said he ordered his men to jump when the plane's number three engine caught fire.

The huge bomber crashed in flames. Crewmen spelled out the words "men injured" with their white parachutes. Rescue planes dropped medical supplies.

UAW Okays Dues Hike For Strike, Political Funds

$1 Increase Approved After Raucous Debate

CLEVELAND, April 2 (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers union voted itself a $15,000,000 strike fund and a multi-million dollar political action kitty tonight by approving a hotly-contested $1-a-month dues boost.

The UAW leadership pushed through the increase after a raucous debate. The proposal, amending the union's constitution, passed by a margin of three-to-one or better in a show of hands.

Snake dances, noise makers, confetti, foot stomping and catcalls all were brought to bear in the demonstrations following the individual arguments.

But while the opposition matched supporters of the proposal for noise, it was no match for votes. It failed also to win a roll-call on the subject—a move obviously aimed at "embarrassing" delegates who supported the move when they return to face the rank-and-file. Support of a total of 700 of the 2,200 delegates was needed for this and the move gained only 495.

The dues rate was raised from $1.50 to $2.50 a month.

UAW President Walter Reuther and Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey spearheaded the debate for passage of the dues hike. Kenneth Forbes of Saginaw, a former UAW regional director, Paul Silver of Detroit and Carl Stellato, president of big Ford Local 600, led the fight against it.

Asserting there was an urgent need to organize workers, Reuther pleaded for more money to provide "the tools to do a job."

Mazey contended opponents of the measure came to the convention "with a one-point program—to prevent a dues increase."

The anti-dues boost arguments centered around charges that union "pork-choppers" would benefit most from the extra money. This term is applied, in union slang, to any unionists holding non-elective jobs.

UAW leaders have said that, barring a major strike in the meantime, the dues boost would enable the union to build a $15,000,000 strike fund by 1955. That's when all the big auto industry contracts expire. Thirty cents of the $2.50 was earmarked for international union and local strike funds.

Another ten cents would go for "citizenship funds' for "political education." Reuther said this would finance drives to register voters, take them to the polls and the like.

Administration Cuts Tax Need By $6.5 Billion

Only Postponement, Snyder Emphasizes

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—The administration today slashed its tax requirements by $6,500,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

But Secretary of the Treasury Snyder made it plain that this is only a postponement—that another multi-billion dollar installment on President Truman's tax program will be asked next January.

Snyder told the House Ways and Means Committee that a single $10,000,000,000 tax increase—already asked of Congress—will be enough this year because revenue collections are higher, and government spending is lower, than Mr. Truman had estimated.

$3 Billion Surplus Looms

It now looks, Snyder said, as if there'll be a $3,000,000,000 surplus rather than the expected $2,700,000,000 deficit at the end of the 1951 fiscal year, next June 30.

Snyder said with emphasis, however, that action on the proposed $10,000,000,000 increase "should not be postponed."

"I cannot emphasize too strongly," he told the committee, "that the current budget surplus is temporary and that we must guard against the unwarranted conclusion that it will be maintained in the future."

If Congress provides the $10,000,000,000 by mid-1951, he said, the government's budget should be balanced for the 1952 fiscal year, which begins next July 1.

Spending May Run Less

He estimated that fiscal 1952 tax revenues would be about $3,000,000,000 higher than anticipated in the January budget. And he said it is possible, although not at all certain, that actual spending may run less than previously estimated.

In January, Mr. Truman had figured that spending would outstrip income by $16,500,000,000 in fiscal 1952 unless taxes were boosted.

The new Treasury estimates, based principally on a sharp increase in tax collections, were re-

Truman Urges ECA Extension

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP) — President Truman said today he would ask Congress to give the Economic Cooperation Administration a new lease on life so it can supervise new aid programs "essential to the security of the free world."

The President disclosed his plans as he congratulated the Marshall Plan agency for its part in promoting Western Europe's economic comeback during the past three years.

The $11,000,000,000 spent under the Marshall Plan, he said, have built up "a new spirit of confidence," in Western Europe. But he added:

"There is much to be done in Europe, in Asia, and in other parts of the world, to help the free countries build their military, economic and spiritual defenses against aggression from without and subversion." His message, read by Presidential Assistant Averell Harriman, touched off a burst of applause from several thousand ECA employes gathered to celebrate the agency's third anniversary.

Collegian Draft Deferment Examination Rules Outlined

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—Selective Service named today the 1,000 examination centers at which college students will take tests for possible draft deferment.

At the same time the agency set forth the rules of the examination which will be given May 26, June 16 and June 30.

There was no announcement of the "passing" grades to be required or the scholastic standing which also will be considered.

A Selective Service spokesman said these standards will be announced later.

The tests will be given to draft registrants, who have begun, and plan to continue, their college or university studies, graduate or undergraduate.

High school students and others who are candidates for admission to their first year of college will not be eligible to take the test until they have entered college.

The Selective Service announcement said:

"The test presupposes no schooling beyond the ordinary high school preparation for college.

"Scores on the test will not themselves determine eligibility for deferments.

"Scores on the test, together with evidence of scholastic performance in college, will be used by the Selective Service local boards in considering the eligibility of registrants for occupational deferment as students."

The announcement said all eligible registrants who wish to take the test should apply immediately.

Learn Their Mother Found Dead

Three children of Mrs. Martha Maffettone, found beaten and stabbed to death in her lower East Side apartment in New York City, console each other after learning that their mother had been killed. Left to right are Josephine, 16; Dominick, 6, and Constance, 12. Children lived with their father, who told police his wife moved to a separate apartment a year ago because her health was not good.

"Ike" Formally Takes Command Of Pact Forces

PARIS, April 2 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower formally took command of his scattered and undermanned Atlantic Treaty divisions today, and admitted there are some headaches in getting them ready to defend Europe.

But the confident and smiling "Ike" told a news conference of nearly 200 reporters that considering the magnitude of the problems, all was going well. He expressed hope there would be no delay in defense legislation in the United States.

In his usual breezy and easy fashion, he declared his organization was to "preserve peace" and "help provide an umbrella" over the individual security of the 12 nations in the undertaking.

Eisenhower said the announcement that he has taken over command is a formality in keeping with the old military tradition by which a new commander issues "general order number one" from his headquarters.

By this general order, he took over command of West Europe's defenses at exactly one minute after midnight.

Responding to queries about possible congressional delay in the United States on defense legislation, Eisenhower declared that if any country showed reluctance "to get into this pool of cold water, up to our necks" it would delay the whole preparation of defense.

"My concern is that each nation should show its full readiness to cooperate," Eisenhower said.

To most Europeans, today's formality had a special significance. Through it, all European divisions and naval units turned over to NATO come under Eisenhower's guiding hand. This includes not only defense operations, but training and supply.

Churchill Will Speak In Philadelphia May 8

LONDON, April 2 (AP)—Winston Churchill will speak in Philadelphia on May 8, the Conservative Party announced today.

The wartime Prime Minister has accepted an invitation to deliver the main address at the celebration of the 200th birthday of the University of Pennsylvania library.

The invitation was given by President Harold Stassen of the university.

The announcement that Churchill had accepted the bid to speak at Philadelphia's Convention Hall added that he "deeply regrets that it is impossible for him to undertake any other public engagements while in the U. S."

NPA Directs New Cars Be Delivered Minus Spare Tire

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—If you want a spare tire on your new car, you'll have to buy it yourself.

The National Production Authority directed today that new passenger cars be delivered with only four tires. Purpose of the order was to save rubber for truck, tractor and farm equipment tires.

Several major manufacturers, on their own initiative, already have stopped including a spare tire with new passenger cars.

Today's no-spare edict is part of a general order which cuts by 1,500 tons a month the amount of rubber allowed for civilian use.

An originally planned 7,500-tons-a-month cut was modified after objections were voiced by a Senate Small Business subcommittee headed by Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa).

West Redrafts Big Four Agenda

PARIS, April 2 (AP)—The three Western Powers redrafted their proposed agenda for a foreign ministers conference at the beginning of their fifth week of talks today. But Russia's Andrei Gromyko criticized its omission of what he described as the "dangerous" North Atlantic pact.

"The ministers," said the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, "should discuss this so they can adopt a decision on the North Atlantic alliance and American military bases."

Gromyko complained that the United States has military, naval and air bases all over the world, some of them "around the Soviet Union."

He said these bases have a direct bearing on improving relations between Russia and the West.

Gromyko also objected to other parts of the Western redraft, but officials who were present said he did not reject it.

One Western source said he got the impression Gromyko was caught off balance by the West's new proposition and was marking time until he gets Kremlin reaction.

Jet Planes Catapulted From Carrier's Deck

TOKYO, Tuesday, April 3 (AP)—Panther jet fighters were catapulted from the deck of an aircraft carrier Monday while loaded with bombs, Far Eastern Naval Headquarters announced today.

"The epoch - making catapult launch added a new weapon" to the fleet, the naval announcement said.

European Shield Against Attack Urged By Auriol

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—President Auriol of France told Congress today the free nations must shield Western Europe against attack to avert "the final ruin of a civilization."

The bespectacled French leader addressed an applauding joint session as the Senate took a brief respite from voting on the "Great Debate" issue of sending troops to Europe.

Auriol pledged a fighting effort by France side by side with the United States for "the service of peace and freedom."

Auriol predicted eventual world collective security and outlined a five point program for Russia to accept if Communists really want peace.

Then the French chief of state left for New York, ending a formal six-day visit in flag-bedecked Washington as a guest of President Truman.

Auriol's five-point program for Russia:

1—Respect for commitments under the United Nations Charter.

2—An end to the flow of "daily insults" with which Russia bombards other countries, and to Russian-inspired Communist interference in the affairs of other countries.

3—Permanent control of all armaments by the United Nations; atomic weapons to be limited at first and eventually destroyed.

4—Progressive reduction in all national armies and replacement by a United Nations army.

5—Free speech and free movement of wealth and persons in countries where regimes "have been imposed by force."

Measure, Facing Veto, Would Up Corporation Tax

McKeldin's Finance Plan Is Approved

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 2 (AP)—The Senate tonight voted $300 pay raises for school teachers, but the measure was certain to be vetoed by Gov. McKeldin.

The vote was 21 to 5 to give teachers the increase previously approved by the House and it would be paid by hiking the corporation income tax from four to five per cent.

That tax boost appeared sure to doom the act when it reaches the Governor's desk.

McKeldin has declared repeatedly he will veto any legislation requiring a tax increase.

The final test came after senators killed a move by Sen. Barton (D-Balto 2nd) to go into executive session. Both majority leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) and Sen. Phoebus (R-Somerset) charged this was an attempt to evade the teachers' pay question.

Earlier Sen. Turnbull (D-Baltimore County) had stalled a Senate bill to grant teachers a $200 raise by proposing it be financed by a tax on cigarets and cigars. The amendments he offered caused the bill to be delayed.

Before taking up the teachers' raise, the Senate labored through a mass of bills clogging the calendar. Earlier predictions for adjournment of the session before midnight went out the window.

The House met for a while after dinner, then recessed to wait for the Senate to catch up.

Several times during the evening, Phoebus insisted the Senate take up a proposed bonus for veterans. It was on the agenda but marked for consideration at a late hour. That meant that even should the Senate approve a state-wide referendum on the bonus, the House would have to suspend rules to go along.

Senate Democrats had removed the last hitch to the administration's $163,000,000 budget and, with it, the last technical barrier to adjournment this afternoon. They gave in to the Governor and accepted his device for paying part of a general salary increase for state employes.

Then tonight the Senate enacted the administration's $19,005,000 general construction loan for buildings at state institutions and recreational areas.

The Senate also authorized a $1,000,000 civil defense loan after tabling a series of amendments labeled "pork barrel" by President Della (D-Balto 6th). The charges would have added almost $2,000,000 for construction at state colleges.

By a rapid suspension of the rules, the Senate disposed of several explosive measures on the Legislature's closing-day calendar in the afternoon.

First, county senators crushed opposition from Baltimore City and approved a $5,000,000 bond issue for a new state office building in Annapolis.

Then the Senate passed the bill by which Dr. H. C. Byrd sought broad powers of self government for the University of Maryland.

Maryland's rotational plan of assessing property will be cut from five year cycle to one of three years as a result of legislation enacted during the closing hours of the session.

Condemned Woman Moves Into "Plushy" Death Cell

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., April 2 (AP)—Emma Oliver moved into the death cell tonight. And what a cell. No one around here can remember a condemned prisoner having it so good.

Workmen finished redecorating it today in two-toned green. The cell with a washbasin, sink and toilet, is immense in comparison with those in death row—12 feet by 12 feet. It has flourescent lights.

And Emma can plunk her 170 pounds in a plushy rocking chair and teeter her time away. At night she can sprawl on a comfortable hospital cot. She has plenty of fresh air and some sunlight. There is a little desk.

Reason for these relatively plush surroundings is that the state prison has no facilities to care for a condemned woman. Only two other women have been condemned to death since electrocution became the method of execution in February, 1924. But both had their sentences commuted before they reached prison.

The negro woman has been convicted twice before for murder. She received a suspended sentence several years ago for slaying a woman. Later she served 18 months on a three-year sentence for killing a man.

The death penalty was assessed in San Antonio after she stabbed Herman Cohn to death. Execution is scheduled for May 4.

Senate Claims Right To Limit Commitments

Further Voting Is Put Off Until Today

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—The Senate hurled a surprise challenge today to President Truman's authority as commander-in-chief of the armed forces. It went on record against sending more than four more divisions to Europe without Congress' approval.

The action, strenuously opposed by the administration, came at the climax of the troops-for-Europe phase of the "Great Debate" on foreign policy.

By an unexpected vote of 49 to 43, the Senate adopted the limiting amendment—sponsored by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.)—only two hours after turning it down, 46-44.

Mr. Truman's supporters took a serious view of the setback, even though the amendment expresses only "the sense of the Senate" and is not binding on the President, who contends he has the power to send troops anywhere they are needed.

The setback caused Sen. McFarland of Arizona, Democratic floor leader, to abandon his plan to push the troops-to-Europe issue to a final vote tonight.

McFarland Asks, Gets Recess

Although the Senate had previously agreed to stay on the job until the issue was disposed of, McFarland requested a recess. It was granted by unanimous consent, giving the administration time to regroup its forces before voting is resumed tomorrow.

Support which developed today for the McClellan amendment caused speculation about what would happen tomorrow, when some Republicans plan to press for action that would seek to restrict by law Mr. Truman's power to send more troops overseas on his own initiative.

As amended, the resolution now endorses Mr. Truman's plan to send four more divisions of ground troops to join Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's international army. But it claims for Congress the right to pass on all future commitments.

McClellan's amendment made the grade on the second vote because Sen. Case (R-S. D.), Frear (D-Del.) and George (D-Ga.) switched sides and Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) and Young (R-N. D.), not recorded on the first vote, voted for it the second time.

Sen. Connally (D-Tex.) demonstrated how seriously the administration viewed the change by saying, "I very seriously and humbly beg the Senate not to adopt this amendment."

Lodge Joins Opposition

Sen. Lodge (R-Mass.) joined the opposition to the amendment, saying its adoption would mean that the President would be called on to obtain the approval of Congress before sending a single additional soldier abroad after the four divisions had sailed.

Lodge said its effect would be to make the Senate "an operations branch of the Army General Staff."

McClellan countered that senators who wanted to stand on the original resolution want the President to have "all power" in deploying troops.

Previously the Senate defeated, 62 to 27, an amendment by Sen. Case (R-S. D.) which would have forbidden the service of any American soldier under 20 years old in the North Atlantic defense force.

It also wrote into the resolution an amendment by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) calling for elimination of provisions in the Italian peace treaty limiting that country's military strength.

40,000 Textile Workers Strike

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 2 (AP)—About one-tenth of the South's textile workers struck today for more pay. Management and union spokesmen tonight disputed the strike's effectiveness.

The approximately 40,000 who refused to work scattered factories of five states are members of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO).

The first day of the strike brought no indication when contract negotiations might be resumed. These negotiations, carried on two weeks under a "cooling off" period requested by the Defense Department, collapsed Saturday night. Many of the plants produce war materials.

"I don't see how we can possibly meet the union demand" for a minimum hourly wage of $1.14½," said Clarence Cone, of North Carolina's Cone Mill Corporation.

"Until we know whether our prices will support such costs it is impossible for us to commit ourselves to higher wages," he added. The union says the southern cotton-rayon wage minimum is $1.01½.

Truman Urges ECA Extension

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—President Truman said today he would ask Congress to give the Economic Cooperation Administration a new lease on life so it can supervise new aid programs "essential to the security of the free world."

The President disclosed his plans as he congratulated the Marshall Plan agency for its part in promoting Western Europe's economic comeback during the past three years.

The $11,000,000,000 spent under the Marshall Plan, he said, have built up "a new spirit of confidence," in Western Europe. But he added:

"There is much to be done in Europe, in Asia, and in other parts of the world, to help the free countries build their military, economic and spiritual defenses against aggression from without and subversion." His message, read by Presidential Assistant Averell Harriman, touched off a burst of applause from several thousand ECA employes gathered to celebrate the agency's third anniversary.

Assembly, Nearing End, Votes $300 Pay Hikes For Teachers

Learn Their Mother Found Dead

Measure, Facing Veto, Would Up Corporation Tax

McKeldin's Finance Plan Is Approved

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 2 (AP)—The Senate tonight voted $300 pay raises for school teachers, but the measure was certain to be vetoed by Gov. McKeldin.

The vote was 21 to 5 to give teachers the increase previously approved by the House and it would be paid by hiking the corporation income tax from four to five per cent.

That tax boost appeared sure to doom the act when it reaches the Governor's desk.

McKeldin has declared repeatedly he will veto any legislation requiring a tax increase.

The final test came after senators killed a move by Sen. Barton (D-Balto 2nd) to go into executive session. Both majority leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) and Sen. Phoebus (R-Somerset) charged this was an attempt to evade the teachers' pay question.

Earlier Sen. Turnbull (D-Baltimore County) had stalled a Senate bill to grant teachers a $200 raise by proposing it be financed by a tax on cigarets and cigars. The amendments he offered caused the bill to be delayed.

Before taking up the teachers' raise, the Senate labored through a mass of bills clogging the calendar. Earlier predictions for adjournment of the session before midnight went out the window.

The House met for a while after dinner, then recessed to wait for the Senate to catch up.

Several times during the evening, Phoebus insisted the Senate take up a proposed bonus for veterans. It was on the agenda but marked for consideration at a late hour. That meant that even should the Senate approve a state-wide referendum on the bonus, the House would have to suspend rules to go along.

Senate Democrats had removed the last hitch to the administration's $163,000,000 budget and, with it, the last technical barrier to adjournment this afternoon. They gave in to the Governor and accepted his device for paying part of a general salary increase for state employes.

Then tonight the Senate enacted the administration's $19,005,000 general construction loan for buildings at state institutions and recreational areas.

The Senate also authorized a $1,000,000 civil defense loan after tabling a series of amendments labeled "pork barrel" by President Della (D-Balto 6th). The charges would have added almost $2,000,000 for construction at state colleges.

By a rapid suspension of the rules, the Senate disposed of several explosive measures on the Legislature's closing-day calendar in the afternoon.

First, county senators crushed opposition from Baltimore City and approved a $5,000,000 bond issue for a new state office building in Annapolis.

Then the Senate passed the bill by which Dr. H. C. Byrd sought broad powers of self government for the University of Maryland.

Maryland's rotational plan of assessing property will be cut from five year cycle to one of three years as a result of legislation enacted during the closing hours of the session.

Senate Claims Right To Limit Commitments

Further Voting Is Put Off Until Today

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—The Senate hurled a surprise challenge today to President Truman's authority as commander-in-chief of the armed forces. It went on record against sending more than four more divisions to Europe without Congress' approval.

The action, strenuously opposed by the administration, came at the climax of the troops-for-Europe phase of the "Great Debate" on foreign policy.

By an unexpected vote of 49 to 43, the Senate adopted the limiting amendment—sponsored by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.)—only two hours after turning it down, 46-44.

Mr. Truman's supporters took a serious view of the setback, even though the amendment expresses only "the sense of the Senate" and is not binding on the President, who contends he has the power to send troops anywhere they are needed.

The setback caused Sen. McFarland of Arizona, Democratic floor leader, to abandon his plan to push the troops-to-Europe issue to a final vote tonight.

McFarland Asks, Gets Recess

Although the Senate had previously agreed to stay on the job until the issue was disposed of, McFarland requested a recess. It was granted by unanimous consent, giving the administration time to regroup its forces before voting is resumed tomorrow.

Support which developed today for the McClellan amendment caused speculation about what would happen tomorrow, when some Republicans plan to press for action that would seek to restrict by law Mr. Truman's power to send more troops overseas on his own initiative.

As amended, the resolution now endorses Mr. Truman's plan to send four more divisions of ground troops to join Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's international army. But it claims for Congress the right to pass on all future commitments.

McClellan's amendment made the grade on the second vote because Sen. Case (R-S. D.), Frear (D-Del.) and George (D-Ga.) switched sides and Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) and Young (R-N. D.), not recorded on the first vote, voted for it the second time.

Sen. Connally (D-Tex.) demonstrated how seriously the administration viewed the change by saying, "I very seriously and humbly beg the Senate not to adopt this amendment."

Lodge Joins Opposition

Sen. Lodge (R-Mass.) joined the opposition to the amendment, saying its adoption would mean that the President would be called on to obtain the approval of Congress before sending a single additional soldier abroad after the four divisions had sailed.

Lodge said its effect would be to make the Senate "an operations branch of the Army General Staff."

McClellan countered that senators who wanted to stand on the original resolution want the President to have "all power" in deploying troops.

Previously the Senate defeated, 62 to 27, an amendment by Sen. Case (R-S. D.) which would have forbidden the service of any American soldier under 20 years old in the North Atlantic defense force.

It also wrote into the resolution an amendment by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) calling for elimination of provisions in the Italian peace treaty limiting that country's military strength.

"Ike" Formally Takes Command Of Pact Forces

PARIS, April 2 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower formally took command of his scattered and underarmed Atlantic Treaty divisions today, and admitted there are some headaches in getting them ready to defend Europe.

But the confident and smiling "Ike" told a news conference of nearly 200 reporters that considering the magnitude of the problems, all was going well. He expressed hope there would be no delay in defense legislation in the United States.

In his usual breezy and easy fashion, he declared his organization was to "preserve peace" and "help provide an umbrella" over the individual security of the 12 nations in the undertaking.

Eisenhower said the announcement that he has taken over command is a formality in keeping with the old military tradition by which a new commander issues "general order number one" from his headquarters.

By this general order, he took over command of West Europe's defenses at exactly one minute after midnight.

Responding to queries about possible congressional delay in the United States on defense legislation, Eisenhower declared that if any country showed reluctance "to get into this pool of cold water, up to our necks" it would delay the whole preparation of defense.

"My concern is that each nation should show its full readiness to cooperate," Eisenhower said.

To most Europeans, today's formality had a special significance. Through it, all European divisions and naval units turned over to NATO come under Eisenhower's guiding hand. This includes not only defense operations, but training and supply.

Churchill Will Speak In Philadelphia May 8

LONDON, April 2 (AP)—Winston Churchill will speak in Philadelphia on May 8, the Conservative Party announced today.

The wartime Prime Minister has accepted an invitation to deliver the main address at the celebration of the 200th birthday of the University of Pennsylvania library.

The invitation was given by President Harold Stassen of the university.

The announcement that Churchill had accepted the bid to speak at Philadelphia's Convention Hall added that he "deeply regrets that it is impossible for him to undertake any other public engagements while in the U. S."

NPA Directs New Cars Be Delivered Minus Spare Tire

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—If you want a spare tire on your new car, you'll have to buy it yourself.

The National Production Authority directed today that new passenger cars be delivered with only four tires. Purpose of the order was to save rubber for truck, tractor and farm equipment tires.

Several major manufacturers, on their own initiative, already have stopped including a spare tire with new passenger cars.

Today's no-spare edict is part of a general order which cuts by 1,500 tons a month the amount of rubber allowed for civilian use.

An originally planned 7,500-tons-a-month cut was modified after objections were voiced by a Senate Small Business subcommittee headed by Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa).

West Redrafts Big Four Agenda

PARIS, April 2 (AP)—The three Western Powers redrafted their proposed agenda for a foreign ministers conference at the beginning of their fifth week of talks today. But Russia's Andrei Gromyko criticized its omission of what he described as the "dangerous" North Atlantic pact.

"The ministers," said the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, "should discuss this so they can adopt a decision on the North Atlantic alliance and American military bases."

Gromyko complained that the United States has military, naval and air bases all over the world, some of them "around the Soviet Union."

He said these bases have a direct bearing on improving relations between Russia and the West.

Gromyko also objected to other parts of the Western redraft, but officials who were present said he did not reject it.

One Western source said he got the impression Gromyko was caught off balance by the West's new proposition and was marking time until he gets Kremlin reaction.

Jet Planes Catapulted From Carrier's Deck

TOKYO, Tuesday, April 3 (AP)—Panther jet fighters were catapulted from the deck of an aircraft carrier Monday while loaded with bombs, Far Eastern Naval Headquarters announced today.

"The epoch - making catapult launch added a new weapon" to the fleet, the naval announcement said.

European Shield Against Attack Urged By Auriol

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—President Auriol of France told Congress today the free nations must shield Western Europe against attack to avert "the final ruin of a civilization."

The bespectacled French leader addressed an applauding joint session as the Senate took a brief respite from voting on the "Great Debate" issue of sending troops to Europe.

Auriol pledged a fighting effort by France side by side with the United States for "the service of peace and freedom."

Auriol predicted eventual world collective security and outlined a five point program for Russia to accept if Communists really want peace.

Then the French chief of state left for New York, ending a formal six-day visit in flag-bedecked Washington as a guest of President Truman.

Auriol's five-point program for Russia:

1—Respect for commitments under the United Nations Charter.

2—An end to the flow of "daily insults" with which Russia bombards other countries, and to Russian-inspired Communist interference in the affairs of other countries.

3—Permanent control of all armaments by the United Nations; atomic weapons to be limited at first and eventually destroyed.

4—Progressive reduction in all national armies and replacement by a United Nations army.

5—Free speech and free movement of wealth and persons in countries where regimes "have been imposed by force."

Collegian Draft Deferment Examination Rules Outlined

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—Selective Service named today the 1,000 examination centers at which college students will take tests for possible draft deferment.

At the same time the agency set forth the rules of the examination which will be given May 26, June 16 and June 30.

There was no announcement of the "passing" grades to be required or the scholastic standing which also will be considered.

A Selective Service spokesman said these standards will be announced later.

The tests will be given to draft registrants, who have begun, and plan to continue, their college or university studies, graduate or undergraduate.

High school students and others who are candidates for admission to their first year of college will not be eligible to take the test until they have entered college.

The Selective Service announcement said:

"The test presupposes no schooling beyond the ordinary high school preparation for college.

"Scores on the test will not themselves determine eligibility for deferments.

"Scores on the test, together with evidence of scholastic performance in college, will be used by the Selective Service local boards in considering the eligibility of registrants for occupational deferment as students."

The announcement said all eligible registrants who wish to take the test should apply immediately.

They must get a postcard application from any local draft board, fill it out and mail it in.

Condemned Woman Moves Into "Plushy" Death Cell

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., April 2 (AP)—Emma Oliver moved into the death cell tonight. And what a cell. No one around here can remember a condemned prisoner having it so good.

Workmen finished redecorating it today in two-toned green. The cell with a washbasin, sink and toilet, is immense in comparison with those in death row—12 feet by 12 feet. It has flourescent lights.

And Emma can plunk her 170 pounds in a plushy rocking chair and teeter her time away. At night she can sprawl on a comfortable hospital cot. She has plenty of fresh air and some sunlight. There is a little desk.

Reason for these relatively plush surroundings is that the state prison has no facilities to care for a condemned woman. Only two other women have been condemned to death since electrocution became the method of execution in February, 1924. But both had their sentences commuted before they reached prison.

The negro woman has been convicted twice before for murder. She received a suspended sentence several years ago for slaying a woman. Later she served 18 months on a three-year sentence for killing a man.

The death penalty was assessed in San Antonio after she stabbed Herman Cohn to death. Execution is scheduled for May 4.

40,000 Textile Workers Strike

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 2 (AP)—About one-tenth of the South's textile workers struck today for more pay. Management and union spokesmen tonight disputed the strike's effectiveness.

The approximately 40,000 who refused to work scattered factories of five states are members of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO).

The first day of the strike brought no indication when contract negotiations might be resumed. These negotiations, carried on two weeks under a "cooling off" period requested by the Defense Department, collapsed Saturday night. Many of the plants produce war materials.

"I don't see how we can possibly meet the union demand" for a minimum hourly wage of $1.14½," said Clarence Cone, of North Carolina's Cone Mill Corporation.

"Until we know whether our prices will support such costs it is impossible for us to commit ourselves to higher wages," he added. The union says the southern cotton-rayon wage minimum is $1.01½.

Weather Forecast
Rain ending this morning followed by partly cloudy and cool; tomorrow fair and cool.

TRUMANITES' TROOP PLAN JOLTED

Over 500,000 Troops Gather, M'Arthur Says

U. S. Tank Patrols Fight Off Ambush

TOKYO, Tuesday, April 3 (AP)—Chinese and North Korean Reds are massing the largest number of fresh and seasoned troops ever committed in the Korean war, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said today.

Intelligence estimates figured the reinforcements at the front swell the Red potential to at least 63 divisions—more than 500,000 men.

For the second straight day, MacArthur's communique made pointed reference to the Red massing movements. These were concentrated on the central front where a Communist spring counteroffensive is expected.

But the communique said the huge enemy potential was handicapped by laying open communications, supplies and troop movements to attack by allied planes.

Tactical Regrouping

The communique said:

"The enemy is engaged in a tactical and strategic regrouping of major units which, with the appearance of new units near the front, provide him with a potential strength of at least 63 divisions, the greatest of any period in the Korean campaign.

"Compensating factors are the vulnerability of his communications and his limited logistic capacity."

Ground action was limited largely to patrols.

American tank patrols ranged Monday almost two miles north of the 38th parallel. They fought off an hour-long Red ambush, and withdrew.

Field dispatches reported "several" American patrols knifed back and forth across the old political boundary during the day. They maintained contact with a dangerously large Chinese troops and supply concentration believed to be building up for an offensive.

Night movements of Communist trucks and even ox carts grew at an unparalleled rate.

8,600 Transports Sighted

In five nights, through Sunday the total number of Red transports observed by Allied pilots exceeded 8,600. Fighters and bombers attacked 1,000 of them remorselessly by night and day. Pilots claimed 126 vehicles destroyed and 39 more damaged in operations Monday.

The Fifth Air Force grimly noted that "Communist vehicular movements during the past fortnight has been the heaviest of the Korean war."

The patrols stabbing north of the controversial parallel were doing so within the limits of Gen. MacArthur's instructions. These were to maintain the security of the U. S. Eighth Army as it slowly drew abreast of the boundary.

Associated Press Photographer Jim Pringle reported an attempted ambush by Chinese troops as one Allied patrol rolled into the hilly Redlands, north of Uijongbu. That is on the west-central front.

Pringle said that well placed artillery fire landed directly on hill positions occupied by the Chinese. The big guns silenced Chinese mortars only 600 yards from the nearest U. S. Tanks.

Morrison Urges Peace Talks Now

DUDLEY, England, April 2 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison declared tonight this is the "psychological moment" to negotiate an end to the fighting in Korea. He urged Communist China to cooperate.

At the United Nations in New York, however, high officials said they had no information leading them to believe this is the time to try to negotiate a Korean peace with Red China. All evidence, they said, including Peiping's scornful rejection of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's truce offer and continued ignoring of U. N. peace feelers, points the other way.

In his first statement of "main principles," Morrison who took ailing Ernest Bevin's post last month, said that anyone who did not feel that peace negotiations should be started "is not speaking in the true spirit of the United Nations or of the common peoples of the world."

14 Men Parachute To Safety Before Bomber Crashes

BLYTHE, Calif., April 2. (AP)—A B-29 Superfortress crashed in the desert near Blythe today, and March Air Base said all 14 men aboard parachuted to safety.

Two men received minor injuries when they landed on the rough ground at the foot of the Chuckawalla Mountains in Eastern Riverside County.

Capt. Max G. Thaete, pilot of the bomber, said he ordered his men to jump when the plane's number three engine caught fire.

The huge bomber crashed in flames. Crewmen spelled out the words "men injured" with their white parachutes. Rescue planes dropped medical supplies.

UAW Okays Dues Hike For Strike, Political Funds

$1 Increase Approved After Raucous Debate

CLEVELAND, April 2 (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers union voted itself a $15,000,000 strike fund and a multi-million dollar political action kitty tonight by approving a hotly-contested $1-a-month dues boost.

The UAW leadership pushed through the increase after a raucous debate. The proposal, amending the union's constitution, passed by a margin of three-to-one or better in a show of hands.

Snake dances, noise makers, confetti, foot stomping and catcalls all were brought to bear in the demonstrations following the individual arguments.

But while the opposition matched supporters of the proposal for noise, it was no match for votes. It failed also to win a roll-call on the subject—a move obviously aimed at "embarrassing" delegates who supported the move when they return to face the rank-and-file. Support of a total of 700 of the 2,200 delegates was needed for this and the move gained only 495.

The dues rate was raised from $1.50 to $2.50 a month.

UAW President Walter Reuther and Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey spearheaded the debate for passage of the dues hike. Kenneth Forbes of Saginaw, a former UAW regional director, Paul Silver of Detroit and Carl Stellato, president of big Ford Local 600, led the fight against it.

Asserting there was an urgent need to organize workers, Reuther pleaded for more money to provide "the tools to do a job."

Mazey contended opponents of the measure came to the convention "with a one-point program—to prevent a dues increase."

The anti-dues boost arguments centered around charges that union "pork-choppers" would benefit most from the extra money. This term is applied, in union slang, to any unionists holding non-elective jobs.

UAW leaders have said that, barring a major strike in the meantime, the dues boost would enable the union to build a $15,000,000 strike fund by 1955. That's when all the big auto industry contracts expire. Thirty cents of the $2.50 was earmarked for international union and local strike funds.

Another ten cents would go for "citizenship funds" for "political education." Reuther said this would finance drives to register voters, take them to the polls and the like.

Administration Cuts Tax Need By $6.5 Billion

Only Postponement, Snyder Emphasizes

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—The administration today slashed its tax requirements by $6,500,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

But Secretary of the Treasury Snyder made it plain that this is only a postponement—that another multi-billion dollar installment on President Truman's tax program will be asked next January.

Snyder told the House Ways and Means Committee that a single $10,000,000,000 tax increase—already asked of Congress—will be enough this year because revenue collections are higher, and government spending is lower, than Mr. Truman had estimated.

$3 Billion Surplus Looms

It now looks, Snyder said, as if there'll be a $3,000,000,000 surplus rather than the expected $2,700,000,000 deficit at the end of the 1951 fiscal year, next June 30.

Snyder said with emphasis, however, that action on the proposed $10,000,000,000 increase "should not be postponed."

"I cannot emphasize too strongly," he told the committee, "that the current budget surplus is temporary and that we must guard against the unwarranted conclusion that it will be maintained in the future."

If Congress provides the $10,000,000,000 by mid-1951, he said, the government's budget should be balanced for the 1952 fiscal year, which begins next July 1.

Spending May Run Less

He estimated that fiscal 1952 tax revenues would be about $3,000,000,000 higher than anticipated in the January budget. And he said it is possible, although not at all certain, that actual spending may run less than previously estimated.

In January, Mr. Truman had figured that spending would outstrip income by $16,500,000,000 in fiscal 1952 unless taxes were boosted.

The new Treasury estimates, based principally on a sharp increase in tax collections, were re-

"Ike" Formally Takes Command Of Pact Forces

PARIS, April 2 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower formally took command of his scattered and underarmed Atlantic Treaty divisions today, and admitted there are some headaches in getting them ready to defend Europe.

But the confident and smiling "Ike" told a news conference of nearly 200 reporters that considering the magnitude of the problems, all was going well. He expressed hope there would be no delay in defense legislation in the United States.

By this general order, he took over command of West Europe's defenses at exactly one minute after midnight.

Responding to queries about possible congressional delay in the United States on defense legislation, Eisenhower declared that if any country showed reluctance "to get into this pool of cold water, up to our necks" it would delay the whole preparation of defense.

"My concern is that each nation should show its full readiness to cooperate," Eisenhower said.

To most Europeans, today's formality had a special significance. Through it, all European divisions and naval units turned over to NATO come under Eisenhower's guiding hand. This includes not only defense operations, but training and supply.

West Redrafts Big Four Agenda

PARIS, April 2 (AP)—The three Western Powers redrafted their proposed agenda for a foreign ministers conference at the beginning of their fifth week of talks today. But Russia's Andrei Gromyko criticized its omission of what he described as the "dangerous" North Atlantic pact.

"The ministers," said the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, "should discuss this so they can adopt a decision on the North Atlantic alliance and American military bases."

Gromyko complained that the United States has military, naval and air bases all over the world, some of them "around the Soviet Union."

He said these bases have a direct bearing on improving relations between Russia and the West.

European Shield Against Attack Urged By Auriol

Measure, Facing Veto, Would Up Corporation Tax

McKeldin's Finance Plan Is Approved

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 2 (AP)—The Senate tonight voted $300 pay raises for school teachers, but the measure was certain to be vetoed by Gov. McKeldin.

The vote was 21 to 5 to give teachers the increase previously approved by the House and it would be paid by hiking the corporation income tax from four to five per cent.

That tax boost appeared sure to doom the act when it reaches the Governor's desk.

McKeldin has declared repeatedly he will veto any legislation requiring a tax increase.

The final test came after senators killed a move by Sen. Barton (D-Balto 2nd) to go into executive session. Both majority leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) and Sen. Phoebus (R-Somerset) charged this was an attempt to evade the teachers' pay question.

Earlier Sen. Turnbull (D-Baltimore County) had stalled a Senate bill to grant teachers a $200 raise by proposing it be financed by a tax on cigarets and cigars. The amendments he offered caused the bill to be delayed.

Before taking up the teachers' raise, the Senate labored through a mass of bills clogging the calendar. Earlier predictions for adjournment of the session before midnight went out the window.

The House met for a while after dinner, then recessed to wait for the Senate to catch up.

Several times during the evening, Phoebus insisted the Senate take up a proposed bonus for veterans. It was on the agenda but marked for consideration at a late hour. That meant that even should the Senate approve a state-wide referendum on the bonus, the House would have to suspend rules to go along.

Senate Democrats had removed the last hitch to the administration's $163,000,000 budget and, with it, the last technical barrier to adjournment this afternoon. They gave in to the Governor and accepted his device for paying part of a general salary increase for state employes.

Then tonight the Senate enacted the administration's $19,005,000 general construction loan for buildings at state institutions and recreational areas.

The Senate also authorized a $1,000,000 civil defense loan after tabling a series of amendments labeled "pork barrel" by President Della (D-Balto 6th). The charges would have added almost $2,000,000 for construction at state colleges.

By a rapid suspension of the rules, the Senate disposed of several explosive measures on the Legislature's closing-day calendar in the afternoon.

First, county senators crushed opposition from Baltimore City and approved a $5,000,000 bond issue for a new state office building in Annapolis.

Then the Senate passed the bill by which Dr. H. C. Byrd sought broad powers of self government for the University of Maryland.

Maryland's rotational plan of assessing property will be cut from five year cycle to one of three years as a result of legislation enacted during the closing hours of the session.

Condemned Woman Moves Into "Plushy" Death Cell

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., April 2 (AP)—Emma Oliver moved into the death cell tonight. And what a cell. No one around here can remember a condemned prisoner having it so good.

Workmen finished redecorating it today in two-toned green. The cell with a washbasin, sink and toilet, is immense in comparison with those in death row—12 feet by 12 feet. It has flourescent lights.

And Emma can plunk her 170 pounds in a plushy rocking chair and teeter her time away. At night she can sprawl on a comfortable hospital cot. She has plenty of fresh air and some sunlight. There is a little desk.

Reason for these relatively plush surroundings is that the state prison has no facilities to care for a condemned woman. Only two other women have been condemned to death since electrocution became the method of execution in February, 1924. But both had their sentences commuted before they reached prison.

The negro woman has been convicted twice before for murder. She received a suspended sentence several years ago for slaying a woman. Later she served 18 months on a three-year sentence for killing a man.

The death penalty was assessed in San Antonio after she stabbed Herman Cohn to death. Execution is scheduled for May 4.

Senate Claims Right To Limit Commitments

Further Voting Is Put Off Until Today

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—The Senate hurled a surprise challenge today to President Truman's authority as commander-in-chief of the armed forces. It went on record against sending more than four more divisions to Europe without Congress' approval.

The action, strenuously opposed by the administration, came at the climax of the troops-for-Europe phase of the "Great Debate" on foreign policy.

By an unexpected vote of 49 to 43, the Senate adopted the limiting amendment—sponsored by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.)—only two hours after turning it down, 46-44.

Mr. Truman's supporters took a serious view of the setback, even though the amendment expresses only "the sense of the Senate" and is not binding on the President, who contends he has the power to send troops anywhere they are needed.

The setback caused Sen. McFarland of Arizona, Democratic floor leader, to abandon his plan to push the troops-to-Europe issue to a final vote tonight.

McFarland Asks, Gets Recess

Although the Senate had previously agreed to stay on the job until the issue was disposed of, McFarland requested a recess. It was granted by unanimous consent, giving the administration time to regroup its forces before voting is resumed tomorrow.

Support which developed today for the McClellan amendment caused speculation about what would happen tomorrow, when some Republicans plan to press for action that would seek to restrict by law Mr. Truman's power to send more troops overseas on his own initiative.

As amended, the resolution now endorses Mr. Truman's plan to send four more divisions of ground troops to join Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's international army. But it claims for Congress the right to pass on all future commitments.

McClellan's amendment made the grade on the second vote because Sen. Case (R-S. D.), Frear (D-Del.) and George (D-Ga.) switched sides and Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) and Young (R-N. D.), not recorded on the first vote, voted for it the second time.

Sen. Connally (D-Tex.) demonstrated how seriously the administration viewed the change by saying, "I very seriously and humbly beg the Senate not to adopt this amendment."

Lodge Joins Opposition

Sen. Lodge (R-Mass.) joined the opposition to the amendment, saying its adoption would mean that the President would be called on to obtain the approval of Congress before sending a single additional soldier abroad after the four divisions had sailed.

Lodge said its effect would be to make the Senate "an operations branch of the Army General Staff."

McClellan countered that senators who wanted to stand on the original resolution want the President to have "all power" in deploying troops.

Previously the Senate defeated, 62 to 27, an amendment by Sen. Case (R-S. D.) which would have forbidden the service of any American soldier under 20 years old in the North Atlantic defense force.

It also wrote into the resolution an amendment by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) calling for elimination of provisions in the Italian peace treaty limiting that country's military strength.

40,000 Textile Workers Strike

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 2 (AP)—About one-tenth of the South's textile workers struck today for more pay. Management and union spokesmen tonight disputed the strike's effectiveness.

The approximately 40,000 who refused to work scattered factories of five states are members of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO).

The first day of the strike brought no indication when contract negotiations might be resumed. These negotiations, carried on two weeks under a "cooling off" period requested by the Defense Department, collapsed Saturday night. Many of the plants produce war materials.

"I don't see how we can possibly meet the union demand" for a minimum hourly wage of $1.14½," said Clarence Cone, of North Carolina's Cone Mill Corporation.

"Until we know whether our prices will support such costs it is impossible for us to commit ourselves to higher wages," he added. The union says the southern cotton-rayon wage minimum is $1.01½.

Jaffe's Contempt Trial Under Way

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP) — Philip Jaffe's contempt of Congress trial opened today with an argument over whether Jaffe properly claimed his rights when he refused to answer 26 questions for a Senate subcommittee.

Jaffee is the former editor of the defunct magazine Amerasia, which has figured in several congressional investigations of Communist activity and in one criminal case involving possession of secret government documents.

Indicted for refusing to answer questions put by a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee last June 12, Jaffe went on trial before Federal Judge James W. Morris, who is hearing the case without a jury.

Assistant U. S. Attorney William Hitz and Defense Attorney O. John Rogge disagreed sharply on whether Jaffe was within his constitutional rights in refusing to answer.

Hitz called Jaffe's refusal "an attempt to deny information to the subcommittee rather than an honest and reasonable fear of incrimination."

Rita Returns To U. S.; Denies Marriage Rift

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP) — A glamorous princess of the Orient—home and hungry—asked her fans today to call her just plain Rita Hayworth.

"I hope they will," said the Brooklyn-born movie star, snug in a mink coat as she arrived aboard the liner De Grasse.

It was her first trip home since her marriage two years ago to the Moslem Prince Aly Khan, son of one of the world's richest men.

Miss Hayworth, who normally has at her command all the exotic foods of Europe and the Mediterranean, told newsmen:

"The first thing I'm going to do is have a hot dog."

She was asked about reports that she and the Aly Khan may separate.

"There is no truth in that," replied the red-haired beauty.

Strike Is Postponed By CIO Shipbuilders

CAMDEN, N. J., April 2 (AP)—CIO shipbuilders today postponed a threatened three-coast shipyards strike set for midnight tonight.

John J. Grogan, president of the CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, said the scheduled strike of 50,000 workers has been put off for 30 days.

The workers had been slated to walk out in yards on the East, West and Gulf coasts, and on the Great Lakes.

Grogan said the postponement was in compliance with requests from government officials, and because the union realized a strike would have "a serious effect on our defense effort."

Thomas New Assistant Attorney General

BALTIMORE, April 2 (AP)—Robert M. Thomas, young Baltimore lawyer, was appointed an assistant attorney general today to replace Harrison L. Winter, who resigned last Saturday.

Thomas attended Baltimore schools and Princeton University, and served during the war on the destroyer Conway. He graduated from the Harvard Law School in 1948 and studied a year at Oxford University in England.

Winter resigned to reenter general practice as a partner in the firm of Miles, Walsh, O'Brien and Morris.

60,179,000 Civilians Employed In March

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—Civilian employment reached 60,179,000 in March—an all-time high for the month.

The Census Bureau, reporting this today, said the number of persons in jobs soared 1,274,000 in March while unemployment fell 260,000 to a 2,147,000 total, the lowest March level in four years.

"Expanding defense and seasonal activity" were credited for the developments. The bureau said a continued influx by housewives into the labor market accounted for most of an 809,000 increase in non-farm employment.

Farm employment scored a seasonal rise of 463,000 to reach a total of 6,393,000 but remained below the level of a year ago.

Intruder Found Hiding In Beauty Shop Sweat Box

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., April 2 (AP)—A man who broke into a drug store today was spotted by a policeman through a window.

Realizing he had been seen, the man jumped out of a window and fled. Police called out all reserves. They also called owners and managers of retail stores in the block and a room by room search was started.

The intruder, arrested two hours later, was identified by Assistant Police Chief Darrel Fitts as Henry Banta, 30, Fort Worth, Tex.

Police found him hiding in a beauty shop sweat box.

Md. Election Probers To Consider Charges Against Their Counsel

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP) — Chairman Monroney (D-Okla) of the Senate subcommittee investigating the Maryland senatorial election said today the group will have a closed session tomorrow to consider charges against its minority counsel.

Louis H. Fried, a committee investigator, charged last Friday that the minority counsel, Ralph Becker, had been giving confidential information to prospective witnesses. Becker flatly denied this.

Monroney told a reporter his four-member group would meet tomorrow morning to decide what to do about the charge.

"This involves some friction in the committee staff," he said. "We may decide to call some witnesses on the charge ourselves."

Intruder Found Hiding In Beauty Shop Sweat Box

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., April 2 (AP)—A man who broke into a drug store today was spotted by a policeman through a window.

Realizing he had been seen, the man jumped out of a window and fled. Police called out all reserves. They also called owners and managers of retail stores in the block and a room by room search was started.

The intruder, arrested two hours later, was identified by Assistant Police Chief Darrel Fitts as Henry Banta, 30, Fort Worth, Tex.

Police found him hiding in a beauty shop sweat box.

Md. Election Probers To Consider Charges Against Their Counsel

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP) — Chairman Monroney (D-Okla) of the Senate subcommittee investigating the Maryland senatorial election said today the group will have a closed session tomorrow to consider charges against its minority counsel.

Louis H. Fried, a committee investigator, charged last Friday that the minority counsel, Ralph Becker, had been giving confidential information to prospective witnesses. Becker flatly denied this.

Monroney told a reporter his four-member group would meet tomorrow morning to decide what to do about the charge.

"This involves some friction in the committee staff," he said. "We may decide to call some witnesses on the charge ourselves."

Ernest Treat Takes Office As County Tax Collector

Ernest B. Treat, this city, assumed his duties officially as tax collector for Allegany county yesterday and at the same time W. A. Strother, who held the post for the past four years, became Treat's assistant.

Strother completed the four-year term without having missed a day in office, and during that time deposited a total of $7,824,219.88 in Cumberland banks from taxes collected by his office.

Yesterday Strother took part in ceremonies at which the Allegany County League for Crippled Children received a check for $1,017.45, the net proceeds from the 15 cent fee on each set of new auto license plates sold by the tax collector's office here.

Strother said he was pleased to be able to aid such a worthy cause. At the same time, he said, Treat is not obligated by him to continue the practice and is free to decide if he wishes to confine the League for Crippled Children charity or divide it among the several other charities in the county such as the Red Cross, Community Chest, Heart Association and similar groups.

Present at the ceremonies were William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, which sponsored the legislation for handling car license plate sales here; Mrs. Ernest B. Treat, and Mrs. Dorothy Palmer, Mrs. Doris Davis and Mrs. Millicent Hardman, the latter three employes of the tax collector's office.

Long Recommends Better Police, Firemen Training

Results of an investigation into police handling of a call March 20 when Roland Keith Knippenberg, 6, was drowned at the Furnace Street flood project were announced yesterday by Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Lang.

In a letter to Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn and Acting Fire Chief Jeremiah T. Defibaugh, he made the following recommendations to the police department:

"1. Keep the resuscitator on the patrol wagon, with several grappling hooks and blankets.

"2. Follow a continual training program for all officers as to the use of all emergency equipment.

"3. Continue the Red Cross first aid training program for all officers. Have them qualify and be in good standing with the Red Cross at all times.

"4. Have a formula placed at the sergeant's desk for the procedure to follow when receiving all telephone calls, and especially emergency telephone calls."

Commissioner Long informed Flynn that desk sergeants should ascertain "Who is calling, what has happened, and where it has happened?"

Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, head of the Detective Bureau, conducted the probe to determine how the call was handled and the activities of the policemen at that time. No disciplinary action was necessary.

Chief Flynn pointed out the resuscitator was removed from the patrol wagon recently because "continuous bumping was damaging the device."

The Knippenberg boy drowned when he fell into a pool of water which had accumulated at the end of a culvert beyond the end of Furnace Street.

Morgan College Choir To Give Concert Here

The Morgan State College Choir will present a one-hour program at the Carver School auditorium today at 11 a. m. There will be no charge for the program arranged for patrons and students.

The choir of 45 young men and women is under the direction of Orville Moseley, director of music at Morgan State. It has been rated as one of the six best college choirs in the United States.

Tomorrow's appearance is part of a tour that includes return engagement this week in Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Wheeling and Youngstown.

The following spirituals will be on the program:

"Born In Gilead," arranged by Dawson; "Let Us Break Bread Together," Ryder; "Joshua Fit De Battle of Jerico," Nobel Cain; "Jesus Walked This Lonesome Valley," Dawson, and "Now Thank We All Our God."

13 Draft Selectees Leave For Induction

Thirteen draft selectees left Queen City Station yesterday morning for Martinsburg, W. Va. and induction into the armed forces.

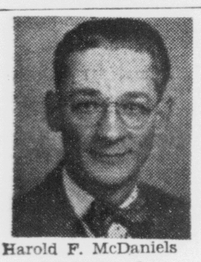

From board No. 27 there were six, all volunteers, while board No. 29 sent seven men.

Going with the group was a contingent of 19 men from board No. 27 for physical examinations.

Drug Addiction

Accumulating evidence of a large increase in drug addiction among young people and an association of many of them with criminal elements has brought sudden public recognition of one of the most disturbing phenomena of American city life. A rising demand for corrective measures has been strengthened by recent discovery of attempts by city dope rings to extend the traffic to military bases.

In New York, Detroit and Baltimore narcotic squads have caught men peddling dope to high school students. Washington agents recently arrested four young soldiers for selling drugs at Fort Eustis, Va.; they had been supplied by a ring which was also selling to teen-agers in the national capital.

Drug use by adolescents is part of the total problem of addiction which has been growing steadily since World War II. About 50,000 Americans are now believed to be addicts.

Drug addiction is defined as a state of chronic intoxication marked by an overpowering desire to take the drug in larger and more frequent doses and by inability to get along without it. Abuse of opiates and many other drugs produces profound changes in the body's major mechanisms. When the drug is withheld, the system is thrown out of balance and cannot readjust quickly. Hence the victim is likely to sweat or shiver constantly; he may have prolonged vomiting or convulsions, sometimes resulting in death.

Most addicts are persons who suffer from a sense of physical or psychological inadequacy. Once having discovered how drugs help them with their difficulties, they tend to lean ever more heavily upon the crutch the drug provides. The victim is not cured when got off his drug safely; he needs psychiatric aid to deal with the underlying causes of his difficulties.

Health authorities say hospital treatment is almost always necessary. Measures now before state legislatures would require hospitalization of adolescents in institutions set up for the purpose, where they could be committed without the stigma of conviction. Segregation of drug victims is a protection against the spread of addiction, for many of them are "Typhoid Marys" who introduce others to the habit.

The most obvious way to protect young people against addiction is to stiffen anti-narcotic laws and to enforce them rigidly. Federal Narcotics Commissioner Anslinger declares that the average sentence of 18 months for violation does not deter criminals from resuming their vicious trade after release from jail. He recommends statutes requiring stiff sentences for all persons convicted of selling drugs, with mounting penalties for repeated offenses.

Stopping the illegal traffic in drugs will require larger and more effective enforcement facilities at all levels of government. The federal bureau, with fewer than 200 agents, must concentrate on breaking up large interstate dope rings. It urges the need of special narcotic squads in police departments of large cities to keep tab on known addicts and to trace their sources of supply.

Those who have worked with teen-age addicts believe that many were victims of a lack of knowledge on the effects of drugs. Most states theoretically require narcotics instruction in high schools, but dearth of materials and the strong tabus surrounding drug use are obstacles to effective teaching. Some educators fear that courses in the secondary schools would stimulate experimentation by adolescents. To others, the danger of addiction through ignorance appears too great to be risked.

While there is disagreement on other aspects of the problem, the experts are unanimous in saying that parents need to know more about the dangers of addiction and that community action against the drug traffic needs the support of all citizens. One essential is wide public realization of the importance of satisfactory home environment. According to one authority, "A person given a normal heritage, emotionally stable parents, sufficient love and understanding, freedom for normal emotional development, will rarely become a drug addict."

A Survey Of Everything

In deciding to compile a national atlas the Association of American Geographers sets for itself a project that is as ambitious in concept as it will be difficult to carry to completion. But nobody can say that the results will not be of tremendous usefulness to educators and to the government.

This will be the first attempt in the United States to list all of the nation's resources—human, mineral, climate, water, etc. As such it will be an invaluable school and college textbook and it will make handily available the information which the country needs for a quick mobilization of its defenses. During preparations for World War II much precious time was lost because data of this kind had to be obtained from fragmentary sources.

A measure of the size of the task ahead is contained in the announcement that the program will cost more than $1,000,000, will enlist the services of several hundred geographers and statisticians, and will take at least three years to complete. But it will be worth the price and effort and there should be no greater difficulty in finding some foundation that is willing to help finance it.

Utilizing Resources

The little town of Waynoka, Okla., again has provided an example of how to capitalize on resources, regardless of what they are. A crowd estimated at 30,000 flocked into Waynoka and adjoining towns, some as far as 60 miles away, for Waynoka's annual Rattlesnake Day. Several thousand of the reptiles were caught alive and auctioned off to buyers who came from as far distant points as New York City and Los Angeles.

The Cimarron Breaks, across the river from the town, has always been infested with rattlers. Ranchers lose as many as 100 cattle a year as a result of rattlesnake bites. So each spring when the sun entices the reptiles from their dens, an organized drive is staged to catch as many as possible. As high as $2.50 a pound is bid for the snakes, which are used for meat, for the manufacture of anti-venom serum, and for the manufacture of novelties from their hides.

Rattlesnakes have put Waynoka on the map, and on "Rattlesnake Sunday" the town's business places do as large a volume as in an ordinary month. Organized to rid the "breaks" of the reptilian menace, Waynoka boosters now hope the rattlesnake population will not be decimated.

Mechanical Hearts

THE development of a mechanical heart and lung has made the headlines. Animals have been kept alive for several hours while the blood was detoured around these vital organs. Some of these machines have been perfected to such an extent that the investigators are awaiting tests on humans.

A device of this type could be kept in the operating rooms of hospitals in readiness for an emergency. Nowadays, operations are safer than they were in the past, but occasionally the heart will stop beating despite the best care. We read from time to time of a surgeon who was successful in reviving such a patient by massaging the heart or injecting adrenalin directly into the organ. Unfortunately, such maneuvers are not always effective. It is here that the mechanical heart and lung will come in handy to tide over the stricken individual until the organ resumes beating. Meanwhile, the brain, which begins to deteriorate within a minute after being deprived of blood, receives enough nourishment to keep going.

The apparatus also may be useful in treating shock in coronary thrombosis, heart failure, and other cardiac emergencies. Temporary relief might make the difference between a successful and an unsuccessful outcome. To my knowledge, the machine has not been used so far for this purpose and we cannot say whether or not it will work. Another possibility is that the apparatus will permit operations within the chambers of the heart and under direct vision without fatal loss of blood. To do this, the circulation must be rerouted thru the mechanical heart and lung so that the operative field is left free to work upon. This would permit the surgeon to perfom many more operations because he could see what he was doing.

One of the first steps in this procedure is to keep the blood from clotting, which would plug up the apparatus. This is done by utilizing an anti-coagulant such as heparin. The machine also contains a device for supplying the blood with oxygen; this is the lung part of the apparatus. Pure oxygen does not work but a mixture of 95 to 96 per cent oxygen and 4 to 5 per cent carbon dioxide fills the bill. The gas is blown over a field of blood and absorbed almost immediately. The waste laden fluid enters the machine from tubes that have been inserted into several veins. After it is refreshed in the apparatus a pump forces it back into the arterial system.

The usefulness of the shock machine also is under investigation. This instrument is capable of giving off a current that will keep the heart beating at a steady normal rate. The metal tipped electrodes that produce the current are inserted thru a vein until they reach the heart. In this location they are near the tiny node of nerve issue that initiates the heart beat. In this way the machine becomes an artificial pacemaker. So long as the currents are given off the organ will continue to contract.

This machine has not as yet been used on humans but has been effective with dogs. According to the report, it kept the heart of one animal beating for 20 minutes after it had been stopped artificially. At the end of this period the organ began to beat spontaneously and the animal recovered completely. This equipment has other potential uses, but, as with the mechanical heart and lung, must be readily available to be of practical value. After all, time is a factor in cardiac emergencies and the machine would be useless unless it could be set into motion within a few moments.

OIL DROP PNEUMONIA

B. D. writes: I have read of a new disease—"nosedrop pneumonia." It is caused by using oily nose drops that seep into the lungs. This has me worried, as I often use nose drops. Can you advise?

REPLY

This disorder is not new and it is not common. Most cases have occurred in babies; when oily nose drops were administered some of the droplets reached the air sacs. This set up lipoid pneumonia.

PALM PSORIASIS

L. P. writes: Can psoriasis affect the palms of the hands?

REPLY

Yes, although the scalp, elbows, and knees are more popular sites. On the rare occasions when the palms are involved the lesions exhibit less scaling and more hardening and the patches assume a worm-eaten appearance.

METALBOLISM

S. L. writes: If a person with low metabolism gets no help from taking thyroid pills, what is the next step?

REPLY

Two possibilities come to mind. 1. Has this person taken enough thyroid extract? 2. Is the lowered metabolism caused by thyroid deficiency? Sometimes other glandular disturbances and emaciation decrease metabolism.

Germany Reduced Higher Bracket Taxes; Europeans Do Not Pay Anywhere Near Our Taxes; Communism Could Be Partly Cured By Readjusting Taxes

WASHINGTON—Benny Buttenwiesser, U. S. deputy high commissioner for Germany, had a conversation with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer some time ago which illustrates one of the most important problems the United States faces in Europe.

The new German parliament had scaled down taxes on wealthier taxpayers about a year ago, leaving a proportionately heavy tax burden on labor and white collar workers. The United States, which has the right to intervene in certain affairs of the new German government, objected, and it was following this that Deputy Commissioner Buttenwiesser had his talk with Adenauer.

Showing him the high tax scale prevailing in the U. S. A., Buttenwiesser argued that wealthy Germans also must shoulder their share of the tax burden.

Chancellor Adenauer replied that he just couldn't believe the United States collected such high taxes. If German taxes remained too high, he argued, the German government would not be able to collect them.

"We have a very good tax collector in the United States—Buttenwiesser replied, "jail."

"Yes, I know," replied the German Chancellor, but that is just for your gunmen."

"On the contrary," countered the deputy high commissioner, "I can show you a list of quite solid citizens, including doctors and businessmen who went to jail because of tax fraud."

Adenauer, however, remained unconvinced, and U. S. authorities finally permitted the German government to get away with its reduced tax structure, even though shot full of legal loopholes whereby high bracket taxpayers can dodge taxes. Result: Germany is now faced with a heavy deficit, is asking for more U. S. aid—which, if given, would have to come out of the pockets of Americans who do pay their taxes.

French Tax Evasion

Real fact is that with the exception of England and the Scandinavian countries, our major European friends are not taxing themselves. Furthermore, if they paid taxes on anywhere near the same scale as the U. S. A. and England, they could do two things:

1. Come close to balancing their budgets.

2. Come much closer to wiping out communism. For when you lighten the tax burden on the poor and shift part of it to the upper brackets, as is now done in the United States and England, then standards of living are raised and one of the most fertile fields for communism vanishes.

In both France and Italy, in addition to Germany, the working classes pay taxes out of all proportion to the upper brackets.

Actually French income taxes are high, just as high as in the United States. However, evasion among the higher bracket and middle class taxpayers is notorious. The average French businessman, lawyer, farmer or doctor just doesn't dream of revealing his real income. This throws a heavy burden on French labor and white collar workers, because their salaries are a matter of record with the companies for which they work.

This unfair tax distribution plus the high cost of living, is probably the biggest cause of communism in France.

In most European countries, also, there is a heavy tax burden on the consumer through sales, transfer and various consumer taxes.

Italian Ambassador Objects

Italian Ambassador Alberto Tarchiani, one of the ablest envoys in Washington, has taken exception to some of my recent reports from Rome in which I criticized use of money under the Marshall Plan. He points out quite correctly that Italian industrial production at the end of 1950 reached an all-time high, being 30 per cent above 1938. (1938 by the way was during the supposedly prosperous days of Mussolini). He also points out that exports in 1950 rose to an all-time postwar high, and that electric power, auto and textile production are zooming.

I am glad to have the Ambassador's reminder of these encouraging facts. Possibly, in reporting from Rome, I should have emphasized them more, because the general economic condition of Italy is definitely improved.

It was my job as a newspaperman, however, to inform the American people on some of the steps that must be taken in Italy if Italy is to continue on a stable basis after Congress pulls the plug on the flow of Marshall plan dollars—as it is certain to do sooner or later. And two of the essentials to long-range stability in Italy are land reform and a revised tax system. The new Italian tax bill is certainly a step in the right direction—even though a long way from the vigorous tax collection system existing in the United States and England.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—President Truman can't wait till just before the Democratic National Convention to reveal his decision about accepting a renomination and do either himself or his party any good. He may have such a plan in mind now, as he indicated to a press conference last week, but if he sticks to it he will manage to confuse the whole Democratic party machinery and lessen its chances for a victory in 1952.

For, while the national conventions are about 15 months away, the campaign to line up state delegations will begin, as they always do, long before the conventions are held. Whether he wishes it or not, Mr. Truman will be a factor in the scramble for delegates. His failure to say where he stands will become as important in the decision of the leaders in some states to get together an "uninstructed" delegation as it will be in other states where the overworked but still usable technique of a "draft" will be availed of to line up "uninstructed" delegations.

Nomination Assured Early

The machinery of selecting delegates is one that is very familiar to politicians but unfortunately the public has never paid much attention to it. Yet out of these very preliminary maneuvers—sometimes as much as a year ahead of conventions—the delegations are set and the nomination of a certain individual or the success of a certain faction is assured.

President Truman will be in a particularly vulnerable position if he allows delegation after delegation to line up behind the "draft" idea. Now, this doesn't mean that such delegations really would be for him at all. It is simply a method of keeping the officeholders and former officeholders in a given state intact so that their aggregate political influence can be exerted at the proper time in behalf of the candidate most likely to be nominated. Thus a so-called Truman delegation might merely be a delegation committed to vote for his nomination only if it turns out that he wants it and will accept. But just as readily such a delegation could wait for the signal from Mr. Truman or the political clique that is going to control the next convention and then throw the votes to whoever becomes the administration candidate.

Mr. Truman in all probability will announce at the psychological moment that he will not run again and that he favors a particular individual, or a type. He will lean toward the man who in his judgment has the best chance of winning the election. For Mr. Truman would consider the election of another Democrat as a vindication of his administration and his policies. So he has a stake in the selection process.

Won't Wait For Truman

The danger to Mr. Truman's plan, however, lies in waiting too long. For the anti-administration Democrats will not wait for him. They will try to line up delegations committed to someone of their liking. In many localities they will struggle to wrest possession of the state organization from the administration's officeholders and form a new group.

Also, there are some candidates here and there in the Democratic party who might come to the conclusion that Mr. Truman would not favor them anyhow or that his blessing might be more of a handicap than a benefit. Such candidates or their partisans may profit by Mr. Truman's silence. The followers of Herbert Hoover didn't lose any time organizing state delegations from the moment the first hint came in August, 1927, that President Coolidge didn't choose to run. There was a lot of talk after that about drafting Coolidge but the regular organization men woke up at the Kansas City convention in June 1928 to find that the managers for the then secretary of commerce had gobbled up the state delegations and an overwhelming majority for him was assured on the first ballot.

Some smart political manager may repeat this piece of political history if Mr. Truman or his spokesmen are silent too long.

Matter Of Fact

The Soviet Success

BONN, Germany

HERE in Germany the signs are plain that the Western defense effort has already been impeded by Soviet blocking tactics. The Kremlin's method has been to play upon the present political weakness of the British and French governments with mingled threats of war and hints of willingness to talk turkey about a new world settlement at a foreign minister's meeting. How well that method has worked my be judged from the record.

The point of attack has of course been the sensitive issuance of the essential German participation in the West's defense structure. The earlier atmosphere, as well as the attitude towards this problem of all the general staffs in Europe, are well illustrated by an anecdote about Field Marshal Montgomery's visit to Bonn last autumn. At luncheon with Chancellor Adenauer and the British High Commissioner, Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick, the Field Marshal is reported to have said:

Chancellor, the day you put your men in uniform, the commission will come down off the Petersburg (the Allied High Commission's mountaintop meeting place). And if my friend Kirkpatrick and the others don't come down of their own will, I promise to send my fellows up there to chase them down."

The Field Marshal implied acknowledgement of the need to grant Germany political and military equality with the other Western Allies, as a condition of German participation. The Soviet success has consisted in strengthening the French reluctance to proceed with German rearmament, and in transforming the British eagerness into a reluctance almost equal to the French mood. Thus the grant of political and military equality, without which nothing can be accomplished in Germany, has been indefinitely delayed.

Intended To Avoid Delay

Some months ago, all three High Commissioners authorized American Commissioner John J. McCloy's State Department deputy to begin discussions of Germany's new political status with representatives of Chancellor Adenauer. It was agreed that the British, French and American governments would publicly promise political equality to Germany in a so-called statement of principles. Chancellor Adenauer promised that as soon as this statement had been issued, and agreement reached upon the nature of Germany's military contribution, he would take the problem of German rearmament to the Bundestag. The device of the statement of principles was intended to avoid the long delays of negotiating all the minute details of Germany's new status.

The text of the statement had been all but approved some time ago, when Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick, who had previously accepted the whole procedure, went to London to consult his government. After a fortnight's absence, Sir Ivone returned to announce that the British government wished to take no further decisive steps until after the projected foreign ministers' meeting. Thus a metamorphosis of Britain's German policy was suddenly disclosed.

On the military side, meanwhile, the French had long before injected the Pleven Plan for a European Army" into the problem of the German contribution to Western defense. Under this plan, the largest German unit would be a combat team, and German combat teams would serve in mixed "European" divisions.

Initially, at least, other national armies would meanwhile survive in Europe.

Political In Origin

Thus in its first phase, the Pleven Plan would emphatically not offer military equality to the Germans. It would also transform the headquarters of every "European" division in the field into a UN translators' nightmare. It was political in origin, and its lack of support within the French General Staff is an open secret. In view of the opposition to the Pleven Plan in Germany, it took some courage for Chancellor Adenauer to send Herr Blankenhorn and Colonel De Mezieres to Paris to discuss the European army idea.

At Paris, Blankenhorn and De Mezieres rejected mixed divisions as hopelessly impractical, but proposed a European army comprising German divisions serving in mixed corps. The French negotiators, Herve Alphand and General De Larminat stated that time was needed before this German proposal could be accepted as a topic for discussion; and so the work ended. Thus on both political and military fronts, the effort to bring the Germans into the defense of the West is now stalled on dead center, apparently for an indefinite period.

All these complex transactions merely prove two points. The Soviets have thus far been shrewd in their use of blackmailing threats of a new war, which are the real reason for the desire to put all decisions off until the Foreign Ministers have met. And meanwhile delay has also been facilitated by the collapse, notably in the United States, of the special sense of urgency that inspired the whole Western defense effort at the time of the Korean defeats. Unfortunately, the urgency of building a solid Western defense remains just as great as ever, and the time that is being wasted is all the time we have.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Case Of Ward Bond

ON A RECENT visit to Los Angeles, which is a growing and busy city that includes a suburb called Hollywood, I saw a headline in the trade paper "Daily Variety" which gave the impression that an actor, Ward Bond, who is a friend of mine, got himself into a quarrel with another actor, Jose Ferrer, whom I do not include among my friends.

According to this peculiar trade paper, Bond had indicated displeasure over a proposed endorsement of Ferrer by California teachers that came during the period when Hollywood was gestating with the silly ceremony of passing out "Oscars" which those engaged in producing movies take seriously. Bond happens to be a violent anti-Communist and an officer of the Motion Picture Alliance, which is a fine organization of real Americans and should be better known than it is.

As "Daily Variety" told it, it seems that some reporter for that paper inferred that Bond threatening to get Pegler and Sokolsky to attack the teachers association if they endorsed Ferrer. I do not like anyone using my name in vain, but Ward Bond's account of the interview is satisfactory to me, and when I saw Pegler in Tucson, he appeared not to be displeased at the honor. So we will let it go at that.

Nevertheless and notwithstanding, if any citizen gets into a row over being forced to be tongue-tied or to be silent because some idiotic judge said that to suspect a man of being a Communist and to say so in print is libel per se, let him send his story to me and if he is correct in his facts and I can check them, I shall be happy to help him out by telling the story.

The time has come to quarrel over the issue that Communists, fellow-travelers, sympathizers of Soviet Russia, new dealers and fair dealers can smear and attack and abuse anyone they like, but no one can answer back lest he face an expensive and burdensome libel suit. This is a means of intimidation which we shall have to fight in the interest of free speech and the good of the country even if we have to pass the hat as we did in the McCullough case.

I also saw a piece about Joyce O'Hara, who is subbing for Eric Johnston as president of the Motion Picture Association of America, which he denied the next day. I do not know and am not called upon to say which of his two statements is the correct one, but he said some things in each which struck me as not too wise.

In the first piece, he is reported to have said that "fanatical anti-Reds in Hollywood constitute a greater menace to the film industry than Communists." That is obviously so dopey a statement that I was not surprised that on the very next day, the trade paper reported O'Hara as saying:

". . . I made no mention whatsoever of those in Hollywood who are fighting communism. I did say that there are a few extremists outside of Hollywood who were unwilling to give Hollywood credit for the job it has done thus far in waging its fight against Communists."

To me the denial is as stupid as the original statement. Any American who is not "fanatical anti-Red" is just a no good bum — to use language to which I may have to become accustomed — and ought to be treated as such. There can be no half-way, half-hearted anti-Communists. These people are our enemies and their associates are killing our sons. The person who can see both sides of that question is either a fool or he likes a profit better than his country.

Secondly, does Mr. O'Hara take the position that the "extremists" (on this subject) are all outside of Hollywood? Does he mean to tell us that there are no full and unequivocal anti-Communists in Hollywood?

If that be what he means, he is not telling the truth because all of my friends in the motion picture industry — and there are lots of them—are as extreme as I am in their violent opposition to communism. And I suggest to Mr. O'Hara that he become an extremist on this subject, if he wants to be of service to his employers. It is too late for anyone to be smart-alecky about Communism.

Drug Addiction

Accumulating evidence of a large increase in drug addiction among young people and an association of many of them with criminal elements has brought sudden public recognition of one of the most disturbing phenomena of American city life. A rising demand for corrective measures has been strengthened by recent discovery of attempts by city dope rings to extend the traffic to military bases.

In New York, Detroit and Baltimore narcotic squads have caught men peddling dope to high school students. Washington agents recently arrested four young soldiers for selling drugs at Fort Eustis, Va.; they had been supplied by a ring which was also selling to teen-agers in the national capital.

Drug use by adolescents is part of the total problem of addiction which has been growing steadily since World War II. About 50,000 Americans are now believed to be addicts.

Drug addiction is defined as a state of chronic intoxication marked by an overpowering desire to take the drug in larger and more frequent doses and by inability to get along without it. Nowadays, operations are safer than they were in the past, but occasionally the heart will stop beating despite the best care. We read from time to time of a surgeon who was successful in reviving such a patient by massaging the heart or injecting adrenalin directly into the organ. Unfortunately, such maneuvers are not always effective. It is here that the mechanical heart and lung will come in handy to tide over the stricken individual until the organ resumes beating. Meanwhile, the brain, which begins to deteriorate within a minute after being deprived of blood, receives enough nourishment to keep going.

The apparatus also may be useful in treating shock in coronary thrombosis, heart failure, and other cardiac emergencies. Temporary relief might make the difference between a successful and an unsuccessful outcome. To my knowledge, the machine has not been used so far for this purpose and we cannot say whether or not it will work. Another possibility is that the apparatus will permit operations within the chambers of the heart and under direct vision without fatal loss of blood. To do this, the circulation must be rerouted thru the mechanical heart and lung so that the operative field is left free to work upon. This would permit the surgeon to perfom many more operations because he could see what he was doing.

One of the first steps in this procedure is to keep the blood from clotting, which would plug up the apparatus. This is done by utilizing an anti-coagulant such as heparin. The machine also contains a device for supplying the blood with oxygen; this is the lung part of the apparatus. Pure oxygen does not work but a mixture of 95 to 96 per cent oxygen and 4 to 5 per cent carbon dioxide fills the bill. The gas is blown over a field of blood and absorbed almost immediately. The waste laden fluid enters the machine from tubes that have been inserted into several veins. After it is refreshed in the apparatus a pump forces it back into the arterial system.

The usefulness of the shock machine also is under investigation. This instrument is capable of giving off a current that will keep the heart beating at a steady normal rate. The metal tipped electrodes that produce the current are inserted thru a vein until they reach the heart. In this location they are near the tiny node of nerve issue that initiates the heart beat. In this way the machine becomes an artificial pacemaker. So long as the currents are given off the organ will continue to contract.

This machine has not as yet been used on humans but has been effective with dogs. According to the report, it kept the heart of one animal beating for 20 minutes after it had been stopped artificially. At the end of this period the organ began to beat spontaneously and the animal recovered completely. This equipment has other potential uses, but, as with the mechanical heart and lung, must be readily available to be of practical value. After all, time is a factor in cardiac emergencies and the machine would be useless unless it could be set into motion within a few moments.

OIL DROP PNEUMONIA

B. D. writes: I have read of a new disease—"nosedrop pneumonia." It is caused by using oily nose drops that seep into the lungs. This has me worried, as I often use nose drops. Can you advise?

REPLY

This disorder is not new and it is not common. Most cases have occurred in babies; when oily nose drops were administered some of the droplets reached the air sacs. This set up lipoid pneumonia.

PALM PSORIASIS

L. P. writes: Can psoriasis affect the palms of the hands?

REPLY

Yes, although the scalp, elbows, and knees are more popular sites. On the rare occasions when the palms are involved the lesions exhibit less scaling and more hardening and the patches assume a worm-eaten appearance.

METALBOLISM

S. L. writes: If a person with low metabolism gets no help from taking thyroid pills, what is the next step?

REPLY

Two possibilities come to mind. 1. Has this person taken enough thyroid extract? 2. Is the lowered metabolism caused by thyroid deficiency? Sometimes other glandular disturbances and emaciation decrease metabolism.

Germany Reduced Higher Bracket Taxes; Europeans Do Not Pay Anywhere Near Our Taxes; Communism Could Be Partly Cured By Readjusting Taxes

WASHINGTON — Benny Buttenwiesser, U. S. deputy high commissioner for Germany, had a conversation with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer some time ago which illustrates one of the most important problems the United States faces in Europe.

The new German parliament had scaled down taxes on wealthier taxpayers about a year ago, leaving a proportionately heavy tax burden on labor and white collar workers. The United States, which has the right to intervene in certain affairs of the new German government, objected, and it was following this that Deputy Commissioner Buttenwiesser had his talk with Adenauer.

Showing him the high tax scale prevailing in the U. S. A., Buttenwiesser argued that wealthy Germans also must shoulder their share of the tax burden.

Chancellor Adenauer replied that he just couldn't believe the United States collected such high taxes. If German taxes remained too high, he argued, the German government would not be able to collect them.

"We have a very good tax collector in the United States—Buttenwiesser replied, "jail."

"Yes, I know," replied the German Chancellor, but that is just for your gunmen."

"On the contrary," countered the deputy high commissioner, "I can show you a list of quite solid citizens, including doctors and businessmen who went to jail because of tax fraud."

Adenauer, however, remained unconvinced, and U. S. authorities finally permitted the German government to get away with its reduced tax structure, even though shot full of legal loopholes whereby high bracket taxpayers can dodge taxes. Result: Germany is now faced with a heavy deficit, is asking for more U. S. aid—which, if given, would have to come out of the pockets of Americans who do pay their taxes.

French Tax Evasion

Real fact is that with the exception of England and the Scandinavian countries, our major European friends are not taxing themselves. Furthermore, if they paid taxes on anywhere near the same scale as the U. S. A. and England, they could do two things:

1. Come close to balancing their budgets.

2. Come much closer to wiping out communism. For when you lighten the tax burden on the poor and shift part of it to the upper brackets, as is now done in the United States and England, then standards of living are raised and one of the most fertile fields for communism vanishes.

In both France and Italy, in addition to Germany, the working classes pay taxes out of all proportion to the upper brackets.

Actually French income taxes are high, just as high as in the United States. However, evasion among the higher bracket and middle class taxpayers is notorious. The average French businessman, lawyer, farmer or doctor just doesn't dream of revealing his real income. This throws a heavy burden on French labor and white collar workers, because their salaries are a matter of record with the companies for which they work.

This unfair tax distribution plus the high cost of living, is probably the biggest cause of communism in France.

In most European countries, also, there is a heavy tax burden on the consumer through sales, transfer and various consumer taxes.

Italian Ambassador Objects

Italian Ambassador Alberto Tarchiani, one of the ablest envoys in Washington, has taken exception to some of my recent reports from Rome in which I criticized use of money under the Marshall Plan. He points out quite correctly that Italian industrial production at the end of 1950 reached an all-time high, being 30 per cent above 1938. (1938 by the way was during the supposedly prosperous days of Mussolini). He also points out that exports in 1950 rose to an all-time postwar high, and that electric power, auto and textile production are zooming.

I am glad to have the Ambassador's reminder of these encouraging facts. Possibly, in reporting from Rome, I should have emphasized them more, because the general economic condition of Italy is definitely improved.

It was my job as a newspaperman, however, to inform the American people on some of the steps that must be taken in Italy if Italy is to continue on a stable basis after Congress pulls the plug on the flow of Marshall plan dollars —as it is certain to do sooner or later. And two of the essentials to long-range stability in Italy are land reform and a revised tax system. The new Italian tax bill is certainly a step in the right direction—even though a long way from the vigorous tax collection system existing in the United States and England.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman can't wait till just before the Democratic National Convention to reveal his decision about accepting a renomination and do either himself or his party any good. He may have such a plan in mind now, as he indicated to a press conference last week, but if he sticks to it he will manage to confuse the whole Democratic party machinery and lessen its chances for a victory in 1952.

For, while the national conventions are about 15 months away, the campaign to line up state delegations will begin, as they always do, long before the conventions are held. Whether he wishes it or not, Mr. Truman will be a factor in the scramble for delegates. His failure to say where he stands will become as important in the decision of the leaders in some states to get together an "uninstructed" delegation as it will be in other states where the overworked but still usable technique of a "draft" will be availed of to line up "uninstructed" delegations.

Nomination Assured Early

The machinery of selecting delegates is one that is very familiar to politicians but unfortunately the public has never paid much attention to it. Yet out of these very preliminary maneuvers — sometimes as much as a year ahead of conventions—the delegations are set and the nomination of a certain individual or the success of a certain faction is assured.

President Truman will be in a particularly vulnerable position if he allows delegation after delegation to line up behind the "draft" idea. Now, this doesn't mean that such delegations really would be for him at all. It is simply a method of keeping the officeholders and former officeholders in a given state intact so that their aggregate political influence can be exerted at the proper time in behalf of the candidate most likely to be nominated. Thus a so-called Truman delegation might merely be a delegation committed to vote for his nomination only if it turns out that he wants it and will accept. But just as readily such a delegation could wait for the signal from Mr. Truman or the political clique that is going to control the next convention and then throw the votes to whoever becomes the administration candidate.

Mr. Truman in all probability will announce at the psychological moment that he will not run again and that he favors a particular individual, or a type. He will lean toward the man who in his judgment has the best chance of winning the election. For Mr. Truman would consider the election of another Democrat as a vindication of his administration and his policies. So he has a stake in the selection process.

Won't Wait For Truman

The danger to Mr. Truman's plan, however, lies in waiting too long. For the anti-administration Democrats will not wait for him. They will try to line up delegations committed to someone of their liking. In many localities they will struggle to wrest possession of the state organization from the administration's officeholders and form a new group.

Also, there are some candidates here and there in the Democratic party who might come to the conclusion that Mr. Truman would not favor them anyhow or that his blessing might be more of a handicap than a benefit. Such candidates or their partisans may profit by Mr. Truman's silence. The followers of Herbert Hoover didn't lose any time organizing state delegations from the moment the first hint came in August, 1927, that President Coolidge didn't choose to run. There was a lot of talk after that about drafting Coolidge but the regular organization men woke up at the Kansas City convention in June 1928 to find that the managers for the then secretary of commerce had gobbled up the state delegations and an overwhelming majority for him was assured on the first ballot.

Some smart political manager may repeat this piece of political history if Mr. Truman or his spokesmen are silent too long.

Try And Stop Me

In The Life of Mahatma Gandhi, Louis Fischer relates that although the late General Christian Smuts was compelled, in line of duty, to imprison Gandhi on numerous occasions, he used to send him religious books to read while he was in custody. Once, in South Africa in 1914, the imprisoned Gandhi made Smuts a pair of sandals which the General wore every summer for years.

On Gandhi's seventieth birthday in 1939, however, Smuts returned the sandals to Gandhi with this characteristic note, "I have worn these sandals for many a day, though I feel I am not worthy to stand in the shoes of so great a man."

"Talk about coincidences," the late Al Jolson once boasted, "I was at the track yesterday when suddenly I realized it was the seventh day of the seventh month with the

The Soviet Success

BONN, Germany

HERE in Germany the signs are plain that the Western defense effort has already been impeded by Soviet blocking tactics. The Kremlin's method has been to play upon the present political weakness of the British and French governments with mingled threats of war and hints of willingness to talk turkey about a new world settlement at a foreign minister's meeting. How well that method has worked my be judged from the record.

The point of attack has of course been the sensitive issuance of the essential German participation in the West's defense structure. The earlier atmosphere, as well as the attitude towards this problem of all the general staffs in Europe, are well illustrated by an anecdote of Field Marshal Montgomery's visit to Bonn last autumn. At luncheon with Chancellor Adenauer and the British High Commissioner, Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick, the Field Marshal is reported to have said:

Chancellor, the day you put your men in uniform, the commission will come down off the Petersburg (the Allied High Commission's mountaintop meeting place). And if my friend Kirkpatrick and the others don't come down of their own will, I promise to send my fellows up there to chase them down."

The Field Marshal implied acknowledgement of the need to grant Germany political and military equality with the other Western Allies, as a condition of German participation. The Soviet success has consisted in strengthening the French reluctance to proceed with German rearmament, and in transforming the British eagerness into a reluctance almost equal to the French mood. Thus the grant of political and military equality, without which nothing can be accomplished in Germany, has been indefinitely delayed.

Intended To Avoid Delay

Some months ago, all three High Commissioners authorized American Commissioner John J. McCloy's State Department deputy to begin discussions of Germany's new political status with representatives of Chancellor Adenauer. It was agreed that the British, French and American governments would publicly promise political equality to Germany in a so-called statement of principles. Chancellor Adenauer promised that as soon as this statement had been issued, and agreement reached upon the nature of Germany's military contribution, he would take the problem of German rearmament to the Bundestag. The device of the statement of principles was intended to avoid the long delays of negotiating all the minute details of Germany's new status.

The text of the statement had been all but approved some time ago, when Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick, who had previously accepted the whole procedure, went to London to consult his government. After a fortnight's absence, Sir Ivone returned to announce that the British government wished to take no further decisive steps until after the projected foreign ministers' meeting. Thus a metamorphosis of Britain's German policy was suddenly disclosed.

On the military side, meanwhile, the French had long before injected the Pleven Plan for a European Army" into the problem of the German contribution to Western defense. Under this plan, the largest German unit would be a combat team, and German combat teams would serve in mixed "European" divisions.

Initially, at least, other national armies would meanwhile survive in Europe.

Political In Origin

Thus in its first phase, the Pleven Plan would emphatically not offer military equality to the Germans. It would also transform the headquarters of every "European" division in the field into a UN translators' nightmare. It was political in origin, and its lack of support within the French General Staff is an open secret. In view of the opposition to the Pleven Plan in Germany, it took some courage for Chancellor Adenauer to send Herr Blankenhorn and Colonel De Mezieres to Paris to discuss the European army idea.

At Paris, Blankenhorn and De Mezieres rejected mixed divisions as hopelessly impractical, but proposed a European army comprising German divisions serving in mixed corps. The French negotiators, Herve Alphand and General De Larminat stated that time was needed before this German proposal could be accepted as a topic for discussion; and so the work ended. Thus on both political and military fronts, the effort to bring the Germans into the defense of the West is now stalled on dead center, apparently for an indefinite period.

All these complex transactions merely prove two points. The Soviets have thus far been shrewd in their use of blackmailing threats of a new war, which are the real reason for the desire to put all decisions off until the Foreign Ministers have met. And meanwhile delay has also been facilitated by the collapse, notably in the United States, of the special sense of urgency that inspired the whole Western defense effort at the time of the Korean defeats. Unfortunately, the urgency of building a solid Western defense remains just as great as ever, and the time that is being wasted is all the time we have.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Case Of Ward Bond

ON A RECENT visit to Los Angeles, which is a growing and busy city that includes a suburb called Hollywood, I saw a headline in the trade paper "Daily Variety" which gave the impression that an actor, Ward Bond, who is a friend of mine, got himself into a quarrel with another actor, Jose Ferrer, whom I do not include among my friends.

According to this peculiar trade paper, Bond had indicated displeasure over a proposed endorsement of Ferrer by California teachers that came during the period when Hollywood was gestating with the silly ceremony of passing out "Oscars" which those engaged in producing movies take seriously. Bond happens to be a violent anti-Communist and an officer of the Motion Picture Alliance, which is a fine organization of real Americans and should be better known than it is.

As "Daily Variety" told it, it seems that some reporter for that paper inferred that Bond threatening to get Pegler and Sokolsky to attack the teachers association if they endorsed Ferrer. I do not like anyone using my name in vain, but Ward Bond's account of the interview is satisfactory to me, and when I saw Pegler in Tucson, he appeared not to be displeased at the honor. So we will let it go at that.

Nevertheless and notwithstanding, if any citizen gets into a row over being forced to be tongue-tied or to be silent because some idiotic judge said that to suspect a man of being a Communist and to say so in print is libel per se, let him send his story to me and if he is correct in his facts and I can check them, I shall be happy to help him out by telling the story.

The time has come to quarrel over the issue that Communists, fellow-travelers, sympathizers of Soviet Russia, new dealers and fair dealers can smear and attack and abuse anyone they like, but no one can answer back lest he face an expensive and burdensome libel suit. This is a means of intimidation which we shall have to fight in the interest of free speech and the good of the country even if we have to pass the hat as we did in the McCullough case.

I also saw a piece about Joyce O'Hara, who is subbing for Eric Johnston as president of the Motion Picture Association of America, which he denied the next day. I do not know and am not called upon to say which of his two statements is the correct one, but he said some things in each which struck me as not too wise.

In the first piece, he is reported to have said that "fanatical anti-Reds in Hollywood constitute a greater menace to the film industry than Communists." That is obviously so dopey a statement that I was not surprised that on the very next day, the trade paper reported O'Hara as saying:

". . . I made no mention whatsoever of those in Hollywood who are fighting communism. I did say that there are a few extremists outside of Hollywood who were unwilling to give Hollywood credit for the job it has done thus far in waging its fight against Communists."

To me the denial is as stupid as the original statement. Any American who is not "fanatical anti-Red" is just a no good bum — to use language to which I may have to become accustomed — and ought to be treated as such. There can be no half-way, half-hearted anti-Communists. These people are our enemies and their associates are killing our sons. The person who can see both sides of that question is either a fool or he likes a profit better than his country.

Secondly, does Mr. O'Hara take the position that the "extremists" (on this subject) are all outside of Hollywood? Does he mean to tell us that there are no full and unequivocal anti-Communists in Hollywood?

If that be what he means, he is not telling the truth because all of my friends in the motion picture industry — and there are lots of them—are as extreme as I am in their violent opposition to communism. And I suggest to Mr. O'Hara that he become an extremist on this subject, if he wants to be of service to his employers. It is too late for anyone to be smart-alecky about Communism.

Drug Addiction

Accumulating evidence of a large increase in drug addiction among young people and an association of many of them with criminal elements has brought sudden public recognition of one of the most disturbing phenomena of American city life. A rising demand for corrective measures has been strengthened by recent discovery of attempts by city dope rings to extend the traffic to military bases.

In New York, Detroit and Baltimore narcotic squads have caught men peddling dope to high school students. Washington agents recently arrested four young soldiers for selling drugs at Fort Eustis, Va.; they had been supplied by a ring which was also selling to teen-agers in the national capital.

Drug use by adolescents is part of the total problem of addiction which has been growing steadily since World War II. About 50,000 Americans are now believed to be addicts.

Drug addiction is defined as a state of chronic intoxication marked by an overpowering desire to take the drug in larger and more frequent doses and by inability to get along without it. Abuse of opiates and many other drugs produces profound changes in the body's major mechanisms. When the drug is withheld, the system is thrown out of balance and cannot readjust quickly. Hence the victim is likely to sweat or shiver constantly; he may have prolonged vomiting or convulsions, sometimes resulting in death.

Most addicts are persons who suffer from a sense of physical or psychological inadequacy. Once having discovered how drugs help them with their difficulties, they tend to lean ever more heavily upon the crutch the drug provides. The victim is not cured when got off his drug safely; he needs psychiatric aid to deal with the underlying causes of his difficulties.

Health authorities say hospital treatment is almost always necessary. Measures now before state legislatures would require hospitalization of adolescents in institutions set up for the purpose, where they could be committed without the stigma of conviction. Segregation of drug victims is a protection against the spread of addiction, for many of them are "Typhoid Marys" who introduce others to the habit.

The most obvious way to protect young people against addiction is to stiffen anti-narcotic laws and to enforce them rigidly. Federal Narcotics Commissioner Anslinger declares that the average sentence of 18 months for violation does not deter criminals from resuming their vicious trade after release from jail. He recommends statutes requiring stiff sentences for all persons convicted of selling drugs, with mounting penalties for repeated offenses.

Stopping the illegal traffic in drugs will require larger and more effective enforcement facilities at all levels of government. The federal bureau, with fewer than 200 agents, must concentrate on breaking up large interstate dope rings. It urges the need of special narcotic squads in police departments of large cities to keep tab on known addicts and to trace their sources of supply.

Those who have worked with teen-age addicts believe that many were victims of a lack of knowledge on the effects of drugs. Most states theoretically require narcotics instruction in high schools, but dearth of materials and the strong tabus surrounding drug use are obstacles to effective teaching. Some educators fear that courses in the secondary schools would stimulate experimentation by adolescents. To others, the danger of addiction through ignorance appears too great to be risked.

While there is disagreement on other aspects of the problem, the experts are unanimous in saying that parents need to know more about the dangers of addiction and that community action against the drug traffic needs the support of all citizens. One essential is wide public realization of the importance of satisfactory home environment. According to one authority, "A person given a normal heritage, emotionally stable parents, sufficient love and understanding, freedom for normal emotional development, will rarely become a drug addict."

A Survey Of Everything

In deciding to compile a national atlas the Association of American Geographers sets for itself a project that is as ambitious in concept as it will be difficult to carry to completion. But nobody can say that the results will not be of tremendous usefulness to educators and to the government.

This will be the first attempt in the United States to list all of the nation's resources—human, mineral, climate, water, etc. As such it will be an invaluable school and college textbook and it will make handily available the information which the country needs for a quick mobilization of its defenses. During preparations for World War II much precious time was lost because data of this kind had to be obtained from fragmentary sources.

A measure of the size of the task ahead is contained in the announcement that the program will cost more than $1,000,000, will enlist the services of several hundred geographers and statisticians, and will take at least three years to complete. But it will be worth the price and effort and there should be no greater difficulty in finding some foundation that is willing to help finance it.

Utilizing Resources

The little town of Waynoka, Okla., again has provided an example of how to capitalize on resources, regardless of what they are. A crowd estimated at 30,000 flocked into Waynoka and adjoining towns, some as far as 60 miles away, for Waynoka's annual Rattlesnake Day. Several thousand of the reptiles were caught alive and auctioned off to buyers who came from as far distant points as New York City and Los Angeles.

The Cimarron Breaks, across the river from the town, has always been infested with rattlers. Ranchers lose as many as 100 cattle a year as a result of rattlesnake bites. So each spring when the sun entices the reptiles from their dens, an organized drive is staged to catch as many as possible. As high as $2.50 a pound is bid for the snakes, which are used for meat, for the manufacture of anti-venom serum, and for the manufacture of novelties from their hides.

Rattlesnakes have put Waynoka on the map, and on "Rattlesnake Sunday" the town's business places do as large a volume as in an ordinary month. Organized to rid the "breaks" of the reptilian menace, Waynoka boosters now hope the rattlesnake population will not be decimated.

Mechanical Hearts

THE development of a mechanical heart and lung has made the headlines. Animals have been kept alive for several hours while the blood was detoured around these vital organs. Some of these machines have been perfected to such an extent that the investigators are awaiting tests on humans.

A device of this type could be kept in the operating rooms of hospitals in readiness for an emergency. Nowadays, operations are safer than they were in the past, but occasionally the heart will stop beating despite the best care. We read from time to time of a surgeon who was successful in reviving such a patient by massaging the heart or injecting adrenalin directly into the organ. Unfortunately, such maneuvers are not always effective. It is here that the mechanical heart and lung will come in handy to tide over the stricken individual until the organ resumes beating. Meanwhile, the brain, which begins to deteriorate within a minute after being deprived of blood, receives enough nourishment to keep going.

The apparatus also may be useful in treating shock in coronary thrombosis, heart failure, and other cardiac emergencies. Temporary relief might make the difference between a successful and an unsuccessful outcome. To my knowledge, the machine has not been used so far for this purpose and we cannot say whether or not it will work. Another possibility is that the apparatus will permit operations within the chambers of the heart and under direct vision without fatal loss of blood. To do this, the circulation must be rerouted thru the mechanical heart and lung so that the operative field is left free to work upon. This would permit the surgeon to perfom many more operations because he could see what he was doing.

One of the first steps in this procedure is to keep the blood from clotting, which would plug up the apparatus. This is done by utilizing an anti-coagulant such as heparin. The machine also contains a device for supplying the blood with oxygen; this is the lung part of the apparatus. Pure oxygen does not work but a mixture of 95 to 96 per cent oxygen and 4 to 5 per cent carbon dioxide fills the bill. The gas is blown over a field of blood and absorbed almost immediately. The waste laden fluid enters the machine from tubes that have been inserted into several veins. After it is refreshed in the apparatus a pump forces it back into the arterial system.

The usefulness of the shock machine also is under investigation. This instrument is capable of giving off a current that will keep the heart beating at a steady normal rate. The metal tipped electrodes that produce the current are inserted thru a vein until they reach the heart. In this location they are near the tiny node of nerve issue that initiates the heart beat. In this way the machine becomes an artificial pacemaker. So long as the currents are given off the organ will continue to contract.

This machine has not as yet been used on humans but has been effective with dogs. According to the report, it kept the heart of one animal beating for 20 minutes after it had been stopped artificially. At the end of this period the organ began to beat spontaneously and the animal recovered completely. This equipment has other potential uses, but, as with the mechanical heart and lung, must be readily available to be of practical value. After all, time is a factor in cardiac emergencies and the machine would be useless unless it could be set into motion within a few moments.

Germany Reduced Higher Bracket Taxes; Europeans Do Not Pay Anywhere Near Our Taxes; Communism Could Be Partly Cured By Readjusting Taxes

WASHINGTON—Benny Buttenwiesser, U. S. deputy high commissioner for Germany, had a conversation with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer some time ago which illustrates one of the most important problems the United States faces in Europe.

The new German parliament had scaled down taxes on wealthier taxpayers about a year ago, leaving a proportionately heavy tax burden on labor and white collar workers. The United States, which has the right to intervene in certain affairs of the new German government, objected, and it was following this that Deputy Commissioner Buttenwiesser had his talk with Adenauer.

Showing him the high tax scale prevailing in the U. S. A., Buttenwiesser argued that wealthy Germans also must shoulder their share of the tax burden.

Chancellor Adenauer replied that he just couldn't believe the United States collected such high taxes. If German taxes remained too high, he argued, the German government would not be able to collect them.

"We have a very good tax collector in the United States—Buttenwiesser replied, "jail."

"Yes, I know," replied the German Chancellor, but that is just for your gunmen."

"On the contrary," countered the deputy high commissioner, "I can show you a list of quite solid citizens, including doctors and businessmen who went to jail because of tax fraud."

Adenauer, however, remained unconvinced, and U. S. authorities finally permitted the German government to get away with its reduced tax structure, even though shot full of legal loopholes whereby high bracket taxpayers can dodge taxes. Result: Germany is now faced with a heavy deficit, is asking for more U. S. aid—which, if given, would have to come out of the pockets of Americans who do pay their taxes.

French Tax Evasion

Real fact is that with the exception of England and the Scandinavian countries, our major European friends are not taxing themselves. Furthermore, if they paid taxes on anywhere near the same scale as the U. S. A. and England, they could do two things:

1. Come close to balancing their budgets.

2. Come much closer to wiping out communism. For when you lighten the tax burden on the poor and shift part of it to the upper brackets, as is now done in the United States and England, then standards of living are raised and one of the most fertile fields for communism vanishes.

In both France and Italy, in addition to Germany, the working classes pay taxes out of all proportion to the upper brackets.

Actually French income taxes are high, just as high as in the United States. However, evasion among the higher bracket and middle class taxpayers is notorious. The average French businessman, lawyer, farmer or doctor just doesn't dream of revealing his real income. This throws a heavy burden on French labor and white collar workers, because their salaries are a matter of record with the companies for which they work.

This unfair tax distribution plus the high cost of living, is probably the biggest cause of communism in France.

In most European countries, also, there is a heavy tax burden on the consumer through sales, transfer and various consumer taxes.

Italian Ambassador Objects

Italian Ambassador Alberto Tarchiani, one of the ablest envoys in Washington, has taken exception to some of my recent reports from Rome in which I criticized use of money under the Marshall Plan. He points out quite correctly that Italian industrial production at the end of 1950 reached an all-time high, being 30 per cent above 1938. (1938 by the way was during the supposedly prosperous days of Mussolini). He also points out that exports in 1950 rose to an all-time postwar high, and that electric power, auto and textile production are zooming.

I am glad to have the Ambassador's reminder of these encouraging facts. Possibly, in reporting from Rome, I should have emphasized them more, because the general economic condition of Italy is definitely improved.

It was my job as a newspaperman, however, to inform the American people on some of the steps that must be taken in Italy if Italy is to continue on a stable basis after Congress pulls the plug on the flow of Marshall plan dollars—as it is certain to do sooner or later. And two of the essentials to long-range stability in Italy are land reform and a revised tax system. The new Italian tax bill is certainly a step in the right direction—even though a long way from the vigorous tax collection system existing in the United States and England.

Another Atom Spy

A theft of atomic secrets worse than the Dr. Fuchs case is wrapped up in a report picked up by U. S. Intelligence agents in Germany. The report comes through devious channels from behind the iron curtain and has not yet been evaluated

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—President Truman can't wait till just before the Democratic National Convention to reveal his decision about accepting a renomination and do either himself or his party any good. He may have such a plan in mind now, as he indicated to a press conference last week, but if he sticks to it he will manage to confuse the whole Democratic party machinery and lessen its chances for a victory in 1952.

For, while the national conventions are about 15 months away, the campaign to line up state delegations will begin, as they always do, long before the conventions are held. Whether he wishes it or not, Mr. Truman will be a factor in the scramble for delegates. His failure to say where he stands will become as important in the decision of the leaders in some states to get together an "uninstructed" delegation as it will be in other states where the overworked but still usable technique of a "draft" will be availed of to line up "uninstructed" delegations.

Nomination Assured Early

The machinery of selecting delegates is one that is very familiar to politicians but unfortunately the public has never paid much attention to it. Yet out of these very preliminary maneuvers—sometimes as much as a year ahead of conventions—the delegations are set and the nomination of a certain individual or the success of a certain faction is assured.

President Truman will be in a particularly vulnerable position if he allows delegation after delegation to line up behind the "draft" idea. Now, this doesn't mean that such delegations really would be for him at all. It is simply a method of keeping the officeholders and former officeholders in a given state intact so that their aggregate political influence can be exerted at the proper time in behalf of the candidate most likely to be nominated. Thus a so-called Truman delegation might merely be a delegation committed to vote for his nomination only if it turns out that he wants it and will accept. But just as readily such a delegation could wait for the signal from Mr. Truman or the political clique that is going to control the next convention and then throw the votes to whoever becomes the administration candidate.

Mr. Truman in all probability will announce at the psychological moment that he will not run again and that he favors a particular individual, or a type. He will lean toward the man who in his judgment has the best chance of winning the election. For Mr. Truman would consider the election of another Democrat as a vindication of his administration and his policies. So he has a stake in the selection process.

Won't Wait For Truman

The danger to Mr. Truman's plan, however, lies in waiting too long. For the anti-administration Democrats will not wait for him. They will try to line up delegations committed to someone of their liking. In many localities they will struggle to wrest possession of the state organization from the administration's officeholders and form a new group.

Also, there are some candidates here and there in the Democratic party who might come to the conclusion that Mr. Truman would not favor them anyhow or that his blessing might be more of a handicap than a benefit. Such candidates or their partisans may profit by Mr. Truman's silence. The followers of Herbert Hoover didn't lose any time organizing state delegations from the moment the first hint came in August, 1927, that President Coolidge didn't choose to run. There was a lot of talk after that about drafting Coolidge but the regular organization men woke up at the Kansas City convention in June 1928 to find that the managers for the then secretary of commerce had gobbled up the state delegations and an overwhelming majority for him was assured on the first ballot.

Some smart political manager may repeat this piece of political history if Mr. Truman or his spokesmen are silent too long.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

The Soviet Success

BONN, Germany

HERE in Germany the signs are plain that the Western defense effort has already been impeded by Soviet blocking tactics. The Kremlin's method has been to play upon the present political weakness of the British and French governments with mingled threats of war and hints of willingness to talk turkey about a new world settlement at a foreign minister's meeting. How well that method has worked my be judged from the record.

The point of attack has of course been the sensitive issuance of the essential German participation in the West's defense structure. The earlier atmosphere, as well as the attitude towards this problem of all the general staffs in Europe, are well illustrated by an anecdote of Field Marshal Montgomery's visit to Bonn last autumn. At luncheon with Chancellor Adenauer and the British High Commissioner, Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick, the Field Marshal is reported to have said:

Chancellor, the day you put your men in uniform, the commission will come down off the Petersburg (the Allied High Commission's mountaintop meeting place). And if my friend Kirkpatrick and the others don't come down of their own will, I promise to send my fellows up there to chase them down."

The Field Marshal implied acknowledgement of the need to grant Germany political and military equality with the other Western Allies, as a condition of German participation. The Soviet success has consisted in strengthening the French reluctance to proceed with German rearmament, and in transforming the British eagerness into a reluctance almost equal to the French mood. Thus the grant of political and military equality, without which nothing can be accomplished in Germany, has been indefinitely delayed.

Intended To Avoid Delay

Some months ago, all three High Commissioners authorized American Commissioner John J. McCloy's State Department deputy to begin discussions of Germany's new political status with representatives of Chancellor Adenauer. It was agreed that the British, French and American governments would publicly promise political equality to Germany in a so-called statement of principles. Chancellor Adenauer promised that as soon as this statement had been issued, and agreement reached upon the nature of Germany's military contribution, he would take the problem of German rearmament to the Bundestag. The device of the statement of principles was intended to avoid the long delays of negotiating all the minute details of Germany's new status.

The text of the statement had been all but approved some time ago, when Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick, who had previously accepted the whole procedure, went to London to consult his government. After a fortnight's absence, Sir Ivone returned to announce that the British government wished to take no further decisive steps until after the projected foreign ministers' meeting. Thus a metamorphosis of Britain's German policy was suddenly disclosed.

On the military side, meanwhile, the French had long before injected the Pleven Plan for a European Army" into the problem of the German contribution to Western defense. Under this plan, the largest German unit would be a combat team, and German combat teams would serve in mixed 'European" divisions.

Initially, at least, other national armies would meanwhile survive in Europe.

Political In Origin

Thus in its first phase, the Pleven Plan would emphatically not offer military equality to the Germans. It would also transform the headquarters of every "European" division in the field into a UN translators' nightmare. It was political in origin, and its lack of support within the French General Staff is an open secret. In view of the opposition to the Pleven Plan in Germany, it took some courage for Chancellor Adenauer to send Herr Blankenhorn and Colonel De Mezieres to Paris to discuss the European army idea.

At Paris, Blankenhorn and De Mezieres rejected mixed divisions as hopelessly impractical, but proposed a European army comprising German divisions serving in mixed corps. The French negotiators, Herve Alphand and General De Larminat stated that time was needed before this German proposal could be accepted as a topic for discussion; and so the work ended. Thus on both political and military fronts, the effort to bring the Germans into the defense of the West is now stalled on dead center, apparently for an indefinite period.

All these complex transactions merely prove two points. The Soviets have thus far been shrewd in their use of blackmailing threats of a new war, which are the real reason for the desire to put all decisions off until the Foreign Ministers have met. And meanwhile delay has also been facilitated by the collapse, notably in the United States, of the special sense of urgency that inspired the whole Western defense effort at the time of the Korean defeats. Unfortunately, the urgency of building a solid Western defense remains just as great as ever, and the time that is being wasted is all the time we have.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Case Of Ward Bond

ON A RECENT visit to Los Angeles, which is a growing and busy city that includes a suburb called Hollywood, I saw a headline in the trade paper "Daily Variety" which gave the impression that an actor, Ward Bond, who is a friend of mine, got himself into a quarrel with another actor, Jose Ferrer, whom I do not include among my friends.

According to this peculiar trade paper, Bond had indicated displeasure over a proposed endorsement of Ferrer by California teachers that came during the period when Hollywood was gestating with the silly ceremony of passing out "Oscars" which those engaged in producing movies take seriously. Bond happens to be a violent anti-Communist and an officer of the Motion Picture Alliance, which is a fine organization of real Americans and should be better known than it is.

As "Daily Variety" told it, it seems that some reporter for that paper inferred that Bond threatening to get Pegler and Sokolsky to attack the teachers association if they endorsed Ferrer. I do not like anyone using my name in vain, but Ward Bond's account of the interview is satisfactory to me, and when I saw Pegler in Tucson, he appeared not to be displeased at the honor. So we will let it go at that.

Nevertheless and notwithstanding, if any citizen gets into a row over being forced to be tongue-tied or to be silent because some idiotic judge said that to suspect a man of being a Communist and to say so in print is libel per se, let him send his story to me and if he is correct in his facts and I can check them, I shall be happy to help him out by telling the story.

The time has come to quarrel over the issue that Communists, fellow-travelers, sympathizers of Soviet Russia, new dealers and fair dealers can smear and attack and abuse anyone they like, but no one can answer back lest he face an expensive and burdensome libel suit. This is a means of intimidation which we shall have to fight in the interest of free speech and the good of the country even if we have to pass the hat as we did in the McCullough case.

I also saw a piece about Joyce O'Hara, who is subbing for Eric Johnston as president of the Motion Picture Association of America, which he denied the next day. I do not know and am not called upon to say which of his two statements is the correct one, but he said some things in each which struck me as not too wise.

In the first piece, he is reported to have said that "fanatical anti-Reds in Hollywood constitute a greater menace to the film industry than Communists." That is obviously so dopey a statement that I was not surprised that on the very next day, the trade paper reported O'Hara as saying:

". . . I made no mention whatsoever of those in Hollywood who are fighting communism. I did say that there are a few extremists outside of Hollywood who were unwilling to give Hollywood credit for the job it has done thus far in waging its fight against Communists."

To me the denial is as stupid as the original statement. Any American who is not "fanatical anti-Red" is just a no good bum—to use language to which I may have to become accustomed — and ought to be treated as such. There can be no half-way, half-hearted anti-Communists. These people are our enemies and their associates are killing our sons. The person who can see both sides of that question is either a fool or he likes a profit better than his country.

Secondly, does Mr. O'Hara take the position that the "extremists" (on this subject) are all outside of Hollywood? Does he mean to tell us that there are no full and unequivocal anti-Communists in Hollywood?

If that be what he means, he is not telling the truth because all of my friends in the motion picture industry — and there are lots of them—are as extreme as I am in their violent opposition to communism. And I suggest to Mr. O'Hara that he become an extremist on this subject, if he wants to be of service to his employers. It is too late for anyone to be smart-alecky about Communism.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

In The Life of Mahatma Gandhi, Louis Fischer relates that although the late General Christian Smuts was compelled, in line of duty, to imprison Gandhi on numerous occasions, he used to send him religious books to read while he was in custody. Once, in South Africa in 1914, the imprisoned Gandhi made Smuts a pair of sandals which the General wore every summer for years.

On Gandhi's seventieth birthday in 1939, however, Smuts returned the sandals to Gandhi with this characteristic note, "I have worn these sandals for many a day, though I feel I am not worthy to stand in the shoes of so great a man."

"Talk about coincidences," the late Al Jolson once boasted. "I was at the track yesterday when suddenly I realized it was the seventh day of the seventh month with the

King Brothers Circus Will Make Appearance In Cumberland May 14

Variety Of Acts To Be Featured

The King Brothers Circus, second largest on the road this season, will be in Cumberland on Monday, May 14. Three performances will be given at 1:30 p. m., 3:30 p. m. and 8 p. m. on Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club grounds.

Burland E. DeBolt, circus chairman for Ali Ghan Temple says that all arrangements for the showing are being completed. Proceeds will be used in the charity and activity fund of the organization.

Arrangements are underway for as many as possible of the less fortunate and dependent children of the Cumberland area to see the circus as guests of the nobles, business and professional friends.

Featured in the entertainment is the King Brothers menagerie, declared to be the finest and most complete traveling zoo in the world. The arenic numbers include great stars from foreign countries, the respective champions in their lines.

Joe Mix, a favorite western screen star, a congress of cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, Cossacks and rough riders will also be seen.

On the program among the equestrians will be the internationally famous Cristiani Family of riders with Lucio, champion equestrian of all time, champions of Europe. Also included in the circus acts are famous, acrobats, aerialists, and the ever popular clowns.

Burley Is Named

Paul L. Burley has been named legislative representative of Allegany Trades Council in the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference.

He will succeed the late W. J. Jones, who held the post for many years prior to his death last year.

K. Of P. Lodge To Observe Anniversary

Queen City Lodge No. 136, Knights of Pythias, will observe their 52nd anniversary tomorrow evening at their Virginia Avenue home at 7:30 o'clock.

The observance will be part of the regular meeting at which G. A. Sensabaugh, chancellor commander, will preside.

Committee on arrangements for the celebration includes Walter E. Kline, chairman, A. F. Weltman, J. C. Catlett, A. E. Wilson, Nelson W. Russler, Julius E. Schindler, John C. Fisher, and F. J. Davis, Sr.

Russler, Davis, Schindler, and Fisher will give short talks. John C. Nesbit will recite some of his original poems and refreshments will be served following the program.

The local organization was granted a charter March 30, 1899 by the Grand Lodge of Maryland. Two members, Russler and Schindler are past grand chancellors of Maryland. Fisher is presently serving as grand vice chancellor.

Officers of Queen City Lodge include G. A. Sensabaugh, chancellor commander; Guy P. Liller, vice chancellor; G. M. Sensabaugh, prelate; Frank J. Davis, Jr., master of work; C. C. Wolford, secretary; Joseph C. Wilson, treasurer; Edward S. Christ, master at arms; John A. Sensabaugh, inner guard; and Jesse Shadwell, outer guard.

creating a new tax area in Allegany County to be known as the Bowling Green Special Tax Area.

SB46—by Kimble—specifying that the State Purchasing Bureau must buy bituminous coal mined in Maryland unless the governor in the event of an extraordinary emergency or set of circumstances shall direct otherwise.

Bills Pass Senate

Western Maryland legislation approved by the Senate yesterday included:

HB711—by Allegany delegation—changing the requirements for appointment of the Allegany roads engineer to a "practical" engineer.

HB772—by Allegany Delegation—exempting from all Allegany County and municipal taxation any new manufacturing companies and the land and equipment for a period of ten years from the date of location in Allegany County.

HB773—by Garrett Delegation—relating to the expenses of the county commissioner road board.

Reports On Legislation

Delegate See, in a report on local legislation yesterday afternoon, said the Cumberland Civil Service bill has been given favorable action as amended.

He said the only real change in the present Civil Service and Merit System is to place the tax collector's position under Civil Service.

SB394, providing for increases for county teachers, See said, has been turned down by the Delegation at the request of the Allegany County Commissioners.

See said a House Resolution was passed which requests the County Commissioners to give teachers a wage increase.

He said the bill setting up a board to regulate barbers in Allegany County was passed without opposition.

Oppose Tax Powers

See said the House concurred in an amendment to the Bowling Green bill calling for a public meeting prior to balloting, to explain the measure to all residents of that area.

A permanent registration system for Allegany County, he said, will be provided in HB772. It provides for two full time clerks at a salary of $3,000 each, and calls for setting up a registration schedule throughout the county.

Cumberland's special taxing powers, which would have been provided in SB490, was turned down by the Delegation. Delegate See said the bill would have erected "trade barriers" in this county through its taxing authority.

Air Pollution Bill

The Senate yesterday passed a bill to direct the Governor to allot at least $100,000 annually in his budget to the Department of Health for the study and control of air pollution.

Among bills signed into law yesterday were one permitting the Allegany County Commissioners to include the county branch of the Maryland Chapter, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, in the charitable organizations to which it may allot funds.

Also signed was a bill by Delegate Neil H. Fraley, Garrett county, setting up an occupation tax on natural gas taken from the earth or waters of Garrett county.

Our word "alimony" comes from the Latin "alimonia," meaning nourishment or sustenance.

Concert To Be Given Tonight

A joint concert by the Cumberland Civic Orchestra and the Choral Society will be held this evening at 8:15 o'clock in the Allegany High School Auditorium.

The all-Gershwin program will have S. Lua Syckes as orchestra director and Jack Platt leading the singers.

A feature of this evenings performance will be the playing of "Rhapsody in Blue" with Aden Lewis at the piano. He will be accompanied by the orchestra. Other instrumental numbers to be presented include "The Man I Love," "Embraceable You," and "Strike Up The Band."

The concluding number on the program will be a combined presentation by the orchestra and choral group of a medley from "Porgy and Bess."

This is the first combined appearance and involves nearly 150 performers. A silver offering will be taken.

LaVale Civic Heads Elected

LaVale Civic Improvement Association held election of officers last night in LaVale Fire Hall and named five new directors for three year terms.

J. J. Rowan was elected president of the group for a one year term, H. B. Simpson, vice president and J. K. Snyder, secretary-treasurer.

Elected to three-year terms on the 15-man board of directors were, R. T. Bete, Miles G. Thompson, Sr., Cromwell Zembower, J. K. Snyder and Frank Heiskell.

Incumbent members of the directors' board include H. B. Klosterman, Louis Spoerl, Harry B. Simpson, James E. Judy, and William Claus who have one year to serve. Those with two years remaining of their tenure in office are H. B. Kauffman, George Dressman, J. J. Rowan, W. D. Ludman and B. V. Welsh.

Election of officers is held by the association every year on the first Monday in April.

Activities committees will be appointed at later meetings, it was announced.

Council Receives March Reports

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long reported to the Mayor and Council last night that 941 arrests were made by the Police Department during March, with collections totaling $1,115.

The Fire Department's report for the month included 48 calls, with only minor damages.

Commissioner Long said all equipment for the Fire Department is in good condition, with the exception of South End Fire Company's pumper, which lacks power. He added that steps are being made to correct that situation.

Water consumption averaged 12,488,000 gallons a day last week, with water running over the crests of both dams.

The city's Building Department reported building permits issued in March totaled $104,150 including 13 new buildings and seven additions.

Collections in March included $4,413.23 in taxes, $87.69 in paving liens, $143 in sewage bonds and $41,968.86 for water collections for a total of $46,613.15.

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, reported collections of $2,387, including $1,521.20 bingo tax and $836.10 in Sunday movie taxes.

At his request, the Council allowed Harry Rodenhauser to return to his former classification as a paver in the Street Department at a rate of $1.385 an hour.

Woman Seeks $2,500 In Suit

Mrs. Carolyn Welsh, 538 Maryland Avenue, through Attorney David Kauffman, yesterday filed a suit for $2,500 damages, because she allegedly became ill after eating some sliced peaches purchased from a local store.

The suit named the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company as defendant.

Mrs. Welsh contends that on or about last June 10 she purchased a can of sliced peaches from the Cumberland A&P store. In her declaration she further alleges she became ill on or about June 13 after eating some of the sliced peaches, which she states contained some harmful ingredient.

Reports On Legislation

Delegate See, in a report on local legislation yesterday afternoon, said the Cumberland Civil Service bill has been given favorable action as amended.

He said the only real change in the present Civil Service and Merit System is to place the tax collector's position under Civil Service.

SB394, providing for increases for county teachers, See said, has been turned down by the Delegation at the request of the Allegany County Commissioners.

See said a House Resolution was passed which requests the County Commissioners to give teachers a wage increase.

He said the bill setting up a board to regulate barbers in Allegany County was passed without oppo- sition.

Oppose Tax Powers

See said the House concurred in an amendment to the Bowling Green bill calling for a public meet- ing prior to balloting, to explain the measure to all residents of that area.

A permanent registration system for Allegany County, he said, will be provided in HB772. It provides for two full time clerks at a salary of $3,000 each, and calls for setting up a registration schedule through- out the county.

Cumberland's special taxing pow- ers, which would have been pro- vided in SB490, was turned down by the Delegation. Delegate See said the bill would have erected "trade barriers" in this county through its taxing authority.

Air Pollution Bill

The Senate yesterday passed a bill to direct the Governor to allot at least $100,000 annually in his budget to the Department of Health for the study and control of air pollu- tion.

Among bills signed into law yes- terday were one permitting the Allegany County Commissioners to include the county branch of the Maryland Chapter, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, in the charitable organizations to which it may allot funds.

Also signed was a bill by Dele- gate Neil H. Fraley, Garrett county, setting up an occupation tax on natural gas taken from the earth or waters of Garrett county.

Our word "alimony" comes from the Latin "alimonia," meaning nourishment or sustenance.

Concert To Be Given Tonight

A joint concert by the Cumber- land Civic Orchestra and the Choral Society will be held this evening at 8:15 o'clock in the Alle- gany High School Auditorium.

The all-Gershwin program will have S. Lua Syckes as orchestra director and Jack Platt leading the singers.

A feature of this evenings per- formance will be the playing of "Rhapsody in Blue" with Aden Lewis at the piano. He will be accompanied by the orchestra. Other instrumental numbers to be presented include "The Man I Love," "Embraceable You," and "Strike Up The Band."

The concluding number on the program will be a combined pres- entation by the orchestra and choral group of a medley from "Porgy and Bess."

This is the first combined ap- pearance and involves nearly 150 performers. A silver offering will be taken.

LaVale Civic Heads Elected

LaVale Civic Improvement As- sociation held election of officers last night in LaVale Fire Hall and named five new directors for three year terms.

J. J. Rowan was elected president of the group for a one year term, H. B. Simpson, vice president and J. K. Snyder, secretary-treasurer.

Elected to three-year terms on the 15-man board of directors were, R. T. Bete, Miles G. Thompson, Sr., Cromwell Zembower, J. K. Sny- der and Frank Heiskell.

Incumbent members of the direc- tors' board include H. B. Kloster- man, Louis Spoerl, Harry B. Simp- son, James E. Judy, and William Claus who have one year to serve. Those with two years remaining of their tenure in office are H. B. Kauffman, George Dressman, J. J. Rowan, W. D. Ludman and B. V. Welsh.

Election of officers is held by the association every year on the first Monday in April.

Activities committees will be ap- pointed at later meetings, it was announced.

Council Receives March Reports

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long reported to the Mayor and Council last night that 941 ar- rests were made by the Police De- partment during March, with col- lections totaling $1,115.

The Fire Department's report for the month included 48 calls, with only minor damages.

Commissioner Long said all equipment for the Fire Department is in good condition, with the ex- ception of South End Fire Com- pany's pumper, which lacks power. He added that steps are being made to correct that situation.

Water consumption averaged 12,- 488,000 gallons a day last week, with water running over the crests of both dams.

The city's Building Department reported building permits issued in March totaled $104,150 including 13 new buildings and seven additions.

Collections in March included $4,413.23 in taxes, $87.69 in paving liens, $143 in sewage bonds and $41,- 968.86 for water collections for a total of $46,613.15.

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, re- ported collections of $2,387, includ- ing $1,521.20 bingo tax and $836.10 in Sunday movie taxes.

At his request, the Council al- lowed Harry Rodenhauser to return to his former classification as a paver in the Street Department at a rate of $1.385 an hour.

Woman Seeks $2,500 In Suit

Mrs. Carolyn Welsh, 538 Mary- land Avenue, through Attorney David Kauffman, yesterday filed a suit for $2,500 damages, because she allegedly became ill after eat- ing some sliced peaches purchased from a local store.

The suit named the Great At- lantic and Pacific Tea Company as defendant.

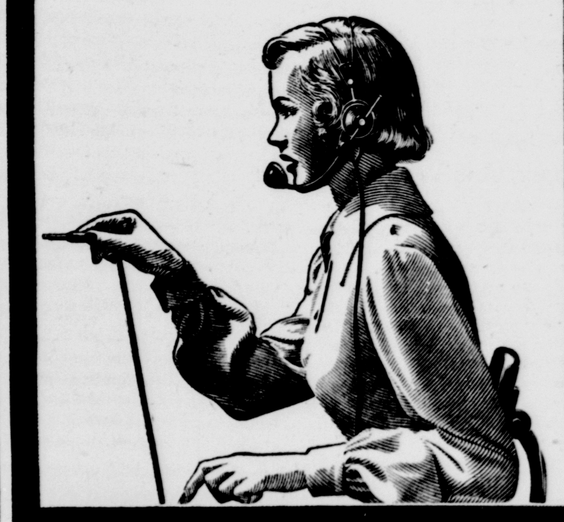

Mrs. Welsh contends that on or about last June 10 she purchased a can of sliced peaches from the Cumberland A&P store. In her declaration she further alleges she became ill on or about June 13 after eating some of the sliced peaches, which she states contained some harmful ingredient.

King Brothers Circus Will Make Appearance In Cumberland May 14

Variety Of Acts To Be Featured

The King Brothers Circus, second largest on the road this season, will be in Cumberland on Monday, May 14. Three performances will be given at 1:30 p. m., 3:30 p. m. and 8 p. m. on All Ghan Shrine Country Club grounds.

Burland E. DeBolt, circus chairman for All Ghan Temple says that all arrangements for the showing are being completed. Proceeds will be used in the charity and activity fund of the organization.

Arrangements are underway for as many as possible of the less fortunate and dependent children of the Cumberland area to see the circus as guests of the nobles, business and professional friends.

Featured in the entertainment is the King Brothers menagerie, declared to be the finest and most complete traveling zoo in the world. The arenic numbers include great stars from foreign countries, the respective champions in their lines.

Joe Mix, a favorite western screen star, a congress of cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, Cossacks and rough riders will also be seen.

On the program among the equestrians will be the internationally famous Cristiani Family of riders with Lucio, champion equestrian of all time, champions of Europe. Also included in the circus acts are famous, acrobats, aerialists, and the ever popular clowns.

Burley Is Named

Paul L. Burley has been named legislative representative of Allegany Trades Council in the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference.

He will succeed the late W. J. Jones, who held the post for many years prior to his death last year.

K. Of P. Lodge To Observe Anniversary

Queen City Lodge No. 136, Knights of Pythias, will observe their 52nd anniversary tomorrow evening at their Virginia Avenue home at 7:30 o'clock.

The observance will be part of the regular meeting at which G. A. Sensabaugh, chancellor commander, will preside.

Committee on arrangements for the celebration includes Walter E. Kline, chairman, A. F. Weltman, J. C. Catlett, A. E. Wilson, Nelson W. Russler, Julius E. Schindler, John C. Fisher, and F. J. Davis, Sr.

Russler, Davis, Schindler, and Fisher will give short talks. John C. Nesbit will recite some of his original poems and refreshments will be served following the program.

The local organization was granted a charter March 30, 1899 by the Grand Lodge of Maryland. Two members, Russler and Schindler are past grand chancellors of Maryland. Fisher is presently serving as grand vice chancellor.

Officers of Queen City Lodge include G. A. Sensabaugh, chancellor commander; Guy P. Liller, vice chancellor; G. M. Sensabaugh, prelate; Frank J. Davis, Jr., master of work; C. C. Wolford, secretary; Joseph C. Wilson, treasurer; Edward S. Christ, master at arms; John A. Sensabaugh, inner guard; and Jesse Shadwell, outer guard.

Lodge deputy is John Nesbit and G. L. Minnicks, F. J. Davis, Sr., and Howard Fleegle are trustees.

Jeannette Fisher Becomes Bride Of Bernard H. Martin

Rev. Louis, O.F.M.Cap., Performs Ceremony

Miss Jeannette Gretchen Fisher, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Fisher, 539 North Centre Street, and the late Charles Fisher, became the bride of Bernard Herman Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin, 611 North Mechanic Street, last evening.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 8 p. m., in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, with Rev. Louis Glantz, O. F. M. Cap., officiating.

Mrs. Norma Lee Corwell was the bride's matron of honor and only attendant. James Martin served as best man.

The bride is a graduate of Ursuline Academy and is employed by the Cumberland Undergarment Company.

The bridegroom attended Allegany High School and is employed by the City Furniture Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Martin, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, entertained with a reception at their home, 617 North Mechanic Street, following the ceremony. The bridal motif was carried out in the tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Auxiliary Plans Supper, Anniversary

The Ladies Auxiliary of the LaVale Fire Department formulated plans for a city chicken supper and the anniversary supper at the meeting Friday evening at the fire hall.

April 26 was selected as the date for the supper. The anniversary celebration will be held April 27, with county officers and Mrs. Alvin Storey, first president, as guests.

Reservations are to be made with Mrs. Alvin Youngblood not later than April 24.

Members of the auxiliary and department were invited to attend the annual service of the LaVale Baptist Church April 8.

Victoria Spalding Marks 4th Birthday

Mrs. W. L. Spalding entertained with a party in celebration of the fourth birthday of her daughter, Victoria, Sunday afternoon at their home, Baltimore Avenue.

A rainbow color scheme of pastel colors was carried out in the favors and decorations. The birthday cake was blue and pink. Games were played during the afternoon.

Medical Staff Entertains At Dance

The annual Spring dance, sponsored by the Medical Staff of Memorial Hospital, was held Friday evening at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

It was given for the students and staff nurses.

Spring flowers were used in the decorations of the room and music was by Jimmy Andrews and his Orchestra. Concluding the evening, refreshments were served.

Approximately 300 guests attended.

Lewis M. Wilson, Greene Street, is a surgical patient in Allegany Hospital.

DeLisle E. Chaney, of Bedford Road, is ill in Memorial Hospital. He operates the Chaney Cigar Store, corner of North Centre and Frederick Streets, and is active in Democratic political circles.

DAR To Sponsor Party

A public card party is being held tonight at Central YMCA sponsored by Cresap Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. Bridge, 500 and canasta will be played with games beginning at 8 o'clock. Prizes will be awarded at each table and refreshments are to be served.

Mrs. Walter L. Pierce and Mrs. Albert Paye are co-chairmen for the party. Their committee includes Mrs. John Robb, Mrs. Marshall Twigg and Mrs. Arch Hutcheson. Joseph Lichenstein is in charge of reservations.

JUST MARRIED—Mr. and Mrs. Coy Lee Huffine are shown leaving Emmanuel Episcopal Church following their marriage Saturday, with Rev. H. M. Richardson officiating. The bride is the former Miss Virginia Elizabeth Browne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Malcolm Browne, LaVale. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Coy Mann Huffine, Knoxville, Tenn., and the late Mr. Huffine.

Republican Women's Club To Plan May, July Meetings

Officers To Be Elected

The Cumberland Republican Women's Club will elect officers at the meeting Thursday at the Girl Scout House. Mrs. George Barncord is to preside at the business session, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Plans for the May dinner, which is to be held May 3, at the Cumberland Country Club, will be completed.

Arrangements for the State Federation meeting the latter part of July at the Ali Ghan Country Club will also be completed, as this is the last business session before the summer recess.

After the club finishes the business session a card party is to be held. Mrs. Joseph Boden and Mrs. Brooks Starcher are co-chairmen of arrangements.

Today Mrs. J. Albert Nichols, Mrs. Barncord, Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, Mrs. Karl Bachman and Mrs. Lena Owens are in Washington, where Miss Bertha Adkins, Republican National Committeewoman of Maryland, and executive director of Washington, is entertaining with a luncheon at the Fairfax Hotel.

A meeting with federation club presidents and members with congressional leaders will be held prior to the luncheon. The latter is to be at the Congressional Hotel at 11 a. m.

Fertig, state treasurer and Mrs. Dwight Wahaus, Promotional secretary; are to be the speakers at the 37th annual meeting of the Mountain Conference of the Women's Missionary Society, Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Maryland, being held today at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

The afternoon session will begin at 2:30 with Mrs. Donald F. Brake presiding, at which time reports are to be made. A box supper will be held at 6 with a program, followed by a vesper service at 7:45, featured by an address by a missionary from India.

Mrs. Metzger Is Honored At Party

Mrs. William T. Fridinger entertained with a baby shower in compliment to Mrs. J. Galen Metzger, Friday evening at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

The gift table was decorated with a pink and blue cradle, a large stork and Spring flowers. Flowers also decorated the refreshment table.

Bridge was played during the evening and prizes won by Mrs. Webster Williams, Miss Anne Griffith and Mrs. Simon Rosenbaum, II. The hostess presented a corsage of Spring flowers to the honor guest and a corsage of yellow rosebuds to Mrs. Williams.

Other guests were Mrs. Henry Bauer, Mrs. William B. Smith, Mrs. Miles Thompson, Jr., Mrs. Paul B. Gipe, Mrs. Lisa Sykes, Mrs. Harry Butler, Mrs. William J. Gunter, Mrs. John Main, Mrs. Wilton Sykes, Miss Margaret Reid and Mrs. Ralph Higgins.

The Bedford Road Homemakers Club will meet at 7:30 tonight at the Zion Methodist Church.

Staff Social Club Is Entertained

The Staff Social Club met at the home of Mrs. Ann Downing, Bond street, recently with Mrs. Myrtle Browning cohostess. Mrs. Millie Zimmerman presided.

Mrs. Marie Franklin read the Scripture and Mrs. Eleanor Adams recited a poem, "Resurrection." During the social hour prizes were won by Mrs. Adams, and Mrs. Ada Twigg. Refreshments were served with the hostess carrying out the Easter motif in the decorations.

The next meeting will be held April 26 at the home of Mrs. Agnes Love, Argyll Avenue, with Mrs. Betty Moore as cohostess.

Miss Geatz Is Betrothed

The engagement of Miss Patricia Ann Geatz to Henry Burk FitzPatrick, Jr., Wynnewood, Pa., was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman P. Geatz, Sr., 11 South Smallwood Street, at an informal reception Monday afternoon at their home.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Ursuline Academy, attended Notre Dame College of Maryland, Baltimore, and is to receive her B. S. in nursing from Georgetown University in June.

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burk FitzPatrick, Wynnewood, is a graduate of Cranwell Preparatory School, Lenox, Mass., attended Georgetown University and will graduate from Villanova College in June.

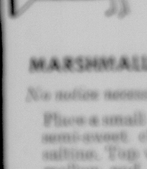

Mrs. Geatz was assisted by Mrs. Wilbert Firle, Mrs. Fred W. Mills, Mrs. Casper Taylor and Mrs. Eugene T. Cumming.

Parsons Native Takes UN Food Post In Rome

Has Been With Group Five Years

PARSONS, W. Va. — Dr. Ralph Phillips, son of E. N. Phillips of Parsons, arrived in Rome, Italy, this week where he will serve as assistant director of the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations.

Dr. Phillips has been with that organization since 1946 and in connection with his work has toured Europe, Asia, Africa and South America. Dr. Phillips was graduated from Parsons High School in 1926 and received his bachelor of science degree from Berea College, Berea, Ky.

He received his master's and doctorate from the University of Missouri and became an instructor in animal husbandry in Massachusetts State College at Amherst after completing his work at the university. He later became associated with the research department in Washington for three years and then resigned to accept a position as head of the animal husbandry department in Utah State College of Agriculture.

In 1941 the Parsons native resigned that position to accept a position as senior husbandryman and head of the Genetics Division of the Investigation of Animal Husbandry at Beltsville, holding that position until 1946 when he became associated with the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. His wife and daughter will join him in Rome in August.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

AT LEAST AN IDEA

AMONG most good players who have some fairly dependable way to measure their strength, about the same amount is required for an original 1-No Trump when vulnerable as when not vulnerable. Others are deathly afraid of an opening No Trump bid in that situation, since the catching of a partner with no strength may mean a much worse licking than threatens the average suit bid. These chaps almost always open with a suit if vulnerable, even when having the required count for the other call. Between these extremes are found the players who avoid No Trump only when their count is concentrated in just a few big cards, with no good intermediates to establish.

	♠ 5 3 2 ♥ 9 3 2 ♦ 10 9 2 ♣ J 4 3 2
♠ K 10 7 ♥ K J 10 6 ♦ A 5 4 ♣ K Q 7	N W E S	♠ J 9 6 4 ♥ Q 7 5 ♦ Q J 8 ♣ 10 9 8
	♠ A Q 8 ♥ A 8 4 ♦ K 7 6 3 ♣ A 6 5

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

1 NT	Dbl

That's all there was, there wasn't any more, as Ethel Barrymore might have said of that bidding. East decided that, with her partner having enough for an informatory or takeout double of 1-No Trump, her own secondary cards were mighty, so she passed. She proved plenty smart and reaped a neat reward for her acumen.

South held up his A on the heart J lead and on the repeat of the 6 to the Q, then came in on the 5. Realizing his terrible predictment, he tackled the diamonds, leading to the 9 and J. He put in the Q on the spade 4 return, the K winning and the 10 then being ducked, but he had to win the 7 to the 9 with the A. The diamond 6 to the 10 and Q was followed by cashing of the spade J and the club 10 was allowed to go to the Q. The heart K and diamond A were cashed by West and the club K sent to the A to end the play. The declarer took only three tricks, so was down four doubled for 1100 points.

That kind of result almost never comes from an opening suit bid when the partner fails to respond. In this case, a 1-Diamond opening by South would have been doubled by West, but East would hardly be expected to pass. The very most this would have been at all likely to produce for East and West would have been a not vulnerable game in No Trumps, certainly not as damaging as a set of 1100 points.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 8 7 5 ♥ 7 4 3 ♦ 5 4 3 2 ♣ 6 4 3
♠ 6 4 3 ♥ A K Q 8 6 ♦ 10 8 6 ♣ 9 2	N W E S	♠ K 10 9 2 ♥ J 9 5 2 ♦ J 9 7 ♣ 8 7
	♠ A Q J 10 ♥ A K Q ♦ A K Q J 10 5 ♣

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Farrady Post Seeks To Check Solicitors

Group Proposes To Curb Strangers

FROSTBURG — A film, "Air Power is Peace Power," was shown at the meeting of Farrady Post, No. 24, American Legion last evening. The film featured Eddie Rickenbacker and described types of aircraft and a review of flights.

The film, according to Commander James D. McNeil, Jr., showed the importance of air power to the future security of America.

Final arrangements are being made by the post to again take part in the Junior Baseball League. The committee in charge of organizing the team, arranging schedules and obtaining necessary equipment and insurance coverage includes Paul Stewart, Paul Fair and Charles Cole. Local boys of junior baseball age who may be eligible for participation in the league are to be contacted. The committee will furnish all information as to how to qualify for a position on the team.

The post is also planning to curb the activities of strangers posing as veterans and soliciting funds from pedestrians on the streets of Frostburg by displaying fake membership cards from organizations of which they are not actually members.

The post is seeking the cooperation of local police officials in a plan to have all solicitors subject themselves to an investigation by the veterans committee of the post before being permitted to solicit funds under whatever credentials. This will also apply to women solicitors. If the credentials are passed as genuine, the solicitor would be recommended to the police department for a permit. The committee named to conduct such investigations consists of Alfred Drew, Robert Powers and John F. Rowe.

Parsons Native Takes UN Food Post In Rome

Has Been With Group Five Years

PARSONS, W. Va. — Dr. Ralph Phillips, son of E. N. Phillips of Parsons, arrived in Rome, Italy, this week where he will serve as assistant director of the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations.

Dr. Phillips has been with that organization since 1946 and in connection with his work has toured Europe, Asia, Africa and South America. Dr. Phillips was graduated from Parsons High School in 1926 and received his bachelor of science degree from Berea College, Berea, Ky.

He received his master's and doctorate from the University of Missouri and became an instructor in animal husbandry in Massachusetts State College at Amherst after completing his work at the university. He later became associated with the research department in Washington for three years and then resigned to accept a position as head of the animal husbandry department in Utah State College of Agriculture.

In 1941 the Parsons native resigned that position to accept a position as senior husbandryman and head of the Genetics Division of the Investigation of Animal Husbandry at Beltsville, holding that position until 1946 when he became associated with the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. His wife and daughter will join him in Rome in August.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

AT LEAST AN IDEA

AMONG most good players who have some fairly dependable way to measure their strength, about the same amount is required for an original 1-No Trump when vulnerable as when not vulnerable. Others are deathly afraid of an opening No Trump bid in that situation, since the catching of a partner with no strength may mean a much worse licking than threatens the average suit bid. These chaps almost always open with a suit if vulnerable, even when having the required count for the other call. Between these extremes are found the players who avoid No Trump only when their count is concentrated in just a few big cards, with no good intermediates to establish.

	♠ 5 3 2 ♥ 9 3 2 ♦ 10 9 2 ♣ J 4 3 2
♠ K 10 7 ♥ K J 10 6 ♦ A 5 4 ♣ K Q 7	N W E S	♠ J 9 6 4 ♥ Q 7 5 ♦ Q J 8 ♣ 10 9 8
	♠ A Q 8 ♥ A 8 4 ♦ K 7 6 3 ♣ A 6 5

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

1 NT	Dbl

That's all there was, there wasn't any more, as Ethel Barrymore might have said of that bidding. East decided that, with her partner having enough for an informatory or takeout double of 1-No Trump, her own secondary cards were mighty, so she passed. She proved plenty smart and reaped a neat reward for her acumen.

South held up his A on the heart J lead and on the repeat of the 6 to the Q, then came in on the 5. Realizing his terrible predictment, he tackled the diamonds, leading to the 9 and J. He put in the Q on the spade 4 return, the K winning and the 10 then being ducked, but he had to win the 7 to the 9 with the A. The diamond 6 to the 10 and Q was followed by cashing of the spade J and the club 10 was allowed to go to the Q. The heart K and diamond A were cashed by West and the club K sent to the A to end the play. The declarer took only three tricks, so was down four doubled for 1100 points.

That kind of result almost never comes from an opening suit bid when the partner fails to respond. In this case, a 1-Diamond opening by South would have been doubled by West, but East would hardly be expected to pass. The very most this would have been at all likely to produce for East and West would have been a not vulnerable game in No Trumps, certainly not as damaging as a set of 1100 points.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 8 7 5 ♥ 7 4 3 ♦ 5 4 3 2 ♣ 6 4 3
♠ 6 4 3 ♥ A K Q 8 6 ♦ 10 8 6 ♣ 9 2	N W E S	♠ K 10 9 2 ♥ J 9 5 2 ♦ J 9 7 ♣ 8 7
	♠ A Q J ♥ 10 ♦ A K Q ♣ A K Q J 10 5

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Farrady Post Seeks To Check Solicitors

Group Proposes To Curb Strangers

FROSTBURG — A film, "Air Power is Peace Power," was shown at the meeting of Farrady Post, No. 24, American Legion last evening. The film featured Eddie Rickenbacker and described types of aircraft and a review of flights.

The film, according to Commander James D. McNeil, Jr., showed the importance of air power to the future security of America.

Final arrangements are being made by the post to again take part in the Junior Baseball League. The committee in charge of organizing the team, arranging schedules and obtaining necessary equipment and insurance coverage includes Paul Stewart, Paul Fair and Charles Cole. Local boys of junior baseball age who may be eligible for participation in the league are to be contacted. The committee will furnish all information as to how to qualify for a position on the team.

The post is also planning to curb the activities of strangers posing as veterans and soliciting funds from pedestrians on the streets of Frostburg by displaying fake membership cards from organizations of which they are not actually members.

The post is seeking the cooperation of local police officials in a plan to have all solicitors subject themselves to an investigation by the veterans committee of the post before being permitted to solicit funds under whatever credentials. This will also apply to women solicitors. If the credentials are passed as genuine, the solicitor would be recommended to the police department for a permit. The committee named to conduct such investigations consists of Alfred Drew, Robert Powers and John F. Rowe.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

AT LEAST AN IDEA

AMONG most good players who have some fairly dependable way to measure their strength, about the same amount is required for an original 1-No Trump when vulnerable as when not vulnerable. Others are deathly afraid of an opening No Trump bid in that situation, since the catching of a partner with no strength may mean a much worse licking than threatens the average suit bid. These chaps almost always open with a suit if vulnerable, even when having the required count for the other call. Between these extremes are found the players who avoid No Trump only when their count is concentrated in just a few big cards, with no good intermediates to establish.

	♠ 5 3 2 ♥ 9 3 2 ♦ 10 9 2 ♣ J 4 3 2
♠ K 10 7 ♥ K J 10 6 ♦ A 5 4 ♣ K Q 7	N W E S	♠ J 9 6 4 ♥ Q 7 5 ♦ Q J 8 ♣ 10 9 8
	♠ A Q 8 ♥ A 8 4 ♦ K 7 6 3 ♣ A 6 5

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

1 NT	Dbl

That's all there was, there wasn't any more, as Ethel Barrymore might have said of that bidding. East decided that, with her partner having enough for an informatory or takeout double of 1-No Trump, her own secondary cards were mighty, so she passed. She proved plenty smart and reaped a neat reward for her acumen.

South held up his A on the heart J lead and on the repeat of the 6 to the Q, then came in on the 5. Realizing his terrible predictment, he tackled the diamonds, leading to the 9 and J. He put in the Q on the spade 4 return, the K winning and the 10 then being ducked, but he had to win the 7 to the 9 with the A. The diamond 6 to the 10 and Q was followed by cashing of the spade J and the club 10 was allowed to go to the Q. The heart K and diamond A were cashed by West and the club K sent to the A to end the play. The declarer took only three tricks, so was down four doubled for 1100 points.

That kind of result almost never comes from an opening suit bid when the partner fails to respond. In this case, a 1-Diamond opening by South would have been doubled by West, but East would hardly be expected to pass. The very most this would have been at all likely to produce for East and West would have been a not vulnerable game in No Trumps, certainly not as damaging as a set of 1100 points.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 8 7 5 ♥ 7 4 3 ♦ 5 4 3 2 ♣ 6 4 3
♠ 6 4 3 ♥ A K Q 8 6 ♦ 10 8 6 ♣ 9 2	N W E S	♠ K 10 9 2 ♥ J 9 5 2 ♦ J 9 7 ♣ 8 7
	♠ A Q J ♥ 10 ♦ A K Q ♣ A K Q J 10 5

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Farrady Post Seeks To Check Solicitors

Group Proposes To Curb Strangers

FROSTBURG — A film, "Air Power is Peace Power," was shown at the meeting of Farrady Post, No. 24, American Legion last evening. The film featured Eddie Rickenbacker and described types of aircraft and a review of flights.

The film, according to Commander James D. McNeil, Jr., showed the importance of air power to the future security of America.

Final arrangements are being made by the post to again take part in the Junior Baseball League. The committee in charge of organizing the team, arranging schedules and obtaining necessary equipment and insurance coverage includes Paul Stewart, Paul Fair and Charles Cole. Local boys of junior baseball age who may be eligible for participation in the league are to be contacted. The committee will furnish all information as to how to qualify for a position on the team.

The post is also planning to curb the activities of strangers posing as veterans and soliciting funds from pedestrians on the streets of Frostburg by displaying fake membership cards from organizations of which they are not actually members.

The post is seeking the cooperation of local police officials in a plan to have all solicitors subject themselves to an investigation by the veterans committee of the post before being permitted to solicit funds under whatever credentials. This will also apply to women solicitors. If the credentials are passed as genuine, the solicitor would be recommended to the police department for a permit. The committee named to conduct such investigations consists of Alfred Drew, Robert Powets and John F. Rowe.

Horvath To Play With Spas; Kirk's Lose In "Y" Tourney

Wolfpack Star To Appear Here In Sunday Tilt

Local Pros To Play Mt. St. Mary's Quint, Mason-Dixon Champs

Paul Horvath, center of North Carolina State College's basketball quint, which won the Southern Conference title and played in the N. I. T. and NCAA tournaments, will appear in the lineup of the Cumberland Spas Sunday when the locals close their 1950-51 campaign by meeting Mt. St. Mary's College, of Emmitsburg, Md., at 8:30 p. m. on SS. Peter and Paul court.

Announcement that Horvath would play here was made last night by Coach William V. Keegan of the Spas following a telephone conversation with Horvath at Raleigh, N. C. Keegan stated that the Wolfpack center will fly here for Sunday's game.

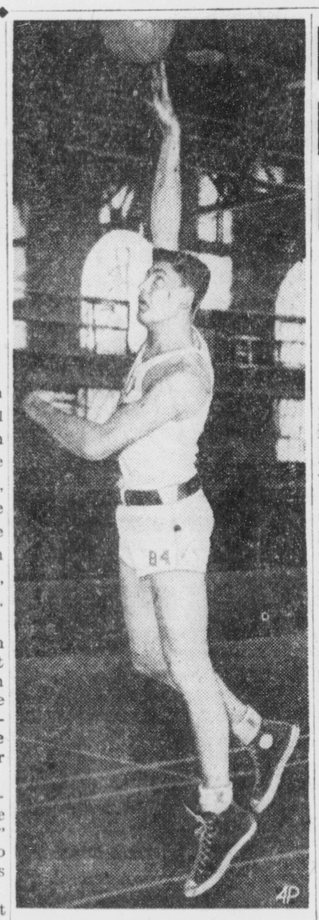

Members of the Spas will be donning uniforms for the final time this season, including Ed "Whitey" Mathewson and Jack Murphy, who will make the trip from their homes in New Jersey.

Keegan made an effort to get Sam Ranzino, N. C. State All-America player, but the latter is fulfilling obligations to play in several other contests in the east and south.

Mt. St. Mary's College is the 1951 champion of the Mason Dixon Conference and played in the recent National Catholic Tournament at Albany, N. Y.

Vinnie Farrell and Al Garry of Newark, N. J., will officiate in the Sunday contest, Keegan said.

It will be the Spas' 32nd game of the season. The locals have won 13 and lost 18.

TO PLAY HERE—Paul Horvath, above, skyscraper center of North Carolina State College's Southern Conference champions, is coming here Sunday to play with the Cumberland Spas who are scheduled to meet Mt. St. Mary's College, Mason and Dixon Conference champions, in an exhibition game at 8:30 p. m., on SS. Peter and Paul court. It will be the Spas' final game of the 1950-51 season.

Rifle League Race Winds Up In Triple Tie

Cumberland Defeats Fort Hill; Run-Off Match Set Sunday

W. MD. RIFLE LEAGUE STANDING OF THE TEAMS

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cumberland	12	3	.800
Mountain Top	12	3	.800
Fort Hill	12	3	.800
LaVale	5	10	.333
Frostburg	4	11	.266
Avilton	0	10	.000

The regular series of scheduled competitions in the Western Maryland Rifle League's winter program was completed yesterday with the firing of the fifteenth match at the Bowman's Addition range.

The Cumberland gunners scored their first victory in many a gallery season over their perennial foemen from the Fort Hill team. 1117 to 1108. Paul Nycum and Hayes Robertson, each with 281 points, carried the day for the Queen City crew. Norman White's 291 was first for Fort Hill.

Mountain Top galloped over Frostburg 1124 to 1082. Wilson White's 288 placed high for the Garrett County shooters. Frostburg's best was provided by Arthur Hoffa with 277 markers.

LaVale downed Avilton 1080 to 753. Harold Everline headed the winners' list with 274 points, while Ken Edwards' 257 scored high for Avilton.

With the season ending in a three-way tie for first place among Cumberland, Mountain Top, and Fort Hill, a special run-off match will be shot next Sunday to determine places in the Shaughnessy-type shoot-off which will be started in two weeks.

WINS TROUT AWARD—William Day, right, is shown receiving a trophy from Edmund F. Hoey, toastmaster, at the annual awards dinner of the Cumberland Outdoor Club last night. Day won a leg on the 3-year- trophy for hooking a 6-pound rainbow trout in Lake Koon last April 15. It was the largest rainbow trout ever entered in a club contest. Four others received fishing trophies at last night's affair.

Five Outdoor Club Members Get Trophies

Anglers Get Awards; Officers Installed, Dale Arner Speaker

Five prizes—three for trout and two for bass—were distributed to members of the Cumberland Outdoor Club at its annual awards dinner last night at the club.

The winners were:

LARGEST RAINBOW TROUT—Caught by William Day at Lake Koon on the first day of the season, April 15, 25½ inches long, weighed 6 pounds.

LARGEST SMALL MOUTH BASS—Caught by Warren Bolinger. Length 21 inches, weight 5 pounds, 2 ounces.

LARGEST BROWN TROUT — Caught by W. Charles Simpson. Length 20½ inches, weight 2½ pounds.

LARGEST BROOK TROUT — Caught by Earl Keyser. Length 15 inches, weight 1 pound, 10 ounces.

LARGEST LARGE MOUTH BASS—Caught by Russ McElfish. Length 19 inches, weight 4 pounds.

The five anglers received trophies which must be won three times by the same person to be retired. Bolinger, incidentally, has two legs on the small mouth bass trophy.

It was announced that the 6 pound trout hooked by Day was the largest ever entered in the club contest.

Edmund F. Hoey, recreational director for Cumberland, acted as toastmaster at the dinner.

Principal speaker was Dale Arner, wildlife field superintendent, who reported thefts at Western Maryland's wild turkey farm and suggested that the clubs cooperate in offering a reward for the apprehension of the person or persons stealing the birds. Arner divulged the fact that a nursery has been started and trees and plants are now available as cover for wildlife.

Walt Bosley's Foul Goals Sink Barton Cagers, 46-44

Frostburg's Fearless Five, Naval Reserve, Forty And Eight Win

Meder's Transfer quint knocked Kirk's Confectionery, composed of members of Barton High School state Class "C" championship team, out of the running for the junior unlimited class championship in the Central YMCA-Jaycee Basketball Tournament by winning last night on the "Y" court to the tune of 46-44.

Two free throws in the last 11 seconds by Walt Bosley broke a 44-44 to give Meder's quint the ball game and moved the Transfer aggregation into the semi-finals with the Fearless Five, which is Beall High's varsity quint.

Kirk's quint led at the quarter, 11-6, at the half, 22-19, and at the conclusion of the third period the score was knotted at 31-31. Arnold Tichnell of Barton tied it up at 38-38 and 44 in the final stanza.

Ronnie Sisk and Herb Howe of Meder's and Tichnell and Bill Kirk of Barton scored 10 points each.

Beall Players Score

Paced by Enardo Arnone and Bill Hawkins, who scored 26 points between them, the Fearless Five, managed by Cliff Fearer, knocked off Fisher and Robinette in another junior unlimited test, 35 to 23.

The Frostburgers led at the quarters, 8-3, 19-7 and 26-12.

Naval Reserve Wins

U. S. Naval Reserve marched into the semi-final round of the 135-pound division by whipping Young's Rockets to the tune of 62 to 51. Paul Fisher topped the winners with 18 points, Jim Flanagan had 13, Christ 12 and Lockard 11. Cook and Hinze scored 13 points each for the Rockets. Naval Reserve opposes Happy Hills on Wednesday night.

Al's Aces Lose

In the final game of the evening, the Forty And Eight Club crushed Al's Aces, 61-44, to move into the finals of the senior unlimited division.

Jimmy Eckard was high scorer for the YMCA Senior League champions with 16 points to his credit. Giles had 14 and Stotler 13. Lilya headed the losers with 13 markers.

Terps Sending Two To Boxing Tourney

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 2 (AP) — Maryland's chances in the NCAA boxing tournament dropped considerably today when it was announced two of the four boxers originally scheduled will not be making the trip.

Coach Harvey L. Miller said Don Oliver, 165 pounds, and Paul Konstopoulos, 145, will not compete in the finals at Michigan State because they are behind in their studies.

Oliver's loss is a big blow to the Terps. He won the Southern Invitational at Baton Rouge, La., last week.

Maryland mittmen who will compete in the tourney are Paul Oliver, 155, brother of Don, and George Fuller, heavyweight.

Warnick Named Umpire-In-Chief For Interstate

Cecil C. Warnick has been appointed umpire-in-chief of the Interstate Baseball League for the 1951 season, which opens Sunday, April 29, President John J. Long announced last night.

Cecil C. Warnick

Warnick, who is regarded as one of the most competent arbiters in the tri-state district, has been connected with the Bi-State League.

EXHIBITION GAMES

YANKS WIN IN 11TH

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 2 (AP)—First baseman Joe Collins smacked a two-run homer in the 11th inning today to give the world champion New York Yankees a 4-2 decision over the Cleveland Indians.

Veteran Steve Gromek, who hurled from the sixth inning on, was the losing pitcher. He held New York to a lone single in five frames and then was touched for two hits at the finish.

Bob Muncrief, former Indian hurler, was the winning pitcher. The five 35-year old righthander hurled the final five frames and allowed five hits. Score:

Dropo Suffers Broken Wrist In Exhibition

Bosox Lose Slugger For Two Months

Walt Dropo

The slugging first baseman was hit on the wrist by a pitched ball in the seventh inning of yesterday's exhibition with Detroit, which the Sox won 8-1.

He was unaware of the extent of the injury until Dr. Harold T. Lawler took X-rays this morning at Sarasota hospital.

His loss will be a blow to the Sox. In 136 games last year he rolled up a batting average of .322, clouted 34 home runs and tied Vern Stephens for the runs-batted-in lead, with 144.

His absence probably will mean that Billy Goodman will return to first base.

Dropo was brought up from Louisville early last season after Goodman, the Sox regular first sacker, broke an ankle. When big Walt started slugging he was kept as first baseman and Goodman was assigned an emergency role.

Dr. Lawler said the X-rays showed that Ray Herbert's pitch broke Dropo's wrist in two places. It caused a fracture of the tip of the ulna (the inner of the two bones of the forearm).

Although the bone showed "good alignment," according to Dr. Lawler, Dropo will be "immobilized for four to six weeks. It may take even longer before he can play. He will have to exercise the hand after it is taken out of the cast."

Dropo was more optimistic.

"I'll be able to get in there sooner than they said," he told reporters. "After about three weeks I'll be able to bandage the wrist and play."

Injury is nothing new to the big slugger. In 1949 he broke his right leg while playing for Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League. Last year he was beaned twice, by Dizzy Trout of the Tigers and Hank Wyse of the Athletics.

Atkinson Pilots Ferd To Victory

NEW YORK, April 2 (INS)—Ferd, a big four-year-old chestnut colt piloted by Teddy Atkinson, galloped to victory in the $25,000 added Paumonok Handicap today, feature event of the opening day of the New York racing season at Jamaica race track.

A crowd of 37,607 poured more than $2,000,000 into the mutuel machines to launch the state's 196-day racing campaign and Jamaica's 36-day run.

Ferd, owned by Mrs. Andy Schuttinger, raced the six furlong Paumonok in 1:11-1/5 to win by almost a length over J. C. Brady's Casemate, who was the early leader in the race.

Ferd returned $15 to win.

CARDS BLANK BOSOX

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 2 (AP)—Brilliant six-hit pitching by right handers Gerry Staley and Cloyd Boyer today gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-0 shutout over the Boston Red Sox in an exhibition game here.

Boston, playing without its star slugger, Ted Williams, got only two men as far as second base. Williams had been given the day off, a disappointment to the large Monday crowd of 3,070. Score.

Basketball Fixer Sought By Hogan

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said today he wants to talk to a known basketball fixer about the current collegiate cage scandal.

Hogan identified him as William Rivlin, sentenced to a year in prison in 1949 for a vain attempt to fix a Madison Square Garden game between George Washington and Manhattan College.

The district attorney said only that Rivlin is being sought for questioning—one of four men whom Hogan last week said he is looking for along the eastern seaboard. The others were not named.

Bob Baker Stops Bryant In Third

PITTSBURGH, April 2 (AP)—Bob Baker, Pittsburgh fighter who is ranked as the nation's fifth top heavyweight, returned to the ring wars after a layoff of several months tonight to gain a technical knockout over Levi Bryant of Port Arthur, Tex., in 2:56 of the third round of a scheduled 10 rounder.

The victory was Baker's 19th in a row since he has turned professional.

The gross gate was $10,098, surprisingly good for Pittsburgh's first major fight card since last August.

Tim Dalton, 142, of Chicago, won the decision over Don Alderson, 145½, of Canonsburg, Pa., in a dull eight-round semi-final. Most of the action was concentrated in the last round.

Henry Scores TKO

PHILADELPHIA, April 2 (AP)—Clarence Henry, Los Angeles heavyweight, recovered from a first round knockdown tonight to score a technical kayo over Baby Dutch Culbertson, of New York, in the second round of their scheduled eight-rounder at the arena.

Henry weighed 188 and Culbertson 191.

Semi-Finals In Three Divisions Listed In YMCA-Jaycee Cage Meet

Four Games Tonight, Opener Is Set For 6

Semi-final contests will be played tonight in three divisions of the Central YMCA-Jaycee Basketball Tournament on the "Y" court.

In the opener at 6, the Spotters will oppose Wiley Ford in a 115-pound division semi-final. The winner will face Wednesday's winner of the Tip Toppers-Joan's Crusaders contest.

At 7 o'clock, Diehl's Confectionery and Jack's Big Five will collide in a 135-pound semi-final. The victor will tackle the winner of last night's Naval Reserve-Young Rockets tilt in the championship tilt.

Coach William "Bee" Orndorff's Beightol's Bouncers, composed of Fort Hill, Ridgeley and Allegany players, will trade baskets with Yoder's Plumbers in a junior unlimited division quarter final tonight at 8.

In the final game, billed for 9, the Parker A. C. and Buser's Market, meet in a senior unlimited semi-final. Buser's outfit sprang one of the big surprises on Thursday by spilling Moorefield Moose after the latter had eliminated the Sports Shoppe.

Four more games are set for Wednesday and four championship affairs on Thursday.

Horvath To Play With Spas; Kirk's Lose In "Y" Tourney

Local Pros To Play Mt. St. Mary's Quint, Mason-Dixon Champs

Paul Horvath, center of North Carolina State College's basketball quint, which won the Southern Conference title and played in the N. I. T. and NCAA tournaments, will appear in the lineup of the Cumberland Spas Sunday when the locals close their 1950-51 campaign by meeting Mt. St. Mary's College, of Emmitsburg, Md., at 8:30 p. m. on SS. Peter and Paul court.

Announcement that Horvath would play here was made last night by Coach William V. Keegan of the Spas following a telephone conversation with Horvath at Raleigh, N. C. Keegan stated that the Wolfpack center will fly here for Sunday's game.

Members of the Spas will be donning uniforms for the final time this season, including Ed "Whitey" Mathewson and Jack Murphy, who will make the trip from their homes in New Jersey.

Keegan made an effort to get Sam Ranzino, N. C. State All-America player, but the latter is fulfilling obligations to play in several other contests in the east and south.

Mt. St. Mary's College is the 1951 champion of the Mason Dixon Conference and played in the recent National Catholic Tournament at Albany, N. Y.

Vinnie Farrell and Al Garry of Newark, N. J., will officiate in the Sunday contest, Keegan said.

It will be the Spas' 32nd game of the season. The locals have won 13 and lost 18.

TO PLAY HERE—Paul Horvath, above, skyscraper center of North Carolina State College's Southern Conference champions, is coming here Sunday to play with the Cumberland Spas who are scheduled to meet Mt. St. Mary's College, Mason and Dixon Conference champions, in an exhibition game at 8:30 p. m., on SS. Peter and Paul court. It will be the Spas' final game of the 1950-51 season.

The slugging first baseman was hit on the wrist by a pitched ball in the seventh inning of yesterday's exhibition with Detroit, which the Sox won 8-1.

He was unaware of the extent of the injury until Dr. Harold T. Lawler took X-rays this morning at Sarasota hospital.

His loss will be a blow to the Sox. In 136 games last year he rolled up a batting average of .322, clouted 34 home runs and tied Vern Stephens for the runs-batted-in lead, with 144.

His absence probably will mean that Billy Goodman will return to first base.

Dropo was brought up from Louisville early last season after Goodman, the Sox regular first sacker, broke an ankle. When big Walt started slugging he was kept as first baseman and Goodman was assigned an emergency role.

Dr. Lawler said the X-rays showed that Ray Herbert's pitch broke Dropo's wrist in two places. It caused a fracture of the tip of the ulna (the inner of the two bones of the forearm).

Although the bone showed "good alignment," according to Dr. Lawler, Dropo will be "immobilized for four to six weeks. It may take even longer before he can play. He will have to exercise the hand after it is taken out of the cast."

Dropo was more optimistic.

"I'll be able to get in there sooner than they said," he told reporters. "After about three weeks I'll be able to bandage the wrist and play."

Injury is nothing new to the big slugger. In 1949 he broke his right leg while playing for Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League. Last year he was beaned twice, by Dizzy Trout of the Tigers and Hank Wyse of the Athletics.

Atkinson Pilots Ferd To Victory

NEW YORK, April 2 (INS)—Ferd, a big four-year-old chestnut colt piloted by Teddy Atkinson, galloped to victory in the $25,000 added Paumonok Handicap today, feature event of the opening day of the New York racing season at Jamaica race track.

A crowd of 37,607 poured more than $2,000,000 into the mutuel machines to launch the state's 196-day racing campaign and Jamaica's 36-day run.

Ferd, owned by Mrs. Andy Schuttinger, raced the six furlong Paumonok in 1:11-1/5 to win by almost a length over J. C. Brady's Casemate, who was the early leader in the race.

Ferd returned $15 to win.

Bi-State League Meets Saturday

A special meeting of the Bi-State Baseball League will be held Saturday, April 7 at 2 p. m. at the Queen City Brewing Company, Market Street.

Representatives of the six teams in the league and umpires are asked to be present.

Terps Sending Two To Boxing Tourney

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 2 (AP) — Maryland's chances in the NCAA boxing tournament dropped considerably today when it was announced two of the four boxers originally scheduled will not be making the trip.

Coach Harvey L. Miller said Don Oliver, 165 pounds, and Paul Konstopoulos, 145, will not compete in the finals at Michigan State because they are behind in their studies.

Oliver's loss is a big blow to the Terps. He won the Southern Invitational at Baton Rouge, La., last week.

Maryland mittmen who will compete in the tourney are Paul Oliver, 155, brother of Don, and George Fuller, heavyweight.

CARDS BLANK BOSOX

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 2 (AP)—Brilliant six-hit pitching by right handers Gerry Staley and Cloyd Boyer today gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-0 shutout over the Boston Red Sox in an exhibition game here.

Boston, playing without its star slugger, Ted Williams, got only two men as far as second base. Williams had been given the day off, a disappointment to the large Monday crowd of 3,070. Score.

Twelve players are now under contract and others interested are asked to attend this meeting.

Five Outdoor Club Members Get Trophies

Anglers Get Awards; Officers Installed, Dale Arner Speaker

Five prizes—three for trout and two for bass—were distributed to members of the Cumberland Outdoor Club at its annual awards dinner last night at the club.

The winners were:

LARGEST RAINBOW TROUT—Caught by William Day at Lake Koon on the first day of the season, April 15, 25½ inches long, weighed 6 pounds.

LARGEST SMALL MOUTH BASS—Caught by Warren Bolinger. Length 21 inches, weight 5 pounds, 2 ounces.

LARGEST BROWN TROUT — Caught by W. Charles Simpson. Length 20½ inches, weight 2½ pounds.

LARGEST BROOK TROUT — Caught by Earl Keyser. Length 15 inches, weight 1 pound, 10 ounces.

LARGEST LARGE MOUTH BASS—Caught by Russ McElfish. Length 19 inches, weight 4 pounds.

The five anglers received trophies which must be won three times by the same person to be retired. Bolinger, incidentally, has two legs on the small mouth bass trophy.

It was announced that the 6 pound trout hooked by Day was the largest ever entered in the club contest.

Edmund F. Hoey, recreational director for Cumberland, acted as toastmaster at the dinner.

Principal speaker was Dale Arner, wildlife field superintendent, who reported thefts at Western Maryland's wild turkey farm and suggested that the clubs cooperate in offering a reward for the apprehension of the person or persons stealing the birds. Arner divulged the fact that a nursery has been started and trees and plants are now available as cover for wildlife.

Frostburg's Fearless Five, Naval Reserve, Forty And Eight Win

Meder's Transfer quint knocked Kirk's Confectionery, composed of members of Barton High School state Class "C" championship team, out of the running for the junior unlimited class championship in the Central YMCA-Jaycee Basketball Tournament by winning last night on the "Y" court to the tune of 46-44.

Two free throws in the last 11 seconds by Walt Bosley broke a 44-44 to give Meder's quint the ball game and moved the Transfer aggregation into the semi-finals with the Fearless Five, which is Beall High's varsity quint.

Kirk's quint led at the quarter, 11-6, at the half, 22-19, and at the conclusion of the third period the score was knotted at 31-31. Arnold Tichnell of Barton tied it up at 38-38 and 44 in the final stanza.

Ronnie Sisk and Herb Howe of Meder's and Tichnell and Bill Kirk of Barton scored 10 points each.

Beall Players Score

Paced by Enardo Arnone and Bill Hawkins, who scored 26 points between them, the Fearless Five, managed by Cliff Fearer, knocked off Fisher and Robinette in another junior unlimited test, 35 to 23.

The Frostburgers led at the quarters, 8-3, 19-7 and 26-12.

Naval Reserve Wins

U. S. Naval Reserve marched into the semi-final round of the 135-pound division by whipping Young's Rockets to the tune of 62 to 51. Paul Fisher topped the winners with 18 points, Jim Flanagan had 13, Christ 12 and Lockard 11. Cook and Hinze scored 13 points each for the Rockets. Naval Reserve opposes Happy Hills on Wednesday night.

Al's Aces Lose

In the final game of the evening, the Forty And Eight Club crushed Al's Aces, 61-44, to move into the finals of the senior unlimited division.

Jimmy Eckard was high scorer for the YMCA Senior League champions with 16 points to his credit. Giles had 14 and Stotler 13. Lilya headed the losers with 13 markers.

Semi-Finals In Three Divisions Listed In YMCA-Jaycee Cage Meet

Four Games Tonight, Opener Is Set For 6

Semi-final contests will be played tonight in three divisions of the Central YMCA-Jaycee Basketball Tournament on the "Y" court.

In the opener at 6, the Spotters will oppose Wiley Ford in a 115-pound division semi-final. The winner will face Wednesday's winner of the Tip Toppers-Joan's Crusaders contest.

At 7 o'clock, Diehl's Confectionery and Jack's Big Five will collide in a 135-pound semi-final. The victor will tackle the winner of last night's Naval Reserve-Young Rockets tilt in the championship tilt.

Coach William "Bee" Orndorff's Beightol's Bouncers, composed of Fort Hill, Ridgeley and Allegany players, will trade baskets with Yoder's Plumbers in a junior unlimited division quarter final tonight at 8.

In the final game, billed for 9, the Parker A. C. and Buser's Market, meet in a senior unlimited semi-final. Buser's outfit sprang one of the big surprises on Thursday by spilling Moorefield Moose after the latter had eliminated the Sports Shoppe.

Four more games are set for Wednesday and four championship affairs on Thursday.

Horvath To Play With Spas; Kirk's Lose In "Y" Tourney

Local Pros To Play Mt. St. Mary's Quint, Mason-Dixon Champs

Paul Horvath, center of North Carolina State College's basketball quint, which won the Southern Conference title and played in the N. I. T. and NCAA tournaments, will appear in the lineup of the Cumberland Spas Sunday when the locals close their 1950-51 campaign by meeting Mt. St. Mary's College, of Emmitsburg, Md., at 8:30 p. m. on SS. Peter and Paul court.

Announcement that Horvath would play here was made last night by Coach William V. Keegan of the Spas following a telephone conversation with Horvath at Raleigh, N. C. Keegan stated that the Wolfpack center will fly here for Sunday's game.

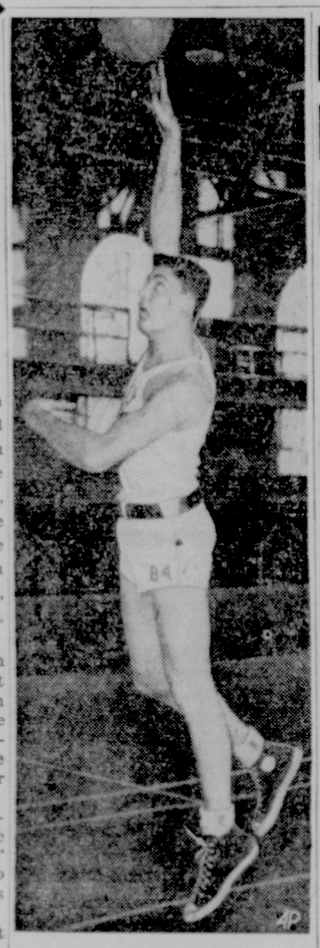

Members of the Spas will be donning uniforms for the final time this season, including Ed "Whitey" Mathewson and Jack Murphy, who will make the trip from their homes in New Jersey.

Keegan made an effort to get Sam Ranzino, N. C. State All-America player, but the latter is fulfilling obligations to play in several other contests in the east and south.

Mt. St. Mary's College is the 1951 champion of the Mason Dixon Conference and played in the recent National Catholic Tournament at Albany, N. Y.

Vinnie Farrell and Al Garry of Newark, N. J., will officiate in the Sunday contest, Keegan said.

It will be the Spas' 32nd game of the season. The locals have won 13 and lost 18.

TO PLAY HERE—Paul Horvath, above, skyscraper center of North Carolina State College's Southern Conference champions, is coming here Sunday to play with the Cumberland Spas who are scheduled to meet Mt. St. Mary's College, Mason and Dixon Conference champions, in an exhibition game at 8:30 p. m., on SS. Peter and Paul court. It will be the Spas' final game of the 1950-51 season.

Bob Baker Stops Bryant In Third

PITTSBURGH, April 2 (AP)—Bob Baker, Pittsburgh fighter who is ranked as the nation's fifth top heavyweight, returned to the ring wars after a layoff of several months tonight to gain a technical knockout over Levi Bryant of Port Arthur, Tex., in 2:56 of the third round of a scheduled 10 rounder.

The victory was Baker's 19th in a row since he has turned professional.

The gross gate was $10,098, surprisingly good for Pittsburgh's first major fight card since last August.

Basketball Fixer Sought By Hogan

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said today he wants to talk to a known basketball fixer about the current collegiate cage scandal.

Hogan identified him as William Rivlin, sentenced to a year in prison in 1949 for a vain attempt to fix a Madison Square Garden game between George Washington and Manhattan College.

The district attorney said only that Rivlin is being sought for questioning—one of four men whom Hogan last week said he is looking for along the eastern seaboard. The others were not named.

Henry Scores TKO

PHILADELPHIA, April 2 (AP)—Clarence Henry, Los Angeles heavyweight, recovered from a first round knockdown tonight to score a technical kayo over Baby Dutch Culbertson, of New York, in the second round of their scheduled eight-rounder at the arena.

Henry weighed 188 and Culbertson 191.

Dropo Suffers Broken Wrist In Exhibition

Bosox Lose Slugger For Two Months

Walt Dropo

The slugging first baseman was hit on the wrist by a pitched ball in the seventh inning of yesterday's exhibition with Detroit, which the Sox won 8-1.

He was unaware of the extent of the injury until Dr. Harold T. Lawler took X-rays this morning at Sarasota hospital.

His loss will be a blow to the Sox. In 136 games last year he rolled up a batting average of .322, clouted 34 home runs and tied Vern Stephens for the runs-batted-in lead, with 144.

His absence probably will mean that Billy Goodman will return to first base.

Dropo was brought up from Louisville early last season after Goodman, the Sox regular first sacker, broke an ankle. When big Walt started slugging he was kept as first baseman and Goodman was assigned an emergency role.

Dr. Lawler said the X-rays showed that Ray Herbert's pitch broke Dropo's wrist in two places. It caused a fracture of the tip of the ulna (the inner of the two bones of the forearm).

Although the bone showed "good alignment," according to Dr. Lawler, Dropo will be "immobilized for four to six weeks. It may take even longer before he can play. He will have to exercise the hand after it is taken out of the cast."

Dropo was more optimistic.

"I'll be able to get in there sooner than they said," he told reporters. "After about three weeks I'll be able to bandage the wrist and play."

Injury is nothing new to the big slugger. In 1949 he broke his right leg while playing for Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League. Last year he was beaned twice, by Dizzy Trout of the Tigers and Hank Wyse of the Athletics.

Atkinson Pilots Ferd To Victory

NEW YORK, April 2 (INS)—Ferd, a big four-year-old chestnut colt piloted by Teddy Atkinson, galloped to victory in the $25,000 added Paumonok Handicap today, feature event of the opening day of the New York racing season at Jamaica race track.

A crowd of 37,607 poured more than $2,000,000 into the mutuel machines to launch the state's 196-day racing campaign and Jamaica's 36-day run.

Ferd, owned by Mrs. Andy Schuttinger, raced the six furlong Paumonok in 1:11-1/5 to win by almost a length over J. C. Brady's Casemate, who was the early leader in the race.

Ferd returned $15 to win.

Bi-State League Meets Saturday

A special meeting of the Bi-State Baseball League will be held Saturday, April 7 at 2 p. m. at the Queen City Brewing Company, Market Street.

Representatives of the six teams in the league and umpires are asked to be present.

WINS TROUT AWARD—William Day, right, is shown receiving a trophy from Edmund F. Hoey, toastmaster, at the annual awards dinner of the Cumberland Outdoor Club last night. Day won a leg on the 3-year- trophy for hooking a 6-pound rainbow trout in Lake Koon last April 15. It was the largest rainbow trout ever entered in a club contest. Four others received fishing trophies at last night's affair.

Terps Sending Two To Boxing Tourney

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 2 (AP) — Maryland's chances in the NCAA boxing tournament dropped considerably today when it was announced two of the four boxers originally scheduled will not be making the trip.

Coach Harvey L. Miller said Don Oliver, 165 pounds, and Paul Konstopoulos, 145, will not compete in the finals at Michigan State because they are behind in their studies.

Oliver's loss is a big blow to the Terps. He won the Southern Invitational at Baton Rouge, La., last week.

Maryland mittmen who will compete in the tourney are Paul Oliver, 155, brother of Don, and George Fuller, heavyweight.

CARDS BLANK BOSOX

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 2 (AP)—Brilliant six-hit pitching by right handers Gerry Staley and Cloyd Boyer today gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-0 shutout over the Boston Red Sox in an exhibition game here.

Boston, playing without its star slugger, Ted Williams, got only two men as far as second base. Williams had been given the day off, a disappointment to the large Monday crowd of 3,070. Score.

Warnick Named Umpire-In-Chief For Interstate

Cecil C. Warnick has been appointed umpire-in-chief of the Interstate Baseball League for the 1951 season, which opens Sunday, April 29, President John J. Long announced last night.

Cecil C. Warnick

Warnick, who is regarded as one of the most competent arbiters in the tri-state district, has been connected with the Bi-State League.

EXHIBITION GAMES

YANKS WIN IN 11TH

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 2 (AP)—First baseman Joe Collins smacked a two-run homer in the 11th inning today to give the world champion New York Yankees a 4-2 decision over the Cleveland Indians.

Veteran Steve Gromek, who hurled from the sixth inning on, was the losing pitcher. He held New York to a lone single in five frames and then was touched for two hits at the finish.

Bob Muncrief, former Indian hurler, was the winning pitcher. The five 35-year old righthander hurled the final five frames and allowed five hits. Score:

Twelve players are now under contract and others interested are asked to attend this meeting.

Five Outdoor Club Members Get Trophies

Anglers Get Awards; Officers Installed, Dale Arner Speaker

Five prizes—three for trout and two for bass—were distributed to members of the Cumberland Outdoor Club at its annual awards dinner last night at the club.

The winners were:

LARGEST RAINBOW TROUT—Caught by William Day at Lake Koon on the first day of the season, April 15, 25½ inches long, weighed 6 pounds.

LARGEST SMALL MOUTH BASS—Caught by Warren Bolinger. Length 21 inches, weight 5 pounds, 2 ounces.

LARGEST BROWN TROUT — Caught by W. Charles Simpson. Length 20½ inches, weight 2½ pounds.

LARGEST BROOK TROUT — Caught by Earl Keyser. Length 15 inches, weight 1 pound, 10 ounces.

LARGEST LARGE MOUTH BASS—Caught by Russ McElfish. Length 19 inches, weight 4 pounds.

The five anglers received trophies which must be won three times by the same person to be retired. Bolinger, incidentally, has two legs on the small mouth bass trophy.

It was announced that the 6 pound trout hooked by Day was the largest ever entered in the club contest.

Edmund F. Hoey, recreational director for Cumberland, acted as toastmaster at the dinner.

Principal speaker was Dale Arner, wildlife field superintendent, who reported thefts at Western Maryland's wild turkey farm and suggested that the clubs cooperate in offering a reward for the apprehension of the person or persons stealing the birds. Arner divulged the fact that a nursery has been started and trees and plants are now available as cover for wildlife.

Stadium Inn Beats WOW, 3-0; Cops Lead In Shuffle League

Stadium Inn of Frostburg swept three games from the Woodmen of the World here last night and took a one-game lead over the local Knights of Columbus in the tight race for the second half championship of the Men's National Shuffleboard League of Allegany County.

Walt Bosley's Foul Goals Sink Barton Cagers, 46-44

Frostburg's Fearless Five, Naval Reserve, Forty And Eight Win

Meder's Transfer quint knocked Kirk's Confectionery, composed of members of Barton High School state Class "C" championship team, out of the running for the junior unlimited class championship in the Central YMCA-Jaycee Basketball Tournament by winning last night on the "Y" court to the tune of 46-44.

Two free throws in the last 11 seconds by Walt Bosley broke a 44-44 to give Meder's quint the ball game and moved the Transfer aggregation into the semi-finals with the Fearless Five, which is Beall High's varsity quint.

Kirk's quint led at the quarter, 11-6, at the half, 22-19, and at the conclusion of the third period the score was knotted at 31-31. Arnold Tichnell of Barton tied it up at 38-38 and 44 in the final stanza.

Ronnie Sisk and Herb Howe of Meder's and Tichnell and Bill Kirk of Barton scored 10 points each.

Beall Players Score

Paced by Enardo Arnone and Bill Hawkins, who scored 26 points between them, the Fearless Five, managed by Cliff Fearer, knocked off Fisher and Robinette in another junior unlimited test, 35 to 23.

The Frostburgers led at the quarters, 8-3, 19-7 and 26-12.

Naval Reserve Wins

U. S. Naval Reserve marched into the semi-final round of the 135-pound division by whipping Young's Rockets to the tune of 62 to 51. Paul Fisher topped the winners with 18 points, Jim Flanagan had 13, Christ 12 and Lockard 11. Cook and Hinze scored 13 points each for the Rockets. Naval Reserve opposes Happy Hills on Wednesday night.

Al's Aces Lose

In the final game of the evening, the Forty And Eight Club crushed Al's Aces, 61-44, to move into the finals of the senior unlimited division.

Jimmy Eckard was high scorer for the YMCA Senior League champions with 16 points to his credit. Giles had 14 and Stotler 13. Lilya headed the losers with 13 markers.

Semi-Finals In Three Divisions Listed In YMCA-Jaycee Cage Meet

Four Games Tonight, Opener Is Set For 6

Semi-final contests will be played tonight in three divisions of the Central YMCA-Jaycee Basketball Tournament on the "Y" court.

In the opener at 6, the Spotters will oppose Wiley Ford in a 115-pound division semi-final. The winner will face Wednesday's winner of the Tip Toppers-Joan's Crusaders contest.

At 7 o'clock, Diehl's Confectionery and Jack's Big Five will collide in a 135-pound semi-final. The victor will tackle the winner of last night's Naval Reserve-Young Rockets tilt in the championship tilt.

Coach William "Bee" Orndorff's Beightol's Bouncers, composed of Fort Hill, Ridgeley and Allegany players, will trade baskets with Yoder's Plumbers in a junior unlimited division quarter final tonight at 8.

In the final game, billed for 9, the Parker A. C. and Buser's Market, meet in a senior unlimited semi-final. Buser's outfit sprang one of the big surprises on Thursday by spilling Moorefield Moose after the latter had eliminated the Sports Shoppe.

Four more games are set for Wednesday and four championship affairs on Thursday.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 2 (INS)—My little friend, Ann Blyth, is being taken right into the hearts of the British as everyone knew would happen. As you know, Ann went to London to play the role in "House On The Square" for 20th, which Constance Smith had to leave when she became ill.

Ann Blyth

Now when Ann comes back home, she'll return to her home studio, Universal - International. Bill Goetz is getting "White Sheep," the Whitfield Cook story, ready for her.

This is the story of a small town minister who helps regenerate a rather wayward family. Ann, of course, is the white sheep of the family. You couldn't believe her in any other role. Lewis Meltzer, who scripted the Cook story, will also direct.

• — • — •

Jessica Tandy, who plays Mrs. Rommel in "The Desert Fox," arrives this week to check in at 20th. She'll join her husband, Hume Cronyn, who came on ahead of her for "Dr. Praetorius," also at 20th.

When they finish their Hollywood stint they'll return to New York for "The Four Poster," current London hit by John De Hartog.

There are only two people in the cast, and Jessica, the original "Streetcar Named Desire" star, and Cronyn are, of course, the couple who age from 25 to 65.

• — • — •

This week Kirk Douglas leaves with Irene Wrightsman McEvoy for Florida to visit her father, Charles Wrightsman. I wouldn't be surprised if they would marry right in Florida, although neither will admit it.

Kirk has made a deal with Mel Ferrer to star in Molnar's play, "Liliom," at the La Jolla Playhouse in June. Arthur Kennedy is set to direct it. Yes, I mean Kennedy the actor. Ferrer is trying to coax Shelley Winters to play the role of Mrs. Muscat. It would have to be done in early June, however, as Shelley plans to go to Europe.

• — • — •

Not even their closest friends know where the John Waynes are going on their vacation to "nowhere." John leaves Sunday to pick up Esperanza, under medical care near Mexico City, and they're off immediately for the first real trip they have had since their marriage.

Wayne needs the rest. Few stars bat out more strenuous movies per year than does Mr. No. 1 at the box office. Mrs. Wayne hasn't been well and she, too, can use this little vacation.

Wayne turned down a lucrative offer from the Theater Guild of the Air to make the cruise possible. Oh, excuse me — did I say "cruise"?

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Jack Haley, who has been quite sick in New York, is giving up his TV show to return to the coast. At least, that's what I hear.

Zachary Scott and his soon-to-be-bride Peggy Hayward, and Scott's daughter, Waverly, played host to six jai alai players at the Macayo Restaurant.

Lenore Jose, multi-millionaire Texas oil man, is flying a whole plane load of people here from Houston for the Joe E. Lewis opening at the Mocambo tomorrow night. Well, Joe is worth a trip across the country.

Eddie Bergman, who plays Santa every year at my Christmas party for my radio and newspaper staff, has been signed for a long-term contract by the Cocoanut Grove — I congratulate the Grove.

From Paris comes word that Lauren Bacall and Humphrey Bogart did an interview on a TV show for a well known sponsor. The only French "Baby" knew was "use ————," but she mentioned the sponsor's largest commercial rival instead of the product she was supposed to be selling!

James Cagney and his family are back in town from their stay at Martha's Vineyard, their winter home. Jimmy is here to make "Come, Fill the Cup."

I can scarcely believe that Claude Jarman is old enough to graduate from high school, but he sure does this June in Knoxville. He'll play in stock companies and then will, eventually go on to Broadway.

Gordon MacRae is not superstitious. He opens Friday, April 13, at the Strand in New York, where he hopes to break records—not mirrors.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 2 (INS)—My little friend, Ann Blyth, is being taken right into the hearts of the British as everyone knew would happen. As you know, Ann went to London to play the role in "House On The Square" for 20th, which Constance Smith had to leave when she became ill.

Ann Blyth

Now when Ann comes back home, she'll return to her home studio, Universal - International. Bill Goetz is getting "White Sheep," the Whitfield Cook story, ready for her.

This is the story of a small town minister who helps regenerate a rather wayward family. Ann, of course, is the white sheep of the family. You couldn't believe her in any other role. Lewis Meltzer, who scripted the Cook story, will also direct.

• — • — •

Jessica Tandy, who plays Mrs. Rommel in "The Desert Fox," arrives this week to check in at 20th. She'll join her husband, Hume Cronyn, who came on ahead of her for "Dr. Praetorius," also at 20th.

When they finish their Hollywood stint they'll return to New York for "The Four Poster," current London hit by John De Hartog.

There are only two people in the cast, and Jessica, the original "Streetcar Named Desire" star, and Cronyn are, of course, the couple who age from 25 to 65.

• — • — •

This week Kirk Douglas leaves with Irene Wrightsman McEvoy for Florida to visit her father, Charles Wrightsman. I wouldn't be surprised if they would marry right in Florida, although neither will admit it.

Kirk has made a deal with Mel Ferrer to star in Molnar's play, "Liliom," at the La Jolla Playhouse in June. Arthur Kennedy is set to direct it. Yes, I mean Kennedy the actor. Ferrer is trying to coax Shelley Winters to play the role of Mrs. Muscat. It would have to be done in early June, however, as Shelley plans to go to Europe.

• — • — •

Not even their closest friends know where the John Waynes are going on their vacation to "nowhere." John leaves Sunday to pick up Esperanza, under medical care near Mexico City, and they're off immediately for the first real trip they have had since their marriage.

Wayne needs the rest. Few stars bat out more strenuous movies per year than does Mr. No. 1 at the box office. Mrs. Wayne hasn't been well and she, too, can use this little vacation.

Wayne turned down a lucrative offer from the Theater Guild of the Air to make the cruise possible. Oh, excuse me — did I say "cruise"?

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Jack Haley, who has been quite sick in New York, is giving up his TV show to return to the coast. At least, that's what I hear.

Zachary Scott and his soon-to-be-bride Peggy Hayward, and Scott's daughter, Waverly, played host to six jai alai players at the Macayo Restaurant.

Lenore Jose, multi-millionaire Texas oil man, is flying a whole plane load of people here from Houston for the Joe E. Lewis opening at the Mocambo tomorrow night. Well, Joe is worth a trip across the country.

Eddie Bergman, who plays Santa every year at my Christmas party for my radio and newspaper staff, has been signed for a long-term contract by the Cocoanut Grove — I congratulate the Grove.

From Paris comes word that Lauren Bacall and Humphrey Bogart did an interview on a TV show for a well known sponsor. The only French "Baby" knew was "use ———," but she mentioned the sponsor's largest commercial rival instead of the product she was supposed to be selling!

James Cagney and his family are back in town from their stay at Martha's Vineyard, their winter home. Jimmy is here to make "Come, Fill the Cup."

I can scarcely believe that Claude Jarman is old enough to graduate from high school, but he sure does this June in Knoxville. He'll play in stock companies and then will eventually go on to Broadway.

Gordon MacRae is not superstitious. He opens Friday, April 13, at the Strand in New York, where he hopes to break records—not mirrors.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 2 (INS)—My little friend, Ann Blyth, is being taken right into the hearts of the British as everyone knew would happen. As you know, Ann went to London to play the role in "House On The Square" for 20th, which Constance Smith had to leave when she became ill.

Ann Blyth

Now when Ann comes back home, she'll return to her home studio, Universal-International. Bill Goetz is getting "White Sheep," the Whitfield Cook story, ready for her.

This is the story of a small town minister who helps regenerate a rather wayward family. Ann, of course, is the white sheep of the family. You couldn't believe her in any other role. Lewis Meltzer, who scripted the Cook story, will also direct.

• — • — •

Jessica Tandy, who plays Mrs. Rommel in "The Desert Fox," arrives this week to check in at 20th. She'll join her husband, Hume Cronyn, who came on ahead of her for "Dr. Praetorius," also at 20th.

When they finish their Hollywood stint they'll return to New York for "The Four Poster," current London hit by John De Hartog.

There are only two people in the cast, and Jessica, the original "Streetcar Named Desire" star, and Cronyn are, of course, the couple who age from 25 to 65.

• — • — •

This week Kirk Douglas leaves with Irene Wrightsman McEvoy for Florida to visit her father, Charles Wrightsman. I wouldn't be surprised if they would marry right in Florida, although neither will admit it.

Kirk has made a deal with Mel Ferrer to star in Molnar's play, "Liliom," at the La Jolla Playhouse in June. Arthur Kennedy is set to direct it. Yes, I mean Kennedy the actor. Ferrer is trying to coax Shelley Winters to play the role of Mrs. Muscat. It would have to be done in early June, however, as Shelley plans to go to Europe.

• — • — •

Not even their closest friends know where the John Waynes are going on their vacation to "nowhere." John leaves Sunday to pick up Esperanza, under medical care near Mexico City, and they're off immediately for the first real trip they have had since their marriage.

Wayne needs the rest. Few stars bat out more strenuous movies per year than does Mr. No. 1 at the box office. Mrs. Wayne hasn't been well and she, too, can use this little vacation.

Wayne turned down a lucrative offer from the Theater Guild of the Air to make the cruise possible. Oh, excuse me — did I say "cruise"?

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Jack Haley, who has been quite sick in New York, is giving up his TV show to return to the coast. At least, that's what I hear.

Zachary Scott and his soon-to-be-bride Peggy Hayward, and Scott's daughter, Waverly, played host to six jai alai players at the Macayo Restaurant.

Lenore Jose, multi-millionaire Texas oil man, is flying a whole plane load of people here from Houston for the Joe E. Lewis opening at the Mocambo tomorrow night. Well, Joe is worth a trip across the country.

Eddie Bergman, who plays Santa every year at my Christmas party for my radio and newspaper staff, has been signed for a long-term contract by the Cocoanut Grove — I congratulate the Grove.

From Paris comes word that Lauren Bacall and Humphrey Bogart did an interview on a TV show for a well known sponsor. The only French "Baby" knew was "use ———," but she mentioned the sponsor's largest commercial rival instead of the product she was supposed to be selling!

James Cagney and his family are back in town from their stay at Martha's Vineyard, their winter home. Jimmy is here to make "Come, Fill the Cup."

I can scarcely believe that Claude Jarman is old enough to graduate from high school, but he sure does this June in Knoxville. He'll play in stock companies and then will eventually go on to Broadway.

Gordon MacRae is not superstitious. He opens Friday, April 13, at the Strand in New York, where he hopes to break records—not mirrors.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Here's a tempting menu for a slimming day to help those working toward figure beauty for the summer!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

AN OCCASIONAL slimming day, is good for everyone except those who are trying to gain. For all who have embarked on an exercise program to trim their figures for spring and summer, a sensible, daily diet patterned on today's menus is a must.

Fortunately, the weather at this time of year favors those who are trying seriously to lose. Since your body craves less of the heavy, warming, winter foods, your appetite is titilated by more of the delicate, sight-and-palate appealing dishes.

Today's tempting menus are only an example of how you can cater to your figure and your appetite at the same time:

Menu with Double Appeal

Breakfast

½ cup grapefruit sections sprinkled with fresh mint
1 poached egg on one slice of toast with fresh-ground pepper garnish black coffee (saccharine if desired)

Lunch

1 large spring salad, consisting of small bunch of watercress, ½ sliced green pepper, 1 sliced small cucumber, 1 tbsp. French dressing
2 slices of melba toast spread with
2 tbsp. cottage cheese, seasoned with chives or horseradish
1 cup milk

Dinner

1 cup hot bouillion
2 thin slices of spring lamb with caper sauce
1 serving new peas
1 asparagus salad (five stalks) with lemon juice dressing
1 hot biscuit with dot of butter
1 scoop raspberry ice
coffee

Make your mouth water? Sure does! Wonderful menus like this can trim you down? Yes, m'am!

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here's a tempting menu for a slimming day to help those working toward figure beauty for the summer!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

AN OCCASIONAL slimming day is good for everyone except those who are trying to gain. For all who have embarked on an exercise program to trim their figures for spring and summer, a sensible, daily diet patterned on today's menus is a must.

Fortunately, the weather at this time of year favors those who are trying seriously to lose. Since your body craves less of the heavy, warming, winter foods, your appetite is titilated by more of the delicate, sight-and-palate appealing dishes.

Today's tempting menus are only an example of how you can cater to your figure and your appetite at the same time:

Breakfast
½ cup grapefruit sections sprinkled with fresh mint
1 poached egg on one slice of toast with fresh-ground pepper garnish black coffee (saccharine if desired)

Lunch
1 large spring salad, consisting of small bunch of watercress, ½ sliced green pepper, 1 sliced small cucumber, 1 tbsp. French dressing
2 slices of melba toast spread with 2 tbsp. cottage cheese, seasoned with chives or horseradish
1 cup milk

Dinner
1 cup hot bouillion
2 thin slices of spring lamb with caper sauce
1 serving new peas
1 asparagus salad (five stalks) with lemon juice dressing
1 hot biscuit with dot of butter
1 scoop raspberry ice
coffee

Make your mouth water? Sure does! Wonderful menus like this can trim you down? Yes, m'am!

P. S. from J. R. P.
YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem—whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to me in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tomorrow: Make-up for your hands!

Slenderizing!

Here you are, lady! All the youthful, new-season details that you want! Envelope-flap pockets, bias-band trim, coat-dress opening. All on a smart frock!

Pattern 9259 in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48. Size 36 takes 4⅜ yards 35-inch; ¼ yard contrast fabric.

Send THIRTY cents in coins for this pattern to Marian Martin, care of The Cumberland News, Pattern Dept., 232 West 18th St., New York 11, N. Y. Print plainly NAME, ADDRESS with ZONE, SIZE and STYLE NUMBER.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Mother and Wife, Margaret A. Rowe, who passed away, April 2nd, 1939.
Dear God wilt thou a message take
To Mother who walks above?
Whisper that our hearts are with her,
And send her all our love.
Only you know and understand how much
We miss you precious Mom.
Her Husband and Children

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, John W. Yost, who separated this life 19 years ago April 2, 1932.
As we loved him so we miss him,
In our hearts he is so near,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
His thoughts were so full of us,
He could never forget,
And so we think that where he is
He must be watching yet.
Watching till we come to him,
Anxious if we were late,
Watching from Heaven's open windows,
Leaning from Heaven's gate,
Somewhere back of the sunset,
Where loviness never dies,
He lives in a land of Glory,
With the blue and gold of the sky.
Sadly missed by his WIFE AND CHILDREN

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Mother and Wife, Margaret A. Rowe, who passed away, April 2nd, 1939.
Dear God wilt thou a message take
To Mother who walks above?
Whisper that our hearts are with her,
And send her all our love.
Only you know and understand how much
We miss you precious Mom.
Her Husband and Children

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, John W. Yost, who separated this life 19 years ago April 2, 1932.
As we loved him so we miss him,
In our hearts he is so near,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
His thoughts were so full of us,
He could never forget,
And so we think that where he is
He must be watching yet.
Watching till we come to him,
Anxious if we were late,
Watching from Heaven's open windows,
Leaning from Heaven's gate,
Somewhere back of the sunset,
Where loviiness never dies,
He lives in a land of Glory,
With the blue and gold of the sky.
Sadly missed by his WIFE AND CHILDREN

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Mother and Wife, Margaret A. Rowe, who passed away, April 2nd, 1939.
Dear God wilt thou a message take
To Mother who walks above?
Whisper that our hearts are with her,
And send her all our love.
Only you know and understand how much
We miss you precious Mom.
Her Husband and Children

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, John W. Yost, who separated this life 19 years ago April 2, 1932.
As we loved him so we miss him,
In our hearts he is so near,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
His thoughts were so full of us,
He could never forget,
And so we think that where he is
He must be watching yet.
Watching till we come to him,
Anxious if we were late,
Watching from Heaven's open windows,
Leaning from Heaven's gate.
Somewhere back of the sunset,
Where loviiness never dies,
He lives in a land of Glory,
With the blue and gold of the sky.
Sadly missed by his WIFE AND CHILDREN

Kefauver Will Tell Of Inquiry In Book

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) will tell the story of the U. S. Senate crime investigation in a book to be published by Doubleday & Company, Inc., on July 12, the publishing house said today.

Doubleday, in a statement, said Kefauver's book will be titled "Crime In America."

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate Crime Committee, will touch the high points of the investigation in New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, Los Angeles, Dallas, New Orleans, Miami, and Saratoga, N. Y., Doubleday said.

TV A-Bomb To Wake Up Americans Is Proposed

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP) — A television atom bomb to wake up Americans is proposed by Dr. Ralph E. Lapp of Washington.

It would be a real a-bomb and blast down a real city, but uninhabited, one built for the special purpose of showing the destructive power. Where there is no television, motion pictures would be used.

Dr. Lapp is an atomic expert. His proposal is told today in the magazine, the Reporter. He is doing consultation for civil defense and formerly was head of nuclear physics in the Office of Naval Research.

by the Atomic Energy Commission.

It will be recalled that last summer Professor Brumo Pontecorvo, an atomic scientist who spent some time in the United States, slipped mysteriously into Finland and then vanished behind the iron curtain.

American authorities had warned the British that Pontecorvo should be watched, but nonetheless he and his family left London in August, presumably on vacation, traveled a circuitous route to Rome, Stockholm and Helsinki. There Pontecorvo was picked up by a Soviet embassy car and driven across the border to Leningrad.

The Italian-born professor allegedly had been in touch with the Russians long before he fled last summer, and made this move after he advised his Soviet contacts that he had information so "hot" he must bring it personally to the U. S. S. R.

Once in the Soviet, it is now reported that Prof. Pontecorvo devoted himself to writing an exhaustive report on a new method of A-bomb production, a long-range guided missile, and an air defense system based on cosmic rays. He is said to have told Marshall Beria, in charge of secret scientific research, that the air defense system could be in operation by October 1952.

Professor Pontecorvo is reported to be at work on all three projects with top priority given to an air defense system against the American atom bomb. In this connection it is interesting that the Supreme Soviet has within the last few weeks given special awards to several Russian scientists for cosmic ray research.

NOTE—While in the United States, Prof. Pontecorvo was not employed by the Atomic Energy Commission but was in contact with many leading scientists. He is regarded here as a reactor expert.

Snake Bites Expert

CHICAGO, April 2 (INS) — A tempermental timber rattle snake, rehearsing for a TV program in Chicago, bit one of the world's foremost snake experts on a finger yesterday.

As a result, R. Marlin Perkins, head of Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo, went to a hospital and the snake upheld tradition by carrying on to appear on two programs.

Stock Prices Ease Down In Routine Market Session

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—Today's stock market was strictly a routine trading affair with prices easing down all around.

Support appeared in the final hour and brought a number of the biggest losers up from their lows and pushed a few to the plus side.

Neither the original fall nor the final partial recovery could be regarded as particularly significant—except that the market is continuing in its pattern of narrow swings in a downward slope.

Weakness in the railroads brought on the decline early in the day after a mixed opening. The selling spread slowly to steels and motors and to a few of the chemicals and radio-televisions and some manufacturers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 50 cents at $92.10 with the industrial component off 70 cents, rails 60 cents and utilities 10 cents.

Volume was a meager 1,280,000 shares as compared with 1,150,000 shares last Friday.

International Hydro-Electric topped the list of most active issues with 20,500 shares traded. It closed up ⅜ at 15¾, the only stock ending higher in the list of 15 most active.

Radio Corp. unchanged at 19 was second most active, and others included Benguet Mining off ⅛ at 1¼, Packard Motors off ⅛ at 5½, and the Milwaukee Road off ⅝ at 22⅛.

Kefauver Will Tell Of Inquiry In Book

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) will tell the story of the U. S. Senate crime investigation in a book to be published by Doubleday & Company, Inc., on July 12, the publishing house said today.

Doubleday, in a statement, said Kefauver's book will be titled "Crime In America."

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate Crime Committee, will touch the high points of the investigation in New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, Los Angeles, Dallas, New Orleans, Miami, and Saratoga, N. Y., Doubleday said.

TV A-Bomb To Wake Up Americans Is Proposed

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP) — A television atom bomb to wake up Americans is proposed by Dr. Ralph E. Lapp of Washington.

It would be a real a-bomb and blast down a real city, but uninhabited, one built for the special purpose of showing the destructive power. Where there is no television, motion pictures would be used.

Dr. Lapp is an atomic expert. His proposal is told today in the magazine, the Reporter. He is doing consultation for civil defense and formerly was head of nuclear physics in the Office of Naval Research.

by the Atomic Energy Commission.

It will be recalled that last summer Professor Bruno Pontecorvo, an atomic scientist who spent some time in the United States, slipped mysteriously into Finland and then vanished behind the iron curtain.

American authorities had warned the British that Pontecorvo should be watched, but nonetheless he and his family left London in August, presumably on vacation, traveled a circuitous route to Rome, Stockholm and Helsinki. There Pontecorvo was picked up by a Soviet embassy car and driven across the border to Leningrad.

The Italian-born professor allegedly had been in touch with the Russians long before he fled last summer, and made this move after he advised his Soviet contacts that he had information so "hot" he must bring it personally to the U. S. S. R.

Once in the Soviet, it is now reported that Prof. Pontecorvo devoted himself to writing an exhaustive report on a new method of A-bomb production, a long-range guided missile, and an air defense system based on cosmic rays. He is said to have told Marshall Beria, in charge of secret scientific research, that the air defense system could be in operation by October 1952.

Professor Pontecorvo is reported to be at work on all three projects with top priority given to an air defense system against the American atom bomb. In this connection it is interesting that the Supreme Soviet has within the last few weeks given special awards to several Russian scientists for cosmic ray research.

NOTE—While in the United States, Prof. Pontecorvo was not employed by the Atomic Energy Commission but was in contact with many leading scientists. He is regarded here as a reactor expert.

CHICAGO, April 2 (INS) — A tempermental timber rattle snake, rehearsing for a TV program in Chicago, bit one of the world's foremost snake experts on a finger yesterday.

As a result, R. Marlin Perkins, head of Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo, went to a hospital and the snake upheld tradition by carrying on to appear on two programs.

Stock Prices Ease Down In Routine Market Session

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—Today's stock market was strictly a routine trading affair with prices easing down all around.

Support appeared in the final hour and brought a number of the biggest losers up from their lows and pushed a few to the plus side.

Neither the original fall nor the final partial recovery could be regarded as particularly significant—except that the market is continuing in its pattern of narrow swings in a downward slope.

Weakness in the railroads brought on the decline early in the day after a mixed opening. The selling spread slowly to steels and motors and to a few of the chemicals and radio-televisions and some manufacturers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 50 cents at $92.10 with the industrial component off 70 cents, rails 60 cents and utilities 10 cents.

Volume was a meager 1,280,000 shares as compared with 1,150,000 shares last Friday.

International Hydro-Electric topped the list of most active issues with 20,500 shares traded. It closed up ⅜ at 15¾, the only stock ending higher in the list of 15 most active.

Radio Corp. unchanged at 19 was second most active, and others included Benguet Mining off ⅛ at 1¼, Packard Motors off ⅛ at 5½, and the Milwaukee Road off ⅝ at 22⅛.

Kefauver Will Tell Of Inquiry In Book

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) will tell the story of the U. S. Senate crime investigation in a book to be published by Doubleday & Company, Inc., on July 12, the publishing house said today.

Doubleday, in a statement, said Kefauver's book will be titled "Crime In America."

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate Crime Committee, will touch the high points of the investigation in New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, Los Angeles, Dallas, New Orleans, Miami, and Saratoga, N. Y., Doubleday said.

TV A-Bomb To Wake Up Americans Is Proposed

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP) — A television atom bomb to wake up Americans is proposed by Dr. Ralph E. Lapp of Washington.

It would be a real a-bomb and blast down a real city, but uninhabited, one built for the special purpose of showing the destructive power. Where there is no television, motion pictures would be used.

Dr. Lapp is an atomic expert. His proposal is told today in the magazine, the Reporter. He is doing consultation for civil defense and formerly was head of nuclear physics in the Office of Naval Research.

by the Atomic Energy Commission.

It will be recalled that last summer Professor Bruno Pontecorvo, an atomic scientist who spent some time in the United States, slipped mysteriously into Finland and then vanished behind the iron curtain.

American authorities had warned the British that Pontecorvo should be watched, but nonetheless he and his family left London in August, presumably on vacation, traveled a circuitous route to Rome, Stockholm and Helsinki. There Pontecorvo was picked up by a Soviet embassy car and driven across the border to Leningrad.

The Italian-born professor allegedly had been in touch with the Russians long before he fled last summer, and made this move after he advised his Soviet contacts that he had information so "hot" he must bring it personally to the U. S. S. R.

Once in the Soviet, it is now reported that Prof. Pontecorvo devoted himself to writing an exhaustive report on a new method of A-bomb production, a long-range guided missile, and an air defense system based on cosmic rays. He is said to have told Marshall Beria, in charge of secret scientific research, that the air defense system could be in operation by October 1952.

Professor Pontecorvo is reported to be at work on all three projects with top priority given to an air defense system against the American atom bomb. In this connection it is interesting that the Supreme Soviet has within the last few weeks given special awards to several Russian scientists for cosmic ray research.

NOTE—While in the United States, Prof. Pontecorvo was not employed by the Atomic Energy Commission but was in contact with many leading scientists. He is regarded here as a reactor expert.

CHICAGO, April 2 (INS) — A tempermental timber rattle snake, rehearsing for a TV program in Chicago, bit one of the world's foremost snake experts on a finger yesterday.

As a result, R. Marlin Perkins, head of Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo, went to a hospital and the snake upheld tradition by carrying on to appear on two programs.

Stock Prices Ease Down In Routine Market Session

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—Today's stock market was strictly a routine trading affair with prices easing down all around.

Support appeared in the final hour and brought a number of the biggest losers up from their lows and pushed a few to the plus side.

Neither the original fall nor the final partial recovery could be regarded as particularly significant—except that the market is continuing in its pattern of narrow swings in a downward slope.

Weakness in the railroads brought on the decline early in the day after a mixed opening. The selling spread slowly to steels and motors and to a few of the chemicals and radio-televisions and some manufacturers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 50 cents at $92.10 with the industrial component off 70 cents, rails 60 cents and utilities 10 cents.

Volume was a meager 1,280,000 shares as compared with 1,150,000 shares last Friday.

International Hydro-Electric topped the list of most active issues with 20,500 shares traded. It closed up ⅜ at 15¾, the only stock ending higher in the list of 15 most active.

Radio Corp. unchanged at 19 was second most active, and others included Benguet Mining off ⅛ at 1¼, Packard Motors off ⅛ at 5½, and the Milwaukee Road off ⅝ at 22⅛.

Varied Activities To Mark Rebekah Assembly Program

350 Attend Opening Banquet Last Night

Formal presentation of state officers to the Junior Past President today will mark the official opening of the business sessions of 41st annual Rebekah Assembly of Maryland, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, at B. P. O. Elks home, 114 South Centre Street.

Officers will be introduced to the presiding junior Past President Mrs. Helen Cathcart, of Baltimore, by Mrs. Lacy Welsh, Cumberland, marshal of the Rebekah Assembly.

The ladies auxiliary to Canton Allegany No. 4, Patriarchs Militant (military branch of the IOOF) under the command of Captain Aleda Brinkman, Westernport, will escort the officers.

State Officers Listed

The state officers are Mrs. Catherine M. Couter, Cumberland, president; Mrs. Florence F. DeBow, Baltimore, vice president; Mrs. Blanche Carey, Salisbury, warden; Mrs. Nettie Collins, Baltimore, secretary and past president; Mrs. Madeline Houseman, Baltimore, treasurer and past president; Mrs. Mildred Rhoten, Sparrows Point, conductor, Mrs. Arvada Paul, Mt. Savage, chaplain; Mrs. Rosalie McCord, Cambridge, inside guard; Mrs. Florence Waigand, Hyattsville, outside guard, Mrs. Bertie M. Ranck, Cumberland, musician; Mrs. Meredith Morris, Dundalk, color bearer; and Mrs. Welsh.

Also listed for the morning session of the assembly will be the assembly degree which will be given to Past Grands of the Subordinate Lodge and Past Noble Grands of the Rebekah Lodge.

Luncheon for officers, visiting dignitaries and members will be served at IOOF Temple, South Mechanic Street. Mrs. George Keady is chairman of the luncheon committee and will be assisted by members of Colfax Lodge No. 1, Cumberland, the host lodge.

At 2 p. m. today the regular meeting of Colfax lodge will be held at the IOOF Temple.

A memorial service in honor of deceased members of the assembly in 1950 will be conducted at the Elks Home at 3 p. m. today. Mrs. Anna Diehl, special district deputy of Zone 1, is in charge.

350 Attend Banquet

Mesdames Emma Bramble, Audrey Callis, Lake Lynn, and Idella Hartsock and Martha Weller, of Colfax, will assist in the memorial service which will conclude today's session.

Last night more than 350 persons attended the opening banquet of the assembly at Ali Ghan Shrine Club. Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney, was guest speaker and outlined the first five years of Cumberland history to his audience.

Mrs. Thurman Leasure, Cumberland, Noble Grand of Colfax Lodge, was mistress of ceremonies and invocation was presented by Rev. R. Eugene May, Flintstone.

Entertainment was supplied by the Elks Quartet, James Hager, and Rosemary Barncord, vocalist with Jimmy Andrews Orchestra, which supplied music for dancing following the banquet.

A feature of the entertainment was a tableau by members of the local lodge under direction of Mrs. Ranck. A grand march opened the dancing session.

National Head Of Rebekahs Is At Parley

The national president of the Associated Rebekah Association surprised the local Rebekah Assembly of Maryland by attending its opening banquet last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Mrs. Ethel Smith, of Salt Lake City, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Utah, and national head of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows Auxiliaries, came to Cumberland for the three-day convention which is being held in the town where the first Rebekah lodge was organized.

State President Catherine M. Couter, Cumberland, introduced the Salt Lake City woman to the more than 300 attending delegates and friends.

Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney, was the guest speaker at the banquet and gave a history of Cumberland concerning the five years of George Washington's stay here.

Stegmaier told his audience it was his task to give them inspiration for the best assembly ever held by the state lodges.

He noted the five years of Washington's life here and said "Cumberland was George Washington's West Point. Actually his mistakes here became his perfection in the Revolutionary War. Cumberland was his military training ground."

Colfax Rebekah Lodge No. 1, Cumberland, the host organization for this 41st annual convention, was instituted June 21, 1886, and Queen Esther Rebekah Lodge, Baltimore, was instituted on the following day, June 22, 1886. Ridgeley Lodge No. 3, Frostburg, was organized in October, 1886, and Adam Thompson Lodge No. 11, Lonaconing, in April, 1898. Miriam Lodge No. 16 was formed in Westernport in February, 1903, and Woldry No. 4 in Mt. Savage was chartered in April, 1909.

State Rebekah Officers Attend Banquet

State officers of the Rebekah Assembly of Maryland are among the more than 300 guests who attended the opening banquet of the 41st annual session of the group last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney, was the guest speaker, outlining the five years of George Washington's life in Cumberland and welcoming the group here for the first time in 33 years. In the front row are Mrs. Nettie Collins, Baltimore, secretary; Mrs. Catherine M. Couter, Cumberland, president; Stegmaier; Mrs. Florence F. DeBow, Baltimore, vice president; and Mrs. Blanche H. Carey, Salisbury, warden. In the back row are Mrs. Rosalie McCord, Cambridge, inside guard; Mrs. Florence Waigand, Hyattsville, outside guard; Mrs. Lacy Welsh, Cumberland, marshal; Mrs. Bertie Ranck, Cumberland, musician; Mrs. Mildred Rhoten, Sparrows Point, conductor; Mrs. Arvada Paul, Mt. Savage, chaplain; and Mrs. Meredith Morris, Dundalk, color bearer.

Celanese Asks Tax Certificate For Amcelle Project

The Celanese Corporation has asked tax benefits covering new plant facilities, including cellulose acetate production at the Amcelle plant, the Associated Press reported yesterday.

The requests totaling $25,000,000 for five projects, include a cellulose acetate production facilities here to cost $540,000.

The defense production certificates would allow the firm to write off in five years, for tax purposes, the depreciation on the new plants and equipment. None of the applications have been acted on.

Riley Firm Is Given Garbage Contract Here

Council Accepts Bid Of $65,940

The Mayor and Council last night awarded the contract for the removal of garbage in this city to J. Riley and Sons, 507 Louisiana Avenue, for the sum of $65,940.

The Riley firm submitted the lower of two figures when bids were opened at last Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

The contract for removal of garbage, ashes and rubbish will run for one year from May 1, 1951.

Prior to the awarding of the contract last night, the Rileys were called before the city officials for information relative to their ability to fulfill the contract.

They reported they now have five trucks, two of them new.

Officials of the firm said they have been promised early delivery on three new trucks, adding it will not be difficult to obtain covered bodies to place upon the vehicles.

They explained that they plan to confer today with Emmett A. Dougherty, unsuccessful bidder for the contract, in an attempt to purchase trucks he now uses for the work.

Dougherty, present garbage contractor for the city, submitted a bid of $67,445 for the 1951 contract, and sought a flat $5,000 boost in the bid submitted recently.

In declining to renew his option, Dougherty cited the rising cost of materials and the higher cost and difficulty of securing labor.

Parkway Land Purchase Bill Is Set Aside

Legislature Passes Many Area Measures

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 2 (AP)—Maryland is not going to buy the land along the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal and turn it over free to the Federal government for construction of a $17,000,000 parkway for at least some time.

Senate Majority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany), who has been violently opposed on the bill he introduced to cede the land, today gave up the battle. He introduced instead a resolution directing a study of the land along the C. and O. Canal "with a view to acquiring such lands for park or parkway purposes."

The Senate adopted the resolution.

When his bill came up for final reading, he recommitted it to the Finance Committee.

At this late date, that action is equivalent to killing it.

The resolution, which charges the State Roads Commission, the Board of Natural Resources and the State Planning Commission with the study, was introduced to take the place of the bill.

Opposition Is Strong

The bill has been a controversial question. Protests over making the strip state land were loud and strong at a public hearing at Frederick last week. Other opponents to the bill spoke at a finance committee hearing on March 14.

Assistant Attorney General Joseph D. Buscher at that time came out against giving up all title and rights to the land by the state. The state would pay about $2,600,000 for the strip. Highway construction, to be paid by the government, would cost $17,000,000 at present rates. The 81st Congress has authorized such construction.

However, it is doubtful, Buscher said, whether Congress would appropriate money for the construction during the present war emergency.

Rep. Beall (R-Md.) of Frostburg, has repeatedly spoken for the bill although he said, "We certainly would never do anything detrimental to the industrial development of Maryland."

Many opponents have declared the bill will do just that by depriving industries of water right in the Potomac River.

House Votes Approval

Local bills passed by the General Assembly yesterday as the session ended included:

Passage by the House:

Senate Bill 209, by Kimble, to reconstitute the Liquor Control Board of Allegany County as the Board of License Commissioners.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, said the bill had been amended to create a Board of Liquor License Commissioners of Allegany County, to be appointed June 1, 1951, by the governor, with minority party representation. Salary will be $2400 per year each.

Delegate See said all controversial matter in the bill was deleted.

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., who bitterly contested passage of the bill, yesterday withdrew his opposition, saying there were still a few objectionable parts in the bill but that he did not want to jeapordize the measure as a whole.

Approve Coal Bill

The House also passed, HB256—by Driscoll—setting a minimum pay for judges and clerks of election in Allegany County at $1 per hour.

HB444—by Allegany Delegation—

Summer Rec Job Deadline Coming Soon

Hoey Sets April 13 As Final Date

All applications for summer jobs in the City Recreation Department must be submitted by Friday, April 13, Edmund F. Hoey, director, announced yesterday.

The 43 jobs will include 14 playground directors, 14 junior recreation assistants, four checkers, two cashiers and four life guards at Constitution Park pool and five play field directors.

60 Already Filed

Hoey emphasized that persons who served last year must submit new applications if they wish to be considered for the 1951 program. Some 60 applications are already on file.

The pool jobs will begin May 30 and continue until Labor Day and playgrounds and play fields wil open June 18 and close August 24.

The week's schedule of the Recreation Department includes:

Callers Class

Square Dance Callers class at City Hall Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Thursday at 7 p. m. in City Hall, registration of all softball teams which have entered or wish to enter the Recreation League.

Teams which have not received franchises and wish to enter the League are urged to have representatives at the meeting.

Seven Teams

At present the Industrial League has seven teams; Men's Recreation League, four teams and the High School League, two. Each division will have eight teams.

Thursday at 8 p. m. there will be a meeting of the Recreation Board.

The Golden Age Club will meet Friday at 2:30 p. m. in Central YMCA. Those who wish to join are urged to attend the meeting.

Riverside Park To Be Readied For Summer Use

Parking Violations Will Be Checked

Plans were made last night to halt damage to Riverside Park through illegal parking, and for fencing off part of the park to allow its use during late spring and summer.

Mrs. Margaret Findlay, a member of the Cumberland Park Board, in a conference with Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of Streets and Public Property, reported that cars parking in the area since the flood control project began have already caused damage to some of the walkways and shrubbery.

She reported that a number of vehicles have been using the park as a parking area both during the day and night.

Mrs. Roeder reported that Police Commissioner John J. Long promised full cooperation of his department in protecting the area from destruction.

Officials said "no parking" signs will be erected at once.

Also worked out, at a conference between the above officials and Mayor Thomas S. Post and Albert S. Paye, liaison engineer for the city in the Flood Project, were plans to erect a strong fence around the area now under construction in the park in connection with the flood control work.

Paye said such a fence will allow the use of about half of the park for recreation purposes during the spring and summer.

Mrs. Roeder said the Street Department will take charge of the work.

Paye said he believed the cost can be charged to the Flood Control project in order to allow the use of the park while the work is under progress there.

30 Per Cent Of Motorists Use Old Tags

North End Streets Checked In Survey

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Three out of every 10 automobiles in Cumberland possibly could not be driven if Governor Theodore R. McKeldin had not extended the deadline for use of old Maryland license plates, an informal survey on two North End streets yesterday afternoon indicated.

Of the 93 Maryland automobiles which passed along North Centre Street and North Mechanic Street during the 30-minute check only 66 bore new license tags. That figures to 70.9 per cent or just a little more than seven out of every 10 automobiles.

Originally, the old tags were to have lapsed at midnight last Saturday, but Governor McKeldin extended the deadline indefinitely because a shortage of steel has delayed delivery of some plates.

The first 15 minutes of the survey, motor vehicles were checked as they traveled north on Centre Street past Franklin Street. During that time 37 Maryland automobiles passed that spot and 23, or 62.1 per cent bore the new 1952 plates.

During the second 15-minute period cars were checked as they traveled south on Mechanic Street and it was observed that 43, or 76.8 per cent of the 56 automobiles carried the new license plates.

Twenty-seven Maryland trucks also were checked during the survey. All of those bore old plates because new truck tags originally were not required until April 30.

Informed of the survey results, Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat, who has been handling the local sale of license plates, expressed a belief that some drivers who had purchased the new plates have just not bothered to attach them yet. He noted that sales at his office dropped off yesterday to only about 125 sets. He still has about 800 of the 13,000 sets that have been delivered to him.

April Grand Jury Begins Probe Of County Cases

Judge Henderson Lauds Kefauver

Four or five indictments were returned yesterday by the April grand jury in Allegany County Circuit Court before it wound up its first day's activities about 4 p. m.

Law enforcement officials of most of the county communities were at the Court House yesterday to testify before the grand jury on specific cases and general conditions of law enforcement in the county.

The grand jury generally takes the better part of a week to conclude its investigations.

Henderson Gives Charge

Associate Judge George Henderson in his charge to the April grand jury yesterday commented on the "splendid work done by the Kefauver Committee" which is investigating crime in the United States.

The jurist said: "One of the problems that confronts our people at this time is that of rackets. The extent to which this is prevalent has been shown by the testimony before the Kefauver Committee.

"One of our Maryland Senators (Herbert R. O'Conor) has done splendid work in assisting the committee reveal to our people the sordid story of the wealth amassed by criminals, and the influence they have been able to exert on politicians to insure the continuance of their far-reaching and very profitable operations.

"You men, coming as you do from various communities in the county, may know of local racketeering. And it is within your power, by calling the proper officials, to determine whether effective steps are being taken to eradicate the trouble.

"It is improper for anyone, in official position or otherwise, to attempt to influence your decision to indict or to refuse to indict. The decision is yours alone."

Collins Is Foreman

Porter D. Collins, an official at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, was named foreman of the April grand jury yesterday morning by Judge Henderson.

The next two weeks the two judges will sit in cases in Garrett County Circuit Court in order to clear the docket there.

Metal Workers Organize Local

Charter Will Be Presented Tonight

Formal presentation of a charter to newly organized Local No. 537, Sheet Metal Workers' International Association, will take place this evening at 8 o'clock in the Plumbers' and Fitters' Hall, 6 Harrison Street.

The Local was organized March 5, 1951 with 31 charter members including 27 journeymen and four apprentices. H. V. Bowman, International representative, Washington, D. C., spoke to the group.

Bruce Duvall was named president. Other officers are Howard Blank, vice-president, George Habig, secretary-treasurer, Willard Trostle, recording secretary, Paul Hansel, conductor, and Thurman Twigg, warden.

The three trustees of the Local are John Stewart, Thomas Monahan and Paul Campbell. Elwood Rowley is business agent.

Leo Stakem To Speak In College Contest

Leo Stakem will represent LaSalle High School in the finals of the oratorical contest to be held at LaSalle College, Philadelphia, Sunday, April 15.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stakem 414 Fayette Street, the senior gained the judges' decision over the runner-up, Joseph Fair, in an elimination contest held last Friday at the local school.

The contest in Philadelphia will be part of the commemoration of the tercentenary of the birth of St. John Baptist de LaSalle, founder of the Brothers of the Christian Schools.

First prize will be a four-year full-tuition scholarship to LaSalle College, valued at $1,600.

WEATHER

April, traditionally a wet month, was following true to form yesterday as local residents found need for raincoats several times during the day. Accumulation of rain reported by the Constitution Park weather station was only .05 inches, however. Highest reading recorded was 45 with the low point on the thermometer being 37. The river fluctuated slightly during the day but remained near seven feet which is 10 feet below flood stage. Today's prediction is for rain this morning and cloudy this afternoon.

City's Traffic Problem Studied By South End

Naughton Outlines Proposed Remedies

Tackling the traffic problem as a whole in the city of Cumberland, Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Second National Bank, outlined various remedies to the South End Businessmen's Association yesterday, at the group's regular meeting.

Fifty-seven members of the association attended the luncheon meeting to hear Naughton's breakdown of the situation and proposed means to alleviate the situation.

Naughton told his audience he had studied various engineering and traffic surveys which had been made by interested private and engineering concerns and indicated several means by which Cumberland's most pressing problem could be relieved.

Heading the list of suggestions by Naughton was the overhead bridge with entrance ramps at Mechanic and Centre Streets. Naughton outlined the proposed routes which could be connected with the bridge and gave an estimate to the costs of the construction.

Also listed by the bank head as aids to the situation were one way traffic on Bedford and Frederick streets, integrated traffic on Henderson Avenue, automatic signal lights on Baltimore Street which could not be operated manually but which would be synchronized to operate together, a route from Oldtown along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to connect with the overhead bridge at the Western Maryland Railway station, and rerouting of traffic from Greene Street along the Potomac River to bypass the main section of town.

Moberly Will Speak

John A. Moberly will be guest speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon meeting Thursday at the Central YMCA. His subject will be "Your Community Hospital."

Wenrich Gets Highest Vote At Cresaptown

Bowman, Ferrone, Bird Also Win

Cresaptown voters elected two new officers to positions in the Civic Improvement Association yesterday and returned two incumbents to office. President James C. Skidmore was not on the ballot. He is completing the first year of a two year term as head of the group.

Highest number of votes received of the 110 cast went to Joseph Wenrich, incumbent water commissioner, who polled 94. Phillip Bowman, now serving as vice president, polled 60 as did Charles Bird. Frank Ferrone was also elected, with 55 votes.

Wenrich will serve a two year term. Bowman or Bird will also serve a two year period but a spokesman for the organization said last night that because of the tie vote between the two men it was impossible to determine which will be given the longer tenure in office. Ferrone will remain in office for one year. Bylaws of the group provide that the two men receiving the highest vote shall serve two years while the other two elected shall be for one year terms.

Other candidates on the ballot were Edgar Houndshell with 47 votes; Christopher Snyder with 45; Joseph Blake and Arden Varner each with 33 ballots.

Installation of officers will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the water office as a part of the regular meeting. The officers will decide which of their number will occupy positions as secretary, treasurer, vice president and water commissioner.

Election supervisors at yesterday's balloting were Mrs. Grace Hudson, chairman; Mrs. George Zeigler and Mrs. Charles Bird.

To Meet Wednesday

The Allegany - Garrett County Dental Society will meet Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. in Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

A regular business meeting will follow the dinner.

All-American Airways Route Is Recommended

The Civil Aeronautics Board Examiner recommended All-American Airways, Inc., an extension of its present route from Washington, D. C. to Atlantic City to Newark, N. J., by way of the intermediate point of Asbury Park, N. J.

CAB Examiner Richard A. Walsh reported the extension would be of general public benefit and aid military personnel at nearby Fort Monmouth as well, in recommending the extension.

All-American Airways has daily service to Cumberland, Pittsburgh, Washington, New York and other eastern points.

Toey Named Chairman Of TWUA Department

Western Maryland College President To Speak Here

Dr. Ensor Will Talk At Dinner On Friday

Dr. Lowell S. Ensor, college president, will be principal speaker at the Western Maryland College dinner at Centre Street Methodist Church Friday night at 7 o'clock.

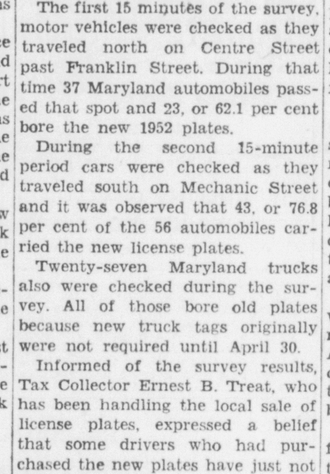

The dinner will be the culmination of a series of individual organizational meetings held within the past two weeks in preparation for the kick-off of the current college fund-raising campaign in Allegany County. The campaign is part of the Western Maryland Mid-Century Advance Program.

Rev. John Bayley Jones, pastor of First Methodist Church, Frostburg, and former director of public relations at Western Maryland, is the Allegany County chairman for this college-backed program.

Other features will include music provided by members of the college student body: Miss Josephine Kompanek, Cumberland, soprano; Marilyn Hardester, Eastern Shore, contralto, and James Hager, Cumberland, tenor.

A technicolor sound movie of the college, "Western Maryland Looks Ahead," also will be shown.

DR. LOWELL S. ENSOR

The college's nation-wide campaign for $1,500,000 got underway in January in Carroll and Frederick counties. Solicitations also have been held in the District of Columbia area and on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Already over $730,000 has been contributed and pledged.

The drive is being conducted to raise needed funds for a building and increased endowment program.

Plans are underway to build a new men's dormitory, increase the size of the present library and renovate Old Main buildings. With this program Western Maryland hopes to improve its facilities but not enlarge the enrollment.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Ballots will be cast for election of officers to Cumberland Aerie No. 245, F. O. Eagles between 12 and 7:30 p. m. today. Two sports reels will be shown during counting of ballots after 7:30 o'clock, Floyd S. Elliott, president, said last night.

Ralph L. Bowers will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club today at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA. Mr. Bowers will speak on re-orientation and work of the State Department in Germany.

Daughters of American Revolution will hold a card party tonight at Central YMCA beginning at 8 o'clock.

The General Committee of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the union hall.

The North End Playground Association will meet at the Field House today at 8 p. m.

Army Recruiter Completes 24 Years Service In City

Master Sergeant Clarence Biehn, U. S. Army Recruiting Service, marks the 24th anniversary of recruiting in Cumberland today. It was on April 3, 1927 that Biehn reported to this city.

When Biehn who now possesses nine "hash marks", came to Cumberland, the recruiting office was located at 52 Baltimore Street. Later it was moved to 131 Baltimore Street where it remained until June 30, 1933 when his office was moved to the newly-constructed Post Office Building.

When the recruiting office closed on January 4, 1944, Sergeant Biehn reported to Fifth Regiment Armory Baltimore where he was put in charge of pre-inductees. Two years later he went to Camp George G Meade, and in September 1947 he returned to Cumberland.

On July 2 of this year he will have completed 30 years service with the U. S. Army but plans to remain in the service until his enlistment expiration date on September 27, when he will receive his discharge.

In 1923 he left the service for a period of four years. He reenlisted in 1927 and was later assigned to the office in Cumberland.

In World War II, two of his sons entered the service. One a gunner and the other a mechanic in the U. S. Army Air Force. Though his original residence is Chicago, Ill. Sergeant Biehn said last night he plans to make his home here in Cumberland upon retirement.

Memorial Hospital announces the following birth:

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Elkins, 90 Knobley Street, Ridgeley, W. Va., a daughter yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Buchanan, 538 North Centre Street, twin daughters yesterday evening.

Allegany Hospital announces the following birth:

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Boyd, RFD No. 3, a son yesterday evening.

Consultant Stresses Value To PTA Of Good Budgets

Mrs. Anne C. Crampton, field consultant for National Congress of Parents and Teachers from the State of Washington, stressed the importance of PTA budgets at the Parent-Teacher Leadership Institute of District No. 1, yesterday at Centre Street Methodist Church.

Pointing out that necessary funds for representation at annual state conventions, conferences and workshops is vitally important, Mrs. Crampton stated that representation should be adequate—certainly including the association's president and as many other leaders as possible.

Different methods of money raising were discussed at the afternoon portion of the two-session meeting yesterday. Methods should be considered from all angles, Mrs. Crampton said, adding that it may not break the law but might not uphold policies of the PTA.

The evening session was devoted to programs and planning. The organization should take in all meetings of chairmen and committees as well as monthly meetings and plan every move carefully, Mrs. Crampton told the delegation. All programs should be based on the interests of the school and the community. Learning for adults "has to be pleasant and give satisfaction if we are to become adequate parents and citizens," she outlined.

Approximately 75 persons attended the two sessions with an interpretation of policies of the organization being explained. "These policies are easier to write than to put into practice," Mrs. Crampton said.

The sessions will continue today with meetings at the church from 10 a. m. to noon, 1:30 to 4:30 and dinner at 6 o'clock in the evening.

Varied Activities To Mark Rebekah Assembly Program

350 Attend Opening Banquet Last Night

Formal presentation of state officers to the Junior Past President today will mark the official opening of the business sessions of 41st annual Rebekah Assembly of Maryland, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, at B. P. O. Elks home, 114 South Centre Street.

Officers will be introduced to the presiding junior Past President Mrs. Helen Cathcart, of Baltimore, by Mrs. Lacy Welsh, Cumberland, marshal of the Rebekah Assembly.

The ladies auxiliary to Canton Allegany No. 4, Patriarchs Militant (military branch of the IOOF) under the command of Captain Aleda Brinkman, Westernport, will escort the officers.

State Officers Listed

The state officers are Mrs. Catherine M. Couter, Cumberland, president; Mrs. Florence F. DeBow, Baltimore, vice president; Mrs. Blanche Carey, Salisbury, warden; Mrs. Nettie Collins, Baltimore, secretary and past president; Mrs. Madeline Houseman, Baltimore, treasurer and past president; Mrs. Mildred Rhoten, Sparrows Point, conductor, Mrs. Arvada Paul, Mt. Savage, chaplain; Mrs. Rosalie McCord, Cambridge, inside guard; Mrs. Florence Waigand, Hyattsville, outside guard, Mrs. Bertie M. Ranck, Cumberland, musician; Mrs. Meredith Morris, Dundalk, color bearer; and Mrs. Welsh.

Also listed for the morning session of the assembly will be the assembly degree which will be given to Past Grands of the Subordinate Lodge and Past Noble Grands of the Rebekah Lodge.

Luncheon for officers, visiting dignitaries and members will be served at IOOF Temple, South Mechanic Street. Mrs. George Keady is chairman of the luncheon committee and will be assisted by members of Colfax Lodge No. 1, Cumberland, the host lodge.

At 2 p. m. today the regular meeting of Colfax lodge will be held at the IOOF Temple.

A memorial service in honor of deceased members of the assembly in 1950 will be conducted at the Elks Home at 3 p. m. today. Mrs. Anna Diehl, special district deputy of Zone 1, is in charge.

350 Attend Banquet

Mesdames Emma Bramble, Audrey Callis, Lake Lynn, and Idella Hartsock and Martha Weller, of Colfax, will assist in the memorial service which will conclude today's session.

Last night more than 350 persons attended the opening banquet of the assembly at Ali Ghan Shrine Club. Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney, was guest speaker and outlined the first five years of Cumberland history to his audience.

Mrs. Thurman Leasure, Cumberland, Noble Grand of Colfax Lodge, was mistress of ceremonies and invocation was presented by Rev. R. Eugene May, Flintstone.

Entertainment was supplied by the Elks Quartet, James Hager, and Rosemary Barncord, vocalist with Jimmy Andrews Orchestra, which supplied music for dancing following the banquet.

A feature of the entertainment was a tableau by members of the local lodge under direction of Mrs. Ranck. A grand march opened the dancing session.

National Head Of Rebekahs Is At Parley

The national president of the Associated Rebekah Association surprised the local Rebekah Assembly of Maryland by attending its opening banquet last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Mrs. Ethel Smith, of Salt Lake City, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Utah, and national head of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows Auxiliaries, came to Cumberland for the three-day convention which is being held in the town where the first Rebekah lodge was organized.

State President Catherine M. Couter, Cumberland, introduced the Salt Lake City woman to the more than 300 attending delegates and friends.

Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney, was the guest speaker at the banquet and gave a history of Cumberland concerning the five years of George Washington's stay here.

Stegmaier told his audience it was his task to give them inspiration for the best assembly ever held by the state lodges.

He noted the five years of Washington's life here and said "Cumberland was George Washington's West Point. Actually his mistakes here became his perfection in the Revolutionary War. Cumberland was his military training ground."

Colfax Rebekah Lodge No. 1, Cumberland, the host organization for this 41st annual convention, was instituted June 21, 1886, and Queen Esther Rebekah Lodge, Baltimore, was instituted on the following day, June 22, 1886. Ridgeley Lodge No. 3, Frostburg, was organized in October, 1886, and Adam Thompson Lodge No. 11, Lonaconing, in April, 1898. Miriam Lodge No. 16 was formed in Westernport in February, 1903, and Woldry No. 4 in Mt. Savage was chartered in April, 1909.

Riverside Park To Be Readied For Summer Use

Parking Violations Will Be Checked

Plans were made last night to halt damage to Riverside Park through illegal parking, and for fencing off part of the park to allow its use during late spring and summer.

Mrs. Margaret Findlay, a member of the Cumberland Park Board, in a conference with Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of Streets and Public Property, reported that cars parking in the area since the flood control project began have already caused damage to some of the walkways and shrubbery.

She reported that a number of vehicles have been using the park as a parking area both during the day and night.

Mrs. Roeder reported that Police Commissioner John J. Long promised full cooperation of his department in protecting the area from destruction.

Officials said "no parking" signs will be erected at once.

Also worked out, at a conference between the above officials and Mayor Thomas S. Post and Albert S. Paye, liaison engineer for the city in the Flood Project, were plans to erect a strong fence around the area now under construction in the park in connection with the flood control work.

Paye said such a fence will allow the use of about half of the park for recreation purposes during the spring and summer.

Mrs. Roeder said the Street Department will take charge of the work.

Paye said he believed the cost can be charged to the Flood Control project in order to allow the use of the park while the work is under progress there.

All-American Airways Route Is Recommended

The Civil Aeronautics Board Examiner recommended All-American Airways, Inc., an extension of its present route from Washington, D. C. to Atlantic City to Newark, N. J., by way of the intermediate point of Asbury Park, N. J.

CAB Examiner Richard A. Walsh reported the extension would be of general public benefit and aid military personnel at nearby Fort Monmouth as well, in recommending the extension.

All-American Airways has daily service to Cumberland, Pittsburgh, Washington, New York and other eastern points.

30 Per Cent Of Motorists Use Old Tags

North End Streets Checked In Survey

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Three out of every 10 automobiles in Cumberland possibly could not be driven if Governor Theodore R. McKeldin had not extended the deadline for use of old Maryland license plates, an informal survey on two North End streets yesterday afternoon indicated.

Of the 93 Maryland automobiles which passed along North Centre Street and North Mechanic Street during the 30-minute check only 66 bore new license tags. That figures to 70.9 per cent or just a little more than seven out of every 10 automobiles.

Originally, the old tags were to have lapsed at midnight last Saturday, but Governor McKeldin extended the deadline indefinitely because a shortage of steel has delayed delivery of some plates.

The first 15 minutes of the survey, motor vehicles were checked as they traveled north on Centre Street past Franklin Street. During that time 37 Maryland automobiles passed that spot and 23, or 62.1 per cent bore the new 1952 plates.

During the second 15-minute period cars were checked as they traveled south on Mechanic Street and it was observed that 43, or 76.8 per cent of the 56 automobiles carried the new license plates.

Twenty-seven Maryland trucks also were checked during the survey. All of those bore old plates because new truck tags originally were not required until April 30.

Informed of the survey results, Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat, who has been handling the local sale of license plates, expressed a belief that some drivers who had purchased the new plates have just not bothered to attach them yet. He noted that sales at his office dropped off yesterday to only about 125 sets. He still has about 800 of the 13,000 sets that have been delivered to him.

Toey Named Chairman Of TWUA Department

Neil Toey was elected chairman of the Engineering Department of Local 1874, Textile Workers of America (CIO), in a recent run-off election.

Henry McKenzie was named subchairman of Traffic and Labor in the same poll.

April Grand Jury Begins Probe Of County Cases

Judge Henderson Lauds Kefauver

Four or five indictments were returned yesterday by the April grand jury in Allegany County Circuit Court before it wound up its first day's activities about 4 p. m.

Law enforcement officials of most of the county communities were at the Court House yesterday to testify before the grand jury on specific cases and general conditions of law enforcement in the county.

The grand jury generally takes the better part of a week to conclude its investigations.

Henderson Gives Charge

Associate Judge George Henderson in his charge to the April grand jury yesterday commented on the "splendid work done by the Kefauver Committee" which is investigating crime in the United States.

The jurist said: "One of the problems that confronts our people at this time is that of rackets. The extent to which this is prevalent has been shown by the testimony before the Kefauver Committee.

"One of our Maryland Senators (Herbert R. O'Conor) has done splendid work in assisting the committee reveal to our people the sordid story of the wealth amassed by criminals, and the influence they have been able to exert on politicians to insure the continuance of their far-reaching and very profitable operations.

"You men, coming as you do from various communities in the county, may know of local racketeering. And it is within your power, by calling the proper officials, to determine whether effective steps are being taken to eradicate the trouble.

"It is improper for anyone, in official position or otherwise, to attempt to influence your decision to indict or to refuse to indict. The decision is yours alone."

Collins Is Foreman

Other men drawn for grand jury service are Frank S. Rizer, of Mt. Savage; Cecil A. Tomlinson, of Wrights Crossing; Virgil B. Amtower, Harry W. Critchfield, and Maurice N. Robinette, all of Cumberland; Blair V. Welsh, LaVale; Cecil R. Broadwater, Barton; Hugh W. Wilson, of Luke; Vincent P. DelaGrange and George C. Fey, Jr., both of Cumberland.

John M. Murphy, of Lonaconing; James M. Carter, of Eckhart; Myron S. Burkey and Charles F. Thuss, Cumberland; William Abbott, of Lonaconing; J. Arthur Weisenborn, of Eckhart; George Schwarzenbach of Cumberland; J. Glenn Beall, Jr., of Frostburg; Frank Beveridge, of Midland; David C. Price, of Frostburg; James A. W. Hugglestone, Frostburg, and Clarence J. Day, of Cumberland.

Petit Jury Listed

John E. Sharp, Jr., city; Harry T. Kalbaugh, Orville Kaslo, and George P. Dewitt, Jr., of Westernport; Robert C. Morton, city; Richard D. Johnson, of Frostburg; Ralph W. Rice, Joseph K. Mooney and Edgar L. Bucy, all of Cumberland; Alex Bogie, Sr., of Lonaconing; Carl C. Coffman, of Oldtown; William E. Lawyer, city; Marshall M. Van Meter, of Cresaptown; John W. Ritchie, of Wrights Crossing and Walter G. Delozier, city.

Benjamin B. Wilkes, of Lonaconing; Russell M. Valentine, Walter L. Wieres and James D. Heron, all of Cumberland; Charles E. Schlosser, of Cresaptown; Frank Madera and John J. Tipton, both of Cumberland; Thomas Williams, of Cresaptown; Roy Rephann, of Frostburg, and Orville G. Burkett, of Potomac Park.

After the petit jury received an outline of their duties from Judge Henderson they were excused until April 16 at 9:15 a. m. when criminal trials open.

The next two weeks the two judges will sit in cases in Garrett County Circuit Court in order to clear the docket there.

Other features will include music provided by members of the college student body: Miss Josephine Kompanek, Cumberland, soprano; Marilyn Hardester, Eastern Shore, contralto, and James Hager, Cumberland, tenor.

A technicolor sound movie of the college, "Western Maryland Looks Ahead," also will be shown.

The college's nation-wide campaign for $1,500,000 got underway in January in Carroll and Frederick counties. Solicitations also have been held in the District of Columbia area and on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Already over $730,000 has been contributed and pledged.

The drive is being conducted to raise needed funds for a building and increased endowment program.

Plans are underway to build a new men's dormitory, increase the size of the present library and renovate Old Main buildings. With this program Western Maryland hopes to improve its facilities but not enlarge the enrollment.

Army Recruiter Completes 24 Years Service In City

Master Sergeant Clarence Biehn, U. S. Army Recruiting Service, marks the 24th anniversary of recruiting in Cumberland today. It was on April 3, 1927 that Biehn reported to this city.

When Biehn who now possesses nine "hash marks", came to Cumberland, the recruiting office was located at 52 Baltimore Street. Later it was moved to 131 Baltimore Street where it remained until June 30, 1933 when his office was moved to the newly-constructed Post Office Building.

When the recruiting office closed on January 4, 1944, Sergeant Biehn reported to Fifth Regiment Armory Baltimore where he was put in charge of pre-inductees. Two years later he went to Camp George G Meade, and in September 1947 he returned to Cumberland.

On July 2 of this year he will have completed 30 years service with the U. S. Army but plans to remain in the service until his enlistment expiration date on September 27, when he will receive his discharge.

In 1923 he left the service for a period of four years. He reenlisted in 1927 and was later assigned to the office in Cumberland.

In World War II, two of his sons entered the service. One a gunner and the other a mechanic in the U. S. Army Air Force. Though his original residence is Chicago, Ill. Sergeant Biehn said last night he plans to make his home here in Cumberland upon retirement.

Allegany Hospital announces the following birth:

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Boyd, RFD No. 3, a son yesterday evening.

Celanese Asks Tax Certificate For Amcelle Project

The Celanese Corporation has asked tax benefits covering new plant facilities, including cellulose acetate production at the Amcelle plant, the Associated Press reported yesterday.

The requests totaling $25,000,000 for five projects, include a cellulose acetate production facilities here to cost $540,000.

The defense production certificates would allow the firm to write off in five years, for tax purposes, the depreciation on the new plants and equipment. None of the applications have been acted on.

Riley Firm Is Given Garbage Contract Here

Council Accepts Bid Of $65,940

The Mayor and Council last night awarded the contract for the removal of garbage in this city to J. Riley and Sons, 507 Louisiana Avenue, for the sum of $65,940.

The Riley firm submitted the lower of two figures when bids were opened at last Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

The contract for removal of garbage, ashes and rubbish will run for one year from May 1, 1951.

Prior to the awarding of the contract last night, the Rileys were called before the city officials for information relative to their ability to fulfill the contract.

They reported they now have five trucks, two of them new.

Officials of the firm said they have been promised early delivery on three new trucks, adding it will not be difficult to obtain covered bodies to place upon the vehicles.

They explained that they plan to confer today with Emmett A. Dougherty, unsuccessful bidder for the contract, in an attempt to purchase trucks he now uses for the work.

Dougherty, present garbage contractor for the city, submitted a bid of $67,445 for the 1951 contract, and sought a flat $5,000 boost in the bid submitted recently.

In declining to renew his option, Dougherty cited the rising cost of materials and the higher cost and difficulty of securing labor.

Metal Workers Organize Local

Charter Will Be Presented Tonight

Formal presentation of a charter to newly organized Local No. 537, Sheet Metal Workers' International Association, will take place this evening at 8 o'clock in the Plumbers' and Fitters' Hall, 6 Harrison Street.

The Local was organized March 5, 1951 with 31 charter members including 27 journeymen and four apprentices. H. V. Bowman, International representative, Washington, D. C., spoke to the group.

Nomination of officers was held March 5 and an election the following night.

Bruce Duvall was named president. Other officers are Howard Blank, vice-president, George Habig, secretary-treasurer, Willard Trostle, recording secretary, Paul Hansel, conductor, and Thurman Twigg, warden.

The three trustees of the Local are John Stewart, Thomas Monahan and Paul Campbell. Elwood Rowley is business agent.

Leo Stakem To Speak In College Contest

Leo Stakem will represent LaSalle High School in the finals of the oratorical contest to be held at LaSalle College, Philadelphia, Sunday, April 15.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stakem 414 Fayette Street, the senior gained the judges' decision over the runner-up, Joseph Fair, in an elimination contest held last Friday at the local school.

The contest in Philadelphia will be part of the commemoration of the tercentenary of the birth of St. John Baptist de LaSalle, founder of the Brothers of the Christian Schools.

First prize will be a four-year full-tuition scholarship to LaSalle College, valued at $1,600.

Parkway Land Purchase Bill Is Set Aside

Legislature Passes Many Area Measures

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 2 (AP)—Maryland is not going to buy the land along the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal and turn it over free to the Federal government for construction of a $17,000,000 parkway for at least some time.

Senate Majority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany), who has been violently opposed on the bill he introduced to cede the land, today gave up the battle. He introduced instead a resolution directing a study of the land along the C. and O. Canal "with a view to acquiring such lands for park or parkway purposes."

The Senate adopted the resolution.

When his bill came up for final reading, he recommitted it to the Finance Committee.

At this late date, that action is equivalent to killing it.

The resolution, which charges the State Roads Commission, the Board of Natural Resources and the State Planning Commission with the study, was introduced to take the place of the bill.

Opposition Is Strong

The bill has been a controversial question. Protests over making the strip state land were loud and strong at a public hearing at Frederick last week. Other opponents to the bill spoke at a finance committee hearing on March 14.

Assistant Attorney General Joseph D. Buscher at that time came out against giving up all title and rights to the land by the state. The state would pay about $2,600,000 for the strip. Highway construction, to be paid by the government, would cost $17,000,000 at present rates. The 81st Congress has authorized such construction.

However, it is doubtful, Buscher said, whether Congress would appropriate money for the construction during the present war emergency.

Rep. Beall (R-Md.) of Frostburg, has repeatedly spoken for the bill although he said, "We certainly would never do anything detrimental to the industrial development of Maryland."

Many opponents have declared the bill will do just that by depriving industries of water right in the Potomac River.

House Votes Approval

Local bills passed by the General Assembly yesterday as the session ended included:

Passage by the House:

Senate Bill 209, by Kimble, to reconstitute the Liquor Control Board of Allegany County as the Board of License Commissioners.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, said the bill had been amended to create a Board of Liquor License Commissioners of Allegany County, to be appointed June 1, 1951, by the governor, with minority party representation. Salary will be $2400 per year each.

Delegate See said all controversial matter in the bill was deleted.

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., who bitterly contested passage of the bill, yesterday withdrew his opposition, saying there were still a few objectionable parts in the bill but that he did not want to jeapordize the measure as a whole.

Approve Coal Bill

The House also passed, HB256—by Driscoll—setting a minimum pay for judges and clerks of election in Allegany County at $1 per hour.

HB444—by Allegany Delegation—

WEATHER

April, traditionally a wet month, was following true to form yesterday as local residents found need for raincoats several times during the day. Accumulation of rain reported by the Constitution Park weather station was only .05 inches, however. Highest reading recorded was 48 with the low point on the thermometer being 37. The river fluctuated slightly during the day but remained near seven feet which is 10 feet below flood stage. Today's prediction is for rain this morning and cloudy this afternoon.

Consultant Stresses Value To PTA Of Good Budgets

Mrs. Anne C. Crampton, field consultant for National Congress of Parents and Teachers from the State of Washington, stressed the importance of PTA budgets at the Parent-Teacher Leadership Institute of District No. 1, yesterday at Centre Street Methodist Church.

Pointing out that necessary funds for representation at annual state conventions, conferences and workshops is vitally important, Mrs. Crampton stated that representation should be adequate—certainly including the association's president and as many other leaders as possible.

Different methods of money raising were discussed at the afternoon portion of the two-session meeting yesterday. Methods should be considered from all angles, Mrs. Crampton said, adding that it may not break the law but might not uphold policies of the PTA.

The evening session was devoted to programs and planning. The organization should take in all meetings of chairmen and committees as well as monthly meetings and plan every move carefully, Mrs. Crampton told the delegation. All programs should be based on the interests of the school and the community. Learning for adults "has to be pleasant and give satisfaction if we are to become adequate parents and citizens," she outlined.

Approximately 75 persons attended the two sessions with an interpretation of policies of the organization being explained. "These policies are easier to write than to put into practice," Mrs. Crampton said.

The sessions will continue today with meetings at the church from 10 a. m. to noon, 1:30 to 4:30 and dinner at 6 o'clock in the evening.

Varied Activities To Mark Rebekah Assembly Program

350 Attend Opening Banquet Last Night

Formal presentation of state officers to the Junior Past President today will mark the official opening of the business sessions of 41st annual Rebekah Assembly of Maryland, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, at B. P. O. Elks home, 114 South Centre Street.

Officers will be introduced to the presiding junior Past President Mrs. Helen Cathcart, of Baltimore, by Mrs. Lacy Welsh, Cumberland, marshal of the Rebekah Assembly.

The ladies auxiliary to Canton Allegany No. 4, Patriarchs Militant (military branch of the IOOF) under the command of Captain Alleda Brinkman, Westernport, will escort the officers.

State Officers Listed

The state officers are Mrs. Catherine M. Couter, Cumberland, president; Mrs. Florence F. DeBow, Baltimore, vice president; Mrs. Blanche Carey, Salisbury, warden; Mrs. Nettie Collins, Baltimore, secretary and past president; Mrs. Madeline Houseman, Baltimore, treasurer and past president; Mrs. Mildred Rhoten, Sparrows Point, conductor, Mrs. Arvada Paul, Mt. Savage, chaplain; Mrs. Rosalie McCord, Cambridge, inside guard; Mrs. Florence Waigand, Hyattsville, outside guard, Mrs. Bertie M. Ranck, Cumberland, musician; Mrs. Meredith Morris, Dundalk, color bearer; and Mrs. Welsh.

Also listed for the morning session of the assembly will be the assembly degree which will be given to Past Grands of the Subordinate Lodge and Past Noble Grands of the Rebekah Lodge.

Luncheon for officers, visiting dignitaries and members will be served at IOOF Temple, South Mechanic Street. Mrs. George Keady is chairman of the luncheon committee and will be assisted by members of Colfax Lodge No. 1, Cumberland, the host lodge.

At 2 p. m. today the regular meeting of Colfax lodge will be held at the IOOF Temple.

A memorial service in honor of deceased members of the assembly in 1950 will be conducted at the Elks Home at 3 p. m. today. Mrs. Anna Diehl, special district deputy of Zone 1, is in charge.

350 Attend Banquet

Mesdames Emma Bramble, Audrey Callis, Lake Lynn, and Idella Hartsock and Martha Weller, of Colfax, will assist in the memorial service which will conclude today's session.

Last night more than 350 persons attended the opening banquet of the assembly at Ali Ghan Shrine Club. Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney, was guest speaker and outlined the first five years of Cumberland history to his audience.

Mrs. Thurman Leasure, Cumberland, Noble Grand of Colfax Lodge, was mistress of ceremonies and invocation was presented by Rev. R. Eugene May, Flintstone.

Entertainment was supplied by the Elks Quartet, James Hager, and Rosemary Barncord, vocalist with Jimmy Andrews Orchestra, which supplied music for dancing following the banquet.

A feature of the entertainment was a tableau by members of the local lodge under direction of Mrs. Ranck. A grand march opened the dancing session.

National Head Of Rebekahs Is At Parley

The national president of the Associated Rebekah Association surprised the local Rebekah Assembly of Maryland by attending its opening banquet last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Mrs. Ethel Smith, of Salt Lake City, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Utah, and national head of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows Auxiliaries, came to Cumberland for the three-day convention which is being held in the town where the first Rebekah lodge was organized.

State President Catherine M. Couter, Cumberland, introduced the Salt Lake City woman to the more than 300 attending delegates and friends.

Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney, was the guest speaker at the banquet and gave a history of Cumberland concerning the five years of George Washington's stay here.

Stegmaier told his audience it was his task to give them inspiration for the best assembly ever held by the state lodges.

He noted the five years of Washington's life here and said "Cumberland was George Washington's West Point. Actually his mistakes here became his perfection in the Revolutionary War. Cumberland was his military training ground."

Colfax Rebekah Lodge No. 1, Cumberland, the host organization for this 41st annual convention, was instituted June 21, 1886, and Queen Esther Rebekah Lodge, Baltimore, was instituted on the following day, June 22, 1886. Ridgeley Lodge No. 3, Frostburg, was organized in October, 1886, and Adam Thompson Lodge No. 11, Lonaconing, in April, 1898. Miriam Lodge No. 16 was formed in Westernport in February, 1903, and Woldry No. 4 in Mt. Savage was chartered in April, 1909.

State Rebekah Officers Attend Banquet

State officers of the Rebekah Assembly of Maryland are among the more than 300 guests who attended the opening banquet of the 41st annual session of the group last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney, was the guest speaker, outlining the five years of George Washington's life in Cumberland and welcoming the group here for the first time in 33 years. In the front row are Mrs. Nettie Collins, Baltimore, secretary; Mrs. Catherine M. Couter, Cumberland, president; Stegmaier; Mrs. Florence F. DeBow, Baltimore, vice president; and Mrs. Blanche H. Carey, Salisbury, warden. In the back row are Mrs. Rosalie McCord, Cambridge, inside guard; Mrs. Florence Waigand, Hyattsville, outside guard; Mrs. Lacy Welsh, Cumberland, marshal; Mrs. Bertie Ranck, Cumberland, musician; Mrs. Mildred Rhoten, Sparrows Point, conductor; Mrs. Arvada Paul, Mt. Summer Rec Job Deadline Coming Soon

Hoey Sets April 13 As Final Date

All applications for summer jobs in the City Recreation Department must be submitted by Friday, April 13, Edmund F. Hoey, director, announced yesterday.

The 43 jobs will include 14 playground directors, 14 junior recreation assistants, four checkers, two cashiers and four life guards at Constitution Park pool and five play field directors.

60 Already Filed

Hoey emphasized that persons who served last year must submit new applications if they wish to be considered for the 1951 program. Some 60 applications are already on file.

The pool jobs will begin May 30 and continue until Labor Day and playgrounds and play fields wil open June 18 and close August 24.

The week's schedule of the Recreation Department includes:

Callers Class

Square Dance Callers class at City Hall Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Thursday at 7 p. m. in City Hall, registration of all softball teams which have entered or wish to enter the Recreation League.

Teams which have not received franchises and wish to enter the League are urged to have representatives at the meeting.

Seven Teams

At present the Industrial League has seven teams; Men's Recreation League, four teams and the High School League, two. Each division will have eight teams.

Thursday at 8 p. m. there will be a meeting of the Recreation Board.

The Golden Age Club will meet Friday at 2:30 p. m. in Central YMCA. Those who wish to join are urged to attend the meeting.

Riverside Park To Be Readied For Summer Use

Parking Violations Will Be Checked

Plans were made last night to halt damage to Riverside Park through illegal parking, and for fencing off part of the park to allow its use during late spring and summer.

Mrs. Margaret Findlay, a member of the Cumberland Park Board, in a conference with Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of Streets and Public Property, reported that cars parking in the area since the flood control project began have already caused damage to some of the walkways and shrubbery.

She reported that a number of vehicles have been using the park as a parking area both during the day and night.

Mrs. Roeder reported that Police Commissioner John J. Long promised full cooperation of his department in protecting the area from destruction.

Officials said "no parking" signs will be erected at once.

Also worked out, at a conference between the above officials and Mayor Thomas S. Post and Albert S. Paye, liaison engineer for the city in the Flood Project, were plans to erect a strong fence around the area now under construction in the park in connection with the flood control work.

Paye said such a fence will allow the use of about half of the park for recreation purposes during the spring and summer.

Mrs. Roeder said the Street Department will take charge of the work.

Paye said he believed the cost can be charged to the Flood Control project in order to allow the use of the park while the work is under progress there.

30 Per Cent Of Motorists Use Old Tags

North End Streets Checked In Survey

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Three out of every 10 automobiles in Cumberland possibly could not be driven if Governor Theodore R. McKeldin had not extended the deadline for use of old Maryland license plates, an informal survey on two North End streets yesterday afternoon indicated.

Of the 93 Maryland automobiles which passed along North Centre Street and North Mechanic Street during the 30-minute check only 66 bore new license tags. That figures to 70.9 per cent or just a little more than seven out of every 10 automobiles.

Originally, the old tags were to have lapsed at midnight last Saturday, but Governor McKeldin extended the deadline indefinitely because a shortage of steel has delayed delivery of some plates.

The first 15 minutes of the survey, motor vehicles were checked as they traveled north on Centre Street past Franklin Street. During that time 37 Maryland automobiles passed that spot and 23, or 62.1 per cent bore the new 1952 plates.

During the second 15-minute period cars were checked as they traveled south on Mechanic Street and it was observed that 43, or 76.8 per cent of the 56 automobiles carried the new license plates.

Twenty-seven Maryland trucks also were checked during the survey. All of those bore old plates because new truck tags originally were not required until April 30.

Informed of the survey results, Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat, who has been handling the local sale of license plates, expressed a belief that some drivers who had purchased the new plates have just not bothered to attach them yet. He noted that sales at his office dropped off yesterday to only about 125 sets. He still has about 800 of the 13,000 sets that have been delivered to him.

April Grand Jury Begins Probe Of County Cases

Judge Henderson Lauds Kefauver

Four or five indictments were returned yesterday by the April grand jury in Allegany County Circuit Court before it wound up its first day's activities about 4 p. m.

Law enforcement officials of most of the county communities were at the Court House yesterday to testify before the grand jury on specific cases and general conditions of law enforcement in the county.

The grand jury generally takes the better part of a week to conclude its investigations.

Henderson Gives Charge

Associate Judge George Henderson in his charge to the April grand jury yesterday commented on the "splendid work done by the Kefauver Committee" which is investigating crime in the United States.

The jurist said: "One of the problems that confronts our people at this time is that of rackets. The extent to which this is prevalent has been shown by the testimony before the Kefauver Committee.

"One of our Maryland Senators (Herbert R. O'Conor) has done splendid work in assisting the committee reveal to our people the sordid story of the wealth amassed by criminals, and the influence they have been able to exert on politicians to insure the continuance of their far-reaching and very profitable operations.

"You men, coming as you do from various communities in the county, may know of local racketeering. And it is within your power, by calling the proper officials, to determine whether effective steps are being taken to eradicate the trouble.

"It is improper for anyone, in official position or otherwise, to attempt to influence your decision to indict or to refuse to indict. The decision is yours alone."

Collins Is Foreman

Other men drawn for grand jury service are Frank S. Rizer, of Mt. Savage; Cecil A. Tomlinson, of Wrights Crossing; Virgil B. Amtower, Harry W. Critchfield, and Maurice N. Robinette, all of Cumberland; Blair V. Welsh, LaVale; Cecil R. Broadwater, Barton; Hugh W. Wilson, of Luke; Vincent P. DelaGrange and George C. Fey, Jr., both of Cumberland.

John M. Murphy, of Lonaconing; James M. Carter, of Eckhart; Myron S. Burkey and Charles F. Thuss, Cumberland; William Abbott, of Lonaconing; J. Arthur Weisenborn, of Eckhart; George Schwarzenbach of Cumberland; J. Glenn Beall, Jr., of Frostburg; Frank Beveridge, of Midland; David C. Price, of Frostburg; James A. W. Hugglestone, Frostburg, and Clarence J. Day, of Cumberland.

Petit Jury Listed

John E. Sharp, Jr., city; Harry T. Kalbaugh, Orville Kaslo, and George P. Dewitt, Jr., of Westernport; Robert C. Morton, city; Richard D. Johnson, of Frostburg; Ralph W. Rice, Joseph K. Mooney and Edgar L. Bucy, all of Cumberland; Alex Bogie, Sr., of Lonaconing; Carl C. Coffman, of Oldtown; William E. Lawyer, city; Marshall M. Van Meter, of Cresaptown; John W. Ritchie, of Wrights Crossing and Walter G. Delozier, city.

Benjamin B. Wilkes, of Lonaconing; Russell M. Valentine, Walter L. Wieres and James D. Heron, all of Cumberland; Charles E. Schlosser, of Cresaptown; Frank Madera and John J. Tipton, both of Cumberland; Thomas Williams, of Cresaptown; Roy Rephann, of Frostburg, and Orville G. Burkett, of Potomac Park.

After the petit jury received an outline of their duties from Judge Henderson they were excused until April 16 at 9:15 a. m. when criminal trials open.

The next two weeks the two judges will sit in cases in Garrett County Circuit Court in order to clear the docket there.

Metal Workers Organize Local

Charter Will Be Presented Tonight

Formal presentation of a charter to newly organized Local No. 537, Sheet Metal Workers' International Association, will take place this evening at 8 o'clock in the Plumbers' and Fitters' Hall, 6 Harrison Street.

The Local was organized March 5, 1951 with 31 charter members including 27 journeymen and four apprentices. H. V. Bowman, International representative, Washington, D. C., spoke to the group.

Nomination of officers was held March 5 and an election the following night.

Leo Stakem To Speak In College Contest

Leo Stakem will represent LaSalle High School in the finals of the oratorical contest to be held at LaSalle College, Philadelphia, Sunday, April 15.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stakem 414 Fayette Street, the senior gained the judges' decision over the runner-up, Joseph Fair, in an elimination contest held last Friday at the local school.

The contest in Philadelphia will be part of the commemoration of the tercentenary of the birth of St. John Baptist de LaSalle, founder of the Brothers of the Christian Schools.

First prize will be a four-year full-tuition scholarship to LaSalle College, valued at $1,600.

City's Traffic Problem Studied By South End

Naughton Outlines Proposed Remedies

Tackling the traffic problem as a whole in the city of Cumberland, Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Second National Bank, outlined various remedies to the South End Businessmen's Association yesterday, at the group's regular meeting.

Fifty-seven members of the association attended the luncheon meeting to hear Naughton's breakdown of the situation and proposed means to alleviate the situation.

Naughton told his audience he had studied various engineering and traffic surveys which had been made by interested private and engineering concerns and indicated several means by which Cumberland's most pressing problem could be relieved.

Heading the list of suggestions by Naughton was the overhead bridge with entrance ramps at Mechanic and Centre Streets. Naughton outlined the proposed routes which could be connected with the bridge and gave an estimate to the costs of the construction.

Also listed by the bank head as aids to the situation were one way traffic on Bedford and Frederick streets, integrated traffic on Henderson Avenue, automatic signal lights on Baltimore Street which could not be operated manually but which would be synchronized to operate together, a route from Oldtown along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to connect with the overhead bridge at the Western Maryland Railway station, and rerouting of traffic from Greene Street along the Potomac River to bypass the main section of town.

Moberly Will Speak

Wenrich Gets Highest Vote At Cresaptown

Bowman, Ferrone, Bird Also Win

Cresaptown voters elected two new officers to positions in the Civic Improvement Association yesterday and returned two incumbents to office. President James C. Skidmore was not on the ballot. He is completing the first year of a two year term as head of the group.

Highest number of votes received of the 110 cast went to Joseph Wenrich, incumbent water commissioner, who polled 94. Phillip Bowman, now serving as vice president, polled 60 as did Charles Bird. Frank Ferrone was also elected, with 55 votes.

Wenrich will serve a two year term. Bowman or Bird will also serve a two year period but a spokesman for the organization said last night that because of the tie vote between the two men it was impossible to determine which will be given the longer tenure in office. Ferrone will remain in office for one year. Bylaws of the group provide that the two men receiving the highest vote shall serve two years while the other two elected shall be for one year terms.

Other candidates on the ballot were Edgar Houndshell with 47 votes; Christopher Snyder with 45; Joseph Blake and Arden Varner each with 33 ballots.

Installation of officers will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the water office as a part of the regular meeting. The officers will decide which of their number will occupy positions as secretary, treasurer, vice president and water commissioner.

Election supervisors at yesterday's balloting were Mrs. Grace Hudson, chairman; Mrs. George Zeigler and Mrs. Charles Bird.

To Meet Wednesday

The Allegany-Garrett County Dental Society will meet Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. in Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

A regular business meeting will follow the dinner.

All-American Airways Route Is Recommended

The Civil Aeronautics Board Examiner recommended All-American Airways, Inc., an extension of its present route from Washington, D. C. to Atlantic City to Newark, N. J., by way of the intermediate point of Asbury Park, N. J.

CAB Examiner Richard A. Walsh reported the extension would be of general public benefit and aid military personnel at nearby Fort Monmouth as well, in recommending the extension.

All-American Airways has daily service to Cumberland, Pittsburgh, Washington, New York and other eastern points.

Western Maryland College President To Speak Here

Dr. Ensor Will Talk At Dinner On Friday

Dr. Lowell S. Ensor, college president, will be principal speaker at the Western Maryland College dinner at Centre Street Methodist Church Friday night at 7 o'clock.

The dinner will be the culmination of a series of individual organizational meetings held within the past two weeks in preparation for the kick-off of the current college fund-raising campaign in Allegany County. The campaign is part of the Western Maryland Mid-Century Advance Program.

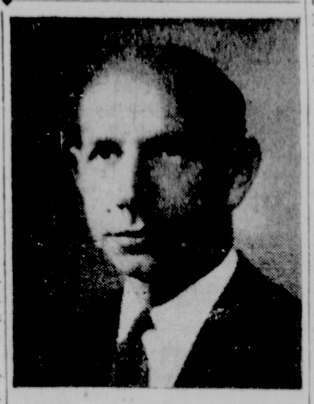

Rev. John Bayley Jones, pastor of First Methodist Church, Frostburg, and former director of public relations at Western Maryland, is the Allegany County chairman for this college-backed program.

He announced at a meeting of one of the campaign organizations last night that Dr. Ensor would be the speaker at Friday's dinner.

Other features will include music provided by members of the college student body: Miss Josephine Kompanek, Cumberland, soprano; Marilyn Hardester, Eastern Shore, contralto, and James Hager, Cumberland, tenor.

The college's nation-wide campaign for $1,500,000 got underway in January in Carroll and Frederick counties. Solicitations also have been held in the District of Columbia area and on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Already over $730,000 has been contributed and pledged.

DR. LOWELL S. ENSOR

The drive is being conducted to raise needed funds for a building and increased endowment program.

Plans are underway to build a new men's dormitory, increase the size of the present library and renovate Old Main buildings. With this program Western Maryland hopes to improve its facilities but not enlarge the enrollment.

Army Recruiter Completes 24 Years Service In City

Master Sergeant Clarence Biehn, U. S. Army Recruiting Service, marks the 24th anniversary of recruiting in Cumberland today. It was on April 3, 1927 that Biehn reported to this city.

When Biehn who now possesses nine "hash marks", came to Cumberland, the recruiting office was located at 52 Baltimore Street. Later it was moved to 131 Baltimore Street where it remained until June 30, 1933 when his office was moved to the newly-constructed Post Office Building.

When the recruiting office closed on January 4, 1944, Sergeant Biehn reported to Fifth Regiment Armory Baltimore where he was put in charge of pre-inductees. Two years later he went to Camp George G Meade, and in September 1947 he returned to Cumberland.

On July 2 of this year he will have completed 30 years service with the U. S. Army but plans to remain in the service until his enlistment expiration date on September 27, when he will receive his discharge.

In 1923 he left the service for a period of four years. He reenlisted in 1927 and was later assigned to the office in Cumberland.

In World War II, two of his sons entered the service. One a gunner and the other a mechanic in the U. S. Army Air Force. Though his original residence is Chicago, Ill. Sergeant Biehn said last night he plans to make his home here in Cumberland upon retirement.

Consultant Stresses Value To PTA Of Good Budgets

Mrs. Anne C. Crampton, field consultant for National Congress of Parents and Teachers from the State of Washington, stressed the importance of PTA budgets at the Parent-Teacher Leadership Institute of District No. 1, yesterday at Centre Street Methodist Church.

Pointing out that necessary funds for representation at annual state conventions, conferences and workshops is vitally important, Mrs. Crampton stated that representation should be adequate—certainly including the association's president and as many other leaders as possible.

Different methods of money raising were discussed at the afternoon portion of the two-session meeting yesterday. Methods should be considered from all angles, Mrs. Crampton said, adding that it may not break the law but might not uphold policies of the PTA.

The evening session was devoted to programs and planning. The organization should take in all meetings of chairmen and committees as well as monthly meetings and plan every move carefully, Mrs. Crampton told the delegation. All programs should be based on the interests of the school and the community. Learning for adults "has to be pleasant and give satisfaction if we are to become adequate parents and citizens," she outlined.

Approximately 75 persons attended the two sessions with an interpretation of policies of the organization being explained. "These policies are easier to write than to put into practice," Mrs. Crampton said.

The sessions will continue today with meetings at the church from 10 a. m. to noon, 1:30 to 4:30 and dinner at 6 o'clock in the evening.
